ATTACKS STATEMENT

RE BRUSSELS STREET

AND CITY ROAD WORK

Commissioner Jones Makes Statement in Answer to Mr. Wigmore—Work Still Being Done

With reference to statements made by R. W. Wigmore, M. P., at the Rotary Club last evening, Commissioner Jones, head of the water and sewerage department said this morning that so soon as the water and sewerage work which is now being done in Brussels street and City road is completed, the services will be in as good condition as in any street in the city.

In City road the old 12-inch water pipe which was laid there sixty-two years ago has been replaced by a 16-inch main along its entire length and the work on the service pipes is now being proceeded with. In Brussels street the old ten-inch main which has been in service for eighty-one years, has been replaced by a new 16-inch pipe.

With regard to sewerage, the wood sewer which extends along Brussels street from Exmouth to the Marsh bridge, has been reconstructed and recovered, while the terra cotta pipe which is in use in the upper end of the street was found to be in good condition and the whole sewerage system, both in this street and in City road, was considered safe for at least another generation.

In both streets, the water main outlets to all the cross streets have been renewed and are in good condition. The commissioner said that this work was done on the recommendation and under the supervision of the same engineers who were the responsible officials during the time that Mr. Wigmore was a member of the council.

With regard to Douglas avenue, it was said that the old wooden sewer had been removed and the terra cotta pipe laid in its place and the 12-inch water main along the entire length of the street was in good shape. A section of 10-inch pipe had been replaced with the same size in the rest of the service. In the question of service pipes to vacant lots it was said that it has not been practical to lay service pipes until property owners made application to have them laid, as the position of houses, etc., would govern the location of them.

It was suggested by a citizen this morning that last evening's speech was the zero hour which opened the barrage for the next civic campaign.

The Lamp Should Be Decorative as Well as Useful

While its function as a source of light is very essential, the almost unlimited possibilities of the lamp in the decorative scheme of home furnishing make its careful selection of first importance.

The lamp is the first thing you see when you enter the room. In daylight hours it provides the touch of color and variety of proportion which make for effective furnishing. Lighted, its soft glow dignifies and lends elegance to the surroundings. It should be chosen with thoughtful consideration for its effectiveness under both conditions.

This store has lamps of all types—Floor Lamps, Piano Lamps, Library Lamps, Reading Lamps, and wonderful shades of individual creation for each and every purpose.

When you contemplate the selection of a lamp to contribute to the beauty and comfort of your home, we sincerely believe you will find it to your best interest to come and see our comprehensive showing.
