GRIFFITH REFUSES TO AWARD THE PENNANT
Contents That Washington Has Good Chance for American League Flag

Washington, Aug. 16.—Clark Griffith, whose Washington team, holding third position in the American League race, was just four and a half games behind the Boston Red Sox, refuses to concede the pennant to the bean-eaters. Griffith has been studying the playing schedule up to Labor Day, when the championship season in both major leagues will be concluded, and he has come to the conclusion that the Washingtons have a good fighting chance to win a place in the world's series.

The Old Fox argues that the Washingtons should make up some of the ground that separates them from the leaders in five games yet to be played with the Athletics. He also points to the fact that the Red Sox must play three more games with the Highlanders. Griffith seems to think that the Washingtons will also gain on the bean-eaters in the series with the four Western teams here, beginning with the Tigers on Wednesday.

Refused $7,500 to Play Ball
"Davy" Robertson, the former brilliant outfielder for the New York Giants, has refused an offer of $7,500 to play base ball. He is serving with the Mine Sweepers. He is doing this willingly, too.
That is another example of the self sacrifice of ball players.
All cannot do that sort of thing, but there are many ways of helping in the Great Cause. A three weeks' holiday on a farm will give you a chance to do some good, and give that old conscience an easy feeling.
This is everybody's war. Help some.

WILLIE KEELER'S BAT RECORD NEVER HAS BEEN EQUALLED
Many years have passed since Willie Keeler flashed his greatness in major league baseball, but none of the stars since his time has been able to better a batting performance of Keeler back in 1887. In that campaign Keeler went to the game of June 19 before a pitcher who held him hitless, Frank Killen of the Pirates turning the trick. Keeler previously had connected safely in each of the forty-four games played by the Baltimore club. His batting average over this stretch of games was .405, his hit collection including 65 singles, 8 doubles and 9 triples in 201 times at bat. Ty Cobb came close to the record in 1911, when he went forty games without missing his hit. Ed Walsh of the White Sox being the boxman who halted Cobb's advance against the

WILSON A TRUE CELT, SO SAYS T. P. O'CONNOR
President Wilson is not nearly so severe as he looks in photographs; he is predominately Celt, with only a touch of Scotch caution. Such at least is the impression formed by T. P. O'Connor and written for the Associated Press before he left New York for England after a year's work here.
Here is his most important conclusion:
"If any one or all of the European nations should in war weariness show any sign of accepting an inconclusive peace America would keep on, even if he had to stand alone. Wherever else the Germans may look for a spirit of compromise they cannot look for it, or even for an approach to it, from the people of the United States."
Of the president he writes:
"Among the experiences I recollect with the greatest pleasure were two interviews with the president, and especially an interview I had with him immediately before my departure. I had been a student of his writings and speeches for many years, and though I had never met him before I felt as if I were acquainted with his thought and temperament."
"I must add that my personal interviews with him had, however, the effect of changing some of the impressions which are suggested by his public appearance and especially by his photographs. The president of the living flesh and blood, seen close at hand, are almost contradictory. The severity of feature in the photograph entirely disappears when you are seated opposite him."
"Let me sum up my impressions from a private interview by saying that he is a man of perfect simplicity, transparent sincerity, rigid adhesion to well thought out principles and almost Celtic impulsiveness and warmth of feeling."
