

MEAN WHO HAVE WHEELS.

Big Gathering of Cyclists at the Fall Meeting of the Victoria Club.

Three Records for British Columbia Established—some Pretty Races.

Those who attended the fall meet of the Victoria Wheelmen's Club at Oak Bay track on Saturday afternoon were rewarded by seeing the fastest bicycle riding ever done in British Columbia.

The day was rather threatening, but still over two thousand people turned out to witness the racing.

The three records broken were as follows: One mile, paced, class B, Eli Winesett, 2:15.35.

One mile, paced, class A, C. F. Barker, 2:22.25.

The opening race was the quarter mile. James Deeming, Barker of Vancouver, and Bradley and Johnson qualified.

Johnson beat Barker, and took third place. The time was 2:22.25.

The opening race was the quarter mile. James Deeming, Barker of Vancouver, and Bradley and Johnson qualified.

Johnson beat Barker, and took third place. The time was 2:22.25.

The opening race was the quarter mile. James Deeming, Barker of Vancouver, and Bradley and Johnson qualified.

Johnson beat Barker, and took third place. The time was 2:22.25.

The opening race was the quarter mile. James Deeming, Barker of Vancouver, and Bradley and Johnson qualified.

Johnson beat Barker, and took third place. The time was 2:22.25.

The opening race was the quarter mile. James Deeming, Barker of Vancouver, and Bradley and Johnson qualified.

Johnson beat Barker, and took third place. The time was 2:22.25.

The opening race was the quarter mile. James Deeming, Barker of Vancouver, and Bradley and Johnson qualified.

Johnson beat Barker, and took third place. The time was 2:22.25.

The opening race was the quarter mile. James Deeming, Barker of Vancouver, and Bradley and Johnson qualified.

a bunch of eight starters all the way round to the last turn, when Barker, Vancouver, passed him and took first.

There were eighteen entries in the 2:45 class and the following qualified: Gray, Nanaimo; Spain, Vancouver; Wright and Essey.

AHEAD OF TIME. New York, Sept. 14.—R. P. Seale, the bicyclist who left Chicago at 4 o'clock last Sunday morning, arrived in New York at 3:35 a.m. to-day, 3 hours and 35 minutes ahead of the best previous record for a cycling run between these two cities.

YACHTING. New York, Sept. 13.—Yacht Valkyrie III, left her anchorage at Bay Ridge this morning and reached Erie Basin at about 9:30.

On her arrival at the Basin she was hailed into position between two steamers, just outside the dry dock, where she had several things been dried out for cleaning and repairing purposes.

The crew, in command of Captains C. G. and S. G. M. M. M., immediately set to strip the yacht and prepare her for her voyage home.

The afternoon play was started at 2:10. Mitchell and Hemmingway resumed their stand at the wickets. H. I. Brown relieved Noble of the bowling.

London, Sept. 13.—In his yachting column the Pall Mall Gazette says: "I hope that Lord Durraven will consent to sail for the proposed cup off Marblehead, as all are anxious to see the comparative merits of the yachts tested, and may the best boat win."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

way. C. E. Wilson, W. W. Lowe, F. A. Phillips, J. C. Hartley, University of Pennsylvania—G. I. Parterson, E. W. Clarke, F. H. Boden, H. I. Brown, C. Coates, Jr., W. Goodman, W. Beckie, J. S. Clarke, E. W. Ralston, H. C. Thayer, W. W. Noble, The umpires are A. H. Collins, of Toronto, and J. Pace, the well known coach of the Belmont Club. Play was begun at 11:20 a.m., Mitchell and Hill defending the wickets. Mitchell first faced the bowling of Patterson. Ralston was wicket-keeper. Mitchell hit the first ball bowled for a single. Hill scored a moment later with a drive to the boundary, off Clark. When the visitors had collected a total of 51, Goodman relieved Clark. At 12 o'clock the Englishmen had made 60 runs with no one out. Noble relieved Goodman at 12:20.

At that hour the visitors held the remarkable score of 73 runs without the loss of a wicket. A few minutes later E. W. Clarke relieved Patterson. The first man to retire was Hill, who was caught by Noble off Clarke's bowling; score 58 for one wicket. Hemmingway succeeded in getting a four by a put up at 12:45 on four bays. Clarke bowled but a few balls when he was relieved by Patterson. When play was called at 1 o'clock for lunch the Englishmen had made 121 runs. Hemmingway had made 18, not out, and Mitchell 48, not out.

The afternoon play was started at 2:10. Mitchell and Hemmingway resumed their stand at the wickets. H. I. Brown relieved Noble of the bowling.

London, Sept. 13.—In his yachting column the Pall Mall Gazette says: "I hope that Lord Durraven will consent to sail for the proposed cup off Marblehead, as all are anxious to see the comparative merits of the yachts tested, and may the best boat win."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

The St. James Gazette says: "Once again a great Anglo-American sporting contest has ended in a fiasco and quarrel, not an unusual experience."

NANAIMO'S EXHIBITION.

The District Agricultural Society Hold Their Second Annual Fair.

Exhibits Not Numerous, but of Good Quality—List of Prize Winners.

Nanaimo, Sept. 14.—The Nanaimo District Agricultural and Horticultural Society held their second annual exhibition in the pavilion at the Public park yesterday and to-day. The exhibits were few but were first-class in every respect. The event was not as extensively advertised as it might have been, and consequently but few people from a distance attended.

The artists of Nanaimo had in position a number of handsome paintings in oil, crayon and water colors. They were of sufficient merit to prove conclusively that Nanaimo is not without artistic talent.

Possibly the most picturesque and best arranged exhibits in the pavilion were those of flowers and plants. A. C. Wilson, of the Comox Road Nursery, did not a little towards the success of the exhibition by his large and tasteful exhibit of choice plants.

The ladies must not be forgotten. Their display is so interesting, particularly to the members of their own sex, that the largest number of the visitors were to be seen around their table.

James Patterson, of Cranberry district, has been the most successful exhibitor, no less than six first prizes having fallen to his share.

The Union Brewery had an exhibit of their produce in kegs and bottles, while the Pioneer Soda Water Works have a tastefully arranged collection of aerated and mineral waters.

Below is the prize list in full: Apples, 12 varieties—1st, James Patterson; 2d, Samuel York.

Six Golden Russet apples—1st, John Perry; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Baldwin apples—1st, James Patterson; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Ben Davis apples—1st, James Shaw; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Northern Spy apples—1st, James Patterson; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Golden Russet apples—1st, John Perry; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Baldwin apples—1st, James Patterson; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Ben Davis apples—1st, James Shaw; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Northern Spy apples—1st, James Patterson; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Golden Russet apples—1st, John Perry; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Baldwin apples—1st, James Patterson; 2d, W. Peden.

Six Ben Davis apples—1st, James Shaw; 2d, W. Peden.

goods valued at $4. W. M. Langton—1st, G. Pannell; 2nd, H. Crowe.

Best foliage plants in pots—prize, year's subscription to the Free Press, valued, $5. V. G. Morris—1st, H. Crowe; 2nd, G. Pannell.

Best collection of ferns, prize, 1 dozen champagne elder, value $2.50. E. Lawrence—1st, H. Crowe; 2nd, G. Pannell.

Best bouquet of cut flowers—1st, Mrs. M. H. Eaton; 2nd, M. Brown.

Best bouquet of wild flowers—1st, M. H. Eaton; 2nd, M. Brown.

Best collection of dahlias, not less than 15 prizes, half sovereign, $2.50. Thomas O'Connell, Commercial Hotel—1st, G. Pannell; 2nd, H. Crowe.

Best box of asters, not less than 12—1st, W. Hunter; 2nd, M. Bate.

Best bouquet of cut flowers—1st, Mrs. M. H. Eaton; 2nd, M. Brown.

Best collection of dahlias, not less than 15 prizes, half sovereign, $2.50. Thomas O'Connell, Commercial Hotel—1st, G. Pannell; 2nd, H. Crowe.

Best box of asters, not less than 12—1st, W. Hunter; 2nd, M. Bate.

Best bouquet of cut flowers—1st, Mrs. M. H. Eaton; 2nd, M. Brown.

Best collection of dahlias, not less than 15 prizes, half sovereign, $2.50. Thomas O'Connell, Commercial Hotel—1st, G. Pannell; 2nd, H. Crowe.

Best box of asters, not less than 12—1st, W. Hunter; 2nd, M. Bate.

Best bouquet of cut flowers—1st, Mrs. M. H. Eaton; 2nd, M. Brown.

Best collection of dahlias, not less than 15 prizes, half sovereign, $2.50. Thomas O'Connell, Commercial Hotel—1st, G. Pannell; 2nd, H. Crowe.

Best box of asters, not less than 12—1st, W. Hunter; 2nd, M. Bate.

Best bouquet of cut flowers—1st, Mrs. M. H. Eaton; 2nd, M. Brown.

Best collection of dahlias, not less than 15 prizes, half sovereign, $2.50. Thomas O'Connell, Commercial Hotel—1st, G. Pannell; 2nd, H. Crowe.

Best box of asters, not less than 12—1st, W. Hunter; 2nd, M. Bate.

Best bouquet of cut flowers—1st, Mrs. M. H. Eaton; 2nd, M. Brown.

Best collection of dahlias, not less than 15 prizes, half sovereign, $2.50. Thomas O'Connell, Commercial Hotel—1st, G. Pannell; 2nd, H. Crowe.

Best box of asters, not less than 12—1st, W. Hunter; 2nd, M. Bate.

ad to Laughing Brook. Old Woman That Scolded her daughter attempted to murder Laughing Brook and Wild Flower to get the secret. Laughing Brook died, but before her death told her daughter that the treasure was buried in a cave on the east bank of the Scioto river, about one mile south of where the village of Bellepoint now stands.

Wild Flower fled after her mother's death, married the Wyandott chief, and went west with him. In the autumn of 1872 she adopted a white girl baby whose tribe had stolen a wealthy family in Illinois. The baby never knew her parents and believed herself to be a true Indian until the autumn of 1883, when Wild Flower told her the story of her birth and also the story of the treasure cave, which she had never told to a living soul.

The girl's name among the Indians was "Deermedia," meaning "Like the Dove," but the name her parents had given her was Nellie.

After hearing the remarkable story of Wild Flower, Miss Nellie made up her mind that she would, in the spring, seek out the cave on the banks of the Scioto river, with the money try and find her parents among her own people. Nellie had a good education, having attended the Indian school for many years, and was, besides, very pretty. She had a friend, an Indian girl, 45 years old, who had been her companion from childhood. He would not listen to her going alone, so she told him of the treasure cave, and they came to Delaware on April, 1884.

After resting in Delaware for a day or two, Miss Nellie and her old friend, the Indian, went to the country in the vicinity of Bellepoint, and procured board and lodging at a farmhouse close to where the supposed hidden treasure was to be found. They spent most of their time on the river in a canoe, examining the banks and looking for the cave until they were regarded with suspicion by the good country folks. They kept the canoe in a safe place. One morning after a heavy rain they went in their boat on the river as usual, hunting for some trace of the cave. The river had risen to a great height and was bank full. A floating log, denuding the trail craft. The Indian was thrown out of the boat, and striking on his head on a floating log, met his death.

Nellie would have been drowned had she not been seen by one of a party of campers, who had strayed from his camp at Millville, to float down the stream in a boat watching out for wild ducks. Before she sank the second time the hunter pulled her into his boat. Her companion introduced him to Nellie and Dave Norton, of Delaware. He took her to his boarding house and promised to find the body of the Indian, but was unsuccessful.

Days of acquaintance with Nellie ripened into love. Nellie reciprocated. They took up the hunt for the cave together, but the high water had washed away all traces of the cave, and to this day the treasure is unknown. Shortly after this Dave and Nellie were married, and with the assistance of Ben S. Lee she has been able to find her relatives, who are prominent and wealthy people of Chicago.

FACTS ABOUT ENGLISH. A French Philologist's Study of the English Language. In a very recent volume, "Race and Language," Prof. Andre Lefevre, of Paris, has presented a critical study of the origin of languages, showing in a masterly way how the evolution of tongues is related to the evolution of man. Some of the statements with reference to our own language are exceedingly interesting, quoting, as he does, statistics collected by different individuals. Turner among them.

The Saxon element has to some extent given place to the German and Latin in our language, and out of 1,000 words used by King Alfred one-fifth are now obsolete. It has been shown by actual counting of the words by M. Thomsen that out of 43,000 words, 30,000 come from the classical languages and 13,000 from the German.

"Now of those 30,000 French or Latin words," says Prof. Lefevre, "which are entirely Anglo-Saxon in pronunciation, more than a third are but doubles of Saxon words. Hence there is an infinite wealth of synonyms that are applicable to the subtlest variations of the same idea. The Teutonic element predominates in all that relates to the product of nature, minerals, plants, living animals, to the structure of the human body, to temperature, to atmospheric phenomena, in the names of animals, furniture and tools. All which marks the relations of words to each other, articles, prepositions, conjunctions, are Saxon. Politics, law, social functions, wealth, honors, philosophy, art, science, trade, and cooking, derive their terms from French and Latin. Poetry uses Saxon words by preference, and this it is which renders it so difficult for foreigners to understand; there are two languages in England, and he must know them both who would read Shakespeare and Byron.

AN ARMY OF MOONS. The Earth May Have Hundreds of Them Unseen to the Eye. Astronomers conceive it to be possible for the earth, under certain circumstances, to capture as satellites some of the roving meteoric bodies known to be numerous in space, instead of bringing them to the surface as aerolites. As these bodies are too small to be seen from a mass of 100 tons being invisible at 8000 or 10000 miles when brightly lighted—the earth may be actually attended by hundreds of invisible moons. Sir J. Herschel was even of opinion that such moons may not only do exist, but they may be large enough to be visible for brief intervals when beyond the earth's shadow; and Sir John Lubbock has supplied formulae for calculating the distances from observations of the kind. M. Peit, director of the Observatory of Toncinnati Commercial Gazette says: "In the year 1902 the land that now comprises Delaware County, O., was the hunting grounds of the Delaware Indians. The Sachem Neochester, a Moon Chief, had two wives, 'Laughing Brook,' who had a daughter named 'Wild Flower,' whose lover was a young chief of the Wyandott tribe. The second wife was named 'Old Woman That Scolded.' She also had a daughter, 'Fleet as the Wind,' who was also in love with the Wyandott chief, who preferred Wild Flower.

The old Sachem possessed a great treasure, the secret of which he confided to Laughing Brook. Old Woman That Scolded and her daughter attempted to murder Laughing Brook and Wild Flower to get the secret. Laughing Brook died, but before her death told her daughter that the treasure was buried in a cave on the east bank of the Scioto river, about one mile south of where the village of Bellepoint now stands. Wild Flower fled after her mother's death, married the Wyandott chief, and went west with him. In the autumn of 1872 she adopted a white girl baby whose tribe had stolen a wealthy family in Illinois. The baby never knew her parents and believed herself to be a true Indian until the autumn of 1883, when Wild Flower told her the story of her birth and also the story of the treasure cave, which she had never told to a living soul. The girl's name among the Indians was "Deermedia," meaning "Like the Dove," but the name her parents had given her was Nellie. After hearing the remarkable story of Wild Flower, Miss Nellie made up her mind that she would, in the spring, seek out the cave on the banks of the Scioto river, with the money try and find her parents among her own people. Nellie had a good education, having attended the Indian school for many years, and was, besides, very pretty. She had a friend, an Indian girl, 45 years old, who had been her companion from childhood. He would not listen to her going alone, so she told him of the treasure cave, and they came to Delaware on April, 1884. After resting in Delaware for a day or two, Miss Nellie and her old friend, the Indian, went to the country in the vicinity of Bellepoint, and procured board and lodging at a farmhouse close to where the supposed hidden treasure was to be found. They spent most of their time on the river in a canoe, examining the banks and looking for the cave until they were regarded with suspicion by the good country folks. They kept the canoe in a safe place. One morning after a heavy rain they went in their boat on the river as usual, hunting for some trace of the cave. The river had risen to a great height and was bank full. A floating log, denuding the trail craft. The Indian was thrown out of the boat, and striking on his head on a floating log, met his death. Nellie would have been drowned had she not been seen by one of a party of campers, who had strayed from his camp at Millville, to float down the stream in a boat watching out for wild ducks. Before she sank the second time the hunter pulled her into his boat. Her companion introduced him to Nellie and Dave Norton, of Delaware. He took her to his boarding house and promised to find the body of the Indian, but was unsuccessful. Days of acquaintance with Nellie ripened into love. Nellie reciprocated. They took up the hunt for the cave together, but the high water had washed away all traces of the cave, and to this day the treasure is unknown. Shortly after this Dave and Nellie were married, and with the assistance of Ben S. Lee she has been able to find her relatives, who are prominent and wealthy people of Chicago.

BETTER THAN A NOVEL. Because it is Shorter and it May be Just as True. A Delaware, Ohio, special to the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette says: "In the year 1902 the land that now comprises Delaware County, O., was the hunting grounds of the Delaware Indians. The Sachem Neochester, a Moon Chief, had two wives, 'Laughing Brook,' who had a daughter named 'Wild Flower,' whose lover was a young chief of the Wyandott tribe. The second wife was named 'Old Woman That Scolded.' She also had a daughter, 'Fleet as the Wind,' who was also in love with the Wyandott chief, who preferred Wild Flower. The old Sachem possessed a great treasure, the secret of which he confided to Laughing Brook. Old Woman That Scolded and her daughter attempted to murder Laughing Brook and Wild Flower to get the secret. Laughing Brook died, but before her death told her daughter that the treasure was buried in a cave on the east bank of the Scioto river, about one mile south of where the village of Bellepoint now stands. Wild Flower fled after her mother's death, married the Wyandott chief, and went west with him. In the autumn of 1872 she adopted a white girl baby whose tribe had stolen a wealthy family in Illinois. The baby never knew her parents and believed herself to be a true Indian until the autumn of 1883, when Wild Flower told her the story of her birth and also the story of the treasure cave, which she had never told to a living soul. The girl's name among the Indians was "Deermedia," meaning "Like the Dove," but the name her parents had given her was Nellie. After hearing the remarkable story of Wild Flower, Miss Nellie made up her mind that she would, in the spring, seek out the cave on the banks of the Scioto river, with the money try and find her parents among her own people. Nellie had a good education, having attended the Indian school for many years, and was, besides, very pretty. She had a friend, an Indian girl, 45 years old, who had been her companion from childhood. He would not listen to her going alone, so she told him of the treasure cave, and they came to Delaware on April, 1884. After resting in Delaware for a day or two, Miss Nellie and her old friend, the Indian, went to the country in the vicinity of Bellepoint, and procured board and lodging at a farmhouse close to where the supposed hidden treasure was to be found. They spent most of their time on the river in a canoe, examining the banks and looking for the cave until they were regarded with suspicion by the good country folks. They kept the canoe in a safe place. One morning after a heavy rain they went in their boat on the river as usual, hunting for some trace of the cave. The river had risen to a great height and was bank full. A floating log, denuding the trail craft. The Indian was thrown out of the boat, and striking on his head on a floating log, met his death. Nellie would have been drowned had she not been seen by one of a party of campers, who had strayed from his camp at Millville, to float down the stream in a boat watching out for wild ducks. Before she sank the second time the hunter pulled her into his boat. Her companion introduced him to Nellie and Dave Norton, of Delaware. He took her to his boarding house and promised to find the body of the Indian, but was unsuccessful. Days of acquaintance with Nellie ripened into love. Nellie reciprocated. They took up the hunt for the cave together, but the high water had washed away all traces of the cave, and to this day the treasure is unknown. Shortly after this Dave and Nellie were married, and with the assistance of Ben S. Lee she has been able to find her relatives, who are prominent and wealthy people of Chicago.

THE NEW GOLD BOND ISSUE. President Cleveland Said to Be Negotiating With the Rothschilds. Washington City, Sept. 16.—The treasury department was not advised of the withdrawal of the deposits of $1,000,000 in gold in the sub-treasury at the close of business was $96,322,554. New York Sept. 16.—Yesterday's excitement over the financial situation, engendered by the impression that the bond syndicate had withdrawn its proffer from the government gold reserve, was succeeded by a calm to-day. There were no developments to add to the uneasiness, and consequently the feeling died down. When banking hours closed at noon there had been no deposits of gold at the sub-treasury of any of the city banks in furtherance of the policy begun yesterday, and on the other hand there had been no withdrawal for shipment, as no steamer sailed on Sunday. It was reported that the National City Bank had given the syndicate $1,000,000 in gold in exchange for greenbacks, but the report could not be confirmed. In the absence of the president, and J. Pierpont Morgan declined to say whether it was true or not. In banking circles it was said that gold in the syndicate received some $1,000,000 from the National City Bank, but it had no more gold on hand at present. Gold certificates, about $3,000,000 in all, are not cancelled when paid in by the syndicate, and therefore appear in the treasurer's statement of assets yesterday. For the convenience of the syndicate in making deposits they are allowed to be re-issued, the deposits being treated as cash. Representatives of Pittsburg and Rochester banks made an offer to deposit $1,000,000 in gold in the sub-treasury to help keep the gold reserve intact, the offer being accompanied by the proposition that the government pay the expenses of the gold in exchange. The consensus of opinion here is that an issue of bonds before congress has had an opportunity to act is extremely improbable. It is argued that the making a red hot row between the railroads interested in the business, and from the present indications the latter fight will be the hotter of the two. The Missouri & Kansas is said to have bought up a large number of tickets of the most famous international sporting trophy, the America's cup, have formed the principal topics of discussion in London the last few days. It must be admitted that the London newspapers, and the polite assurance of such a power in the yachting world as Mr. Ormond, vice-commodore of the Royal Yacht Squadron, that American yachts and yachtsmen will always be welcome here, that this will not be the case. There has always been a feeling here against Americans, as has fairly been shown in all recent international contests. Every American who has lived for any length of time in England must have become familiar with this feeling, which crops out on all occasions. The former American ambassador, who was one of the most popular men who ever came to England, and who was received on terms of greater intimacy by the most exclusive circles in England than any of his successors, once said, alluding to an article in the St. James' Gazette, a paper which has always been noted for its hostility to Americans: "I regard the paper as a true exponent of the feeling of the British people with regard to America. They do not like us, and it is no use trying to persuade ourselves otherwise."

CRICKET. PLAYING THE QUAKERS. Wisahocken Heights, Pa., Sept. 13.—There was abundant promise of a splendid cricket day on the grounds of the Philadelphia Cricket Club this morning when the match between Oxford and Cambridge, past and present, and the University of Pennsylvania, past and present, was inaugurated. The local college was supremely confident of victory before the match began, and their chances are largely bettered by the absence of N. F. Bruce, one of the most formidable bats of the English team. Mr. Bruce became indisposed in Canada, where he had been visiting, and he was unable to compete in the present match. The wickets were hard and fast, and conducive to scoring for the team going first to bat. This privilege went to the visiting team. The wickets were Oxford and Cambridge—V. T. Hill, F. Mitchell, F. W. Milligan, R. A. Studd, H. A. Arkwright, W. W. Robinson, W. M. Hemmingway.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder. World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

but FRESH, ES than ever.

s and Hatters, Johnson Street.

fort was no less preceding it. Medium height and dark hair and strength of character and individuality of an affection and arn the difference as to weigh them that they can reconciliation is tion. She wishes h race in truth a CAMPAIGN. Their Master's Press.

nce the emperor's socialists, the seizers and the arrest incidents of al

Among the papers are the Bresla Volk Volkswill, the Kiel Volks

res of papers at Munich prov Bavarian govern to join in the anti

The Vossische warns the government attacks upon The ministers holidays and is decided anti-socialist

Count von Buitow with having Emperor William his sovereignty a repressive enact-paper declares chancellor. Prince in his office if the on the introduc-ures. Seeing the local authorities are emperor has given is becoming more is decided to expel from the country. predicts the ad-dictatorship. The great Italophone ptember 20, the an- of Italian troops has sent most of the Kaiser. In- which have the approval of Prince MINISCE. Death Kept in the Public.

endent cables: One and pathetic of which, so far as my entirely unknown in quent insertion in the newspapers of the anniversary on the loved one's death, notice in many cases mourning father or who came to the following notice, graph's death column a shock. It will be young Hamburg in a bullet through his friend and tutor, fected by blood with stigmatised families