K.—What did you pay for that handkerchief?

M.—I paid $10 for it.

K.—That's too much money to blow in.

K.—What's the difference between a horse and the U. S. Navy?

M.—One has a mane and the other hasn't.

M.—Why were horseless carriages first used in the South?

K.—Because mules are plentiful there.

Kate—We've a colored washwoman who can lift a washtub of clothes on top of her head.

M.—She must be awfully strong.

K.—She was when she first came, but we're used to her now.

M.—What's the difference between Madame Albani and a chamber-maid?

K.—What is the difference?

M.—One is a sweet singer and the other is a sheet slinger.
