The January meeting of the municipal council was sheld Tuesday afternoon in the large room in the Court House. It took the councillors four hours to get through with the business which came up, some of the members speaking a score of times. Warden McGoldrick, who presided, occupled the judge's seat. The committee recommended that the lieu-The committee recommended that the lieutenant governor in council be memorialized to repeal the law relating to the registration of marriages, births and deaths, as it is unsatisfactory and exceedingly expensive. They also recommended that they be authorized to institute and direct legal proceedings against all or any defaulters for taxes in the parishes of this municipality. That the amount to the credit of the peddlers' license fund account, and the board of examiners of lumber surveyors' account, be examiners of lumber surveyors distributed as by law directed.

The first portion of the report met with no opposition, but there was long discussion over the proposal to repea! the law as to the registration of births, marriages and deaths.

Coun. Maxwell moved that this

That with reference to the necessity of increased accommodation in the jail, and the enforcement of hard labor sentences therein, the committee have held several meetings for the consideration of these matters, and on two occasions held a joint meeting with the committee appointed to act with the sheriff in regard to hard labor sentences in the jail; and also held a conference with the Hon. William Pugsley, attorney general, for the purpose of ascertaining his view upon two questions, namely:

First—As to whether the provincial government would favorably consider the institution and maintenance of a central provincial prison for short term prisoners. The attorney general expresses the opinion that, as there were no complaints from the other municipalities, it is doubtful if this idea could be carried out.

Second—As to the question of obtaining necessary legislation for the enforcement of hard labor sentences in the jail, the attorney general expressed his willingness to as-

The committee recommend that the committee on bills for the legislature be authorized to prepare a bill to be presented at the next session of the legislature, to provide for the more efficient carrying out and anforcing of hard labor sentences in the jail, and that the secretary be authorized to publish the necessary notice of the presentation of the said bill.

The committee after having carefully considered the matter of jail improvements, recommend that the jail be enlarged by the erection of a new addition thereto, and that the committee be authorized to employ an architect to make plans, specifications and estimated cost of the proposed new addition, and also a better system of heating and improving the sanitary conditions of the present jail. The committee to report at the next meeting of this council.

the committee, moved the adoption of the report, in doing which he declared that the time had arrived for the council to take action with reference to the jail. Coun. Baxter suggested an amendment to the effect that the committee invite competitive plans, those accepted only to be paid for.

Coun. McMulkin had no objection to this Then the report was taken up The recitals co tion by section. The recitais contained in the first three paragraphs were adopted.

When it came to the recommendaion with regard to hard labor sentences, Coun. Christie objected, He said he did not believe the council would ever attempt to enforce the same. To talk of attaching the ball and shackle was going too far. It would not be done in this enlightened age. The jail was good enough for the majority of those who went there. as was shown by their anxiety to get

Coun. Baxter did not see why the prisoners could not be employed, and that was what the committee had in There should, he maintained, be better accommodation for those who went there who had not been proven guilty of any crime. Coun. Millidge considered the jail too comfortable for some people. Some almost lived in it. Still debtors and those sent in on remand should not be mixed up with the hard criminals.

Coun. Christie wanted to know how it was proposed to employ the people. It would cost too much to take stone to the jail yard for them to Coun. Macrae said there were two acts with reference to hard labor sentences. What was sought was power to make rules for the same. Coun. McMulkin said it was not proposed to put the men on the streets with ball and chain attachments. The jail was overcrowded and the committee were anxious to have the authorities given power to pu the men to work. If one or two ran away it would not be a serious loss. The section was adopted.

The section dealing with jail im provements was then taken up. Coun. Baxter moved for the am endment of the section so as to provide for competitive plans, those accepted alone to be paid for. Coun. Daniel said this section, adopted, would bind the council the jail. He suggested change which would avoid this. Coun. Baxter proposer to amen

If this amendment were agreed to nothing would be done. Some members favored enlarging the jail others thought the present place should be abandoned and a new fail built, and others seemed to think that the jail as it was would suffice. The cost of the addition would be about $7,000 or $8,000. Then there would be Couns. Christie and Armstrong followed. The latter did not consider the jail as bad as some people tried to make it out.

Finally Coun. McMulkin moved the adoption of the report. Coun. Baxter moved his amend ment as last framed, including the invitation for competitive plans. The amendment carried, and the remainder of the report was adopted. The secretary read correspondence which had taken place between Senator Ellis and the recorder relative to James Ross of St. Martins, who hopes soon to celebrate the one hundred and tenth anniversary of his birthday. Senator Ellis wrote Warden McGoldrick some time since, stating that his attention had been called to the matter, with the suggestion that some Mr recognition be given to the same. If Marconi does not give me a share of the proceeds from his French patents, I will appeal to Her Majesty, through Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and his excellency the governor general, as a British subject, and ask for equal rights in his patents for the British dominions. I will make the same represen tations to the president of the United States. My appeal to the latter will be based on the fact that my essay for the Hodgkins price of $10,000 was submitted by the Smithsonian Institution at Washington to the French scientists for examination in 1894, and it was from this essay Marconi first learned that the earth's electric energy collects in hills, mountains, in fact all elevation on her surface. He immediately began to erect towers, and placing instruments upon their summits, they answered each other. But I am now even with him, for I have discovered that the telephone acts on the same wireless principle and I will ask patents from Canada, Great Britain and even France, and my telephone will supplant his telegraphy, then railways will take down their wires, for conversation can be conducted between stations and even trains, generals can talk with each other while the battle is raging by merely sticking their swords into the ground, ships will speak with each other miles away, while we can converse, stretching our limbs upon the grassy lawns, with the weary traveller trudging his icy way to the northern pole.

DOES NOT SEE EYE TO EYE WITH LA VERITE. DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 13th, 1901.

To the Editor of the Sun: Sir-A few days ago I had occasion to look at a copy of La Verite, a French-Canadia organ published in Montreal, and was sur prised at its attitude towards Great Britain. If I had the acquaintance of the editor should advise him to change brands or tak the Keely cure and quit altogether. One clause in particular interested me

The French-Canadians have only to make sign to Uncle Sam and in fifteen days an American army would occupy Montreal, Quebec and Toronto."

The above is so ridiculous it is funny. The poor editor's pipe must have gone out, or he must know but little of the feeling the American government has for England. Why should America quarrel with her banker? Why should she quarrel with the only nation on earth that prevented European interference during our recent trouble with Spain? Why would America quarrel with her own fiesh and blood? Withdraw British capital from America and two-thirds of the capital from America and two-thirds great industries would close their of the great railways would not have Take from us the English customs many of the great railways would not have been. Take from us the English customs and you will destroy our system of law and justice, it would remove our freedom; in fact the withdrawal of British manners and customs from America would be as the destruction of the mechanic's model. Although we have vastly improved on the British patron, it is and always will be the American landmark.

My business takes me over a large portion of central and western United States, and I cannot but note the comment of the different classes on the British-Boer war. I find that the average business and professional man is in sympathy with the British, while among the uneducated classes I find many Boer sympathizers; in fact the most of the anti-British in the United States are found among the lower classes, who have emigrated from the Latin nations and brought their ignorant ideas with them, and occasionally you will find a senator or congress, man while catering to that class will make an anti-British speech as he finds it a cheaper commodity than money with which to procure the vote of the ignorant foreigner (of which we have too many in this country); but go to such men as Senator Allison of Iowa, Collum of Illinois, Quarrells and Snooner of Wisconsin, Hanna of Ohio, and Iowa, Collum of Illinois, Quarrells and Spooner of Wisconsin, Hanna of Ohio, and many other great men of which this country can boast, men who are looked to in time of trouble, men upon whom the weight of try can boast, men who are looked to in time of trouble, men upon whom the weight of government rests, men who know the hardships with which nations are made, and in them you will find that true spirit of American patriotism linked with British esteem, and when such men as these plunge their nation into war it will be from some stronger cause than "a French-Canadian sign." (As La Verite puts it).

We have a few cranks here, as you have in Canada, but thank heaven they are not in touch with the machinery of government, and when they do endeavor to handle the rudder the ship of state pays no attention whatever.

If the La Verite was in this country and If the La Verite was in this country and endeavored to publish such anarchistic matter and assail the American government as it does the British the editor would be waited on by the "White Caps," and you can guess the rest. If this is an exhibition of French-Canadian patriotism I don't think they need give Uncle Sam the sign, because if they cannot be loyal citizens of the British empire they would be apt to make disloyal Americans.

loyal Americans.

I was raised in New Brunswick, but have been a citizen of the United States for some years, and think America the greatest nation on earth, but England has been the teacher of the control of the con of the world, and has done more for civiliza-tion, commerce and development than any nation on earth, and when a narrow minded nation on earth, and when a narrow minded bigot endeavors to assail the grand old empire I for one must resent it.

I am proud of my British blood and of America, the land of my choice. I am also proud of the Anglo-Saxon who show their blood wherever they are, and notwithstanding the opposition of fanatics, dogmas, doubts and fears, they will in their own sweet time control the world.

Yours truly,

J. O. MACAULAY.

A VERY BAD MAIL SERVICE.

To the Editor of the Sun:

Sir—I would like to ask the P. O. department through your paper and in the interest of a long suffering public how long this miserable mail service is to be imposed on us. For over thirty years we enjoyed an excellent tri-weekly service from Norton station, I. C. R., with Narrows as the central despatching office for the county. The mails arrived by a special stage at Narrows at one o'clock p. m. The service was complete, giving direct mail accommodation to our connection the most remote parts of the county. the mails have been carried by the C railway the whole establishment has become upset and disjointed. Different points in the county in close proximity to each other have rajiway the whole establishmit has become upset and disjointed. Different points in the county in close proximity to each other have no mail connection whatever. Letters that formerly by old route reached their destination same day now take a week, or about the time required to send a letter to New York and get a reply. Instead of receiving our mail here at one o'clock, p. m., as by the old route, we now have a night mail from Cody's station, Central railroad, arriving at Narrows at 5 o'clock, p. m. If my statements are incorrect they are open to rebuttal. The people are elamoring for the old service from Norton. This would simply mean an extension of the mail route from springfield, a distance of only twelve miles, giving us our mail direct from the I. C. R.

We have had enough of the Central railway mail service. Strongly signed petitions could be sent in support of the change if we were sure they would not be consigned to the waste basket as being prejudicial to the sreat Central. Yours truly, JOHN KELLY

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 16.-Vicar General O'Brien is in Boston and will not dence here the news of his appointment as bishop created no surprise, it having been expected. Father O'Brien was born in County Kerry, Ireland, 58 years ago, and has been in the priesthood 35 years. He is regarded as by all means the best equipped man among the Maine clergy for the office of bishop. Nothing concerning the date of his consecration or other details can be learned, owing to his absence from the city.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 16.-The selection of Vicar General O'Brien as Bishop of Portland, in succession to the lamented Bishop Healy, comes as a pleasant surprise to Catholics here, as it had been generally understood Father O'Brien some time ago declined to be a candidate, when requested by fellow clergy. The new bishop is held in high universal esteem in Portland, the cordial welcome awaiting him not being confined to the people of his religious faith. Besides the respect entertained for Father O'Brien, owing to his deep piety, he enjoys eminent repute for rare qualities of mind. Outside of church work, the newly appointed bishop is perhaps best known as an authority on the language and history of the American Indian, to which subject he has devoted much of his spare time in study and research. He is one of but two Maine members of the historical society which makes the American Indian a specialty, the other member being ex-Mayor Baxter of this city.
