

ANOTHER POTATO CORNER BUSTED WIDE OPEN BY MAYOR WITH NERVE TO BUY SPUDS AND SELL 'EM TO PEOPLE AT FAIR PRICES

Market Breaks from 60 Cents a Peck to 65 Cents a Bushel in Des Moines, When Chief Executive Gets Busy.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 25.—When Mayor Hanna opened the city market place four months ago, potatoes sold at 60 cents a peck.

Today patrons of the market bought all they wanted of the best quality at 60 cents a bushel.

The "potato trust" is broken. Mayor Hanna broke it. One carload of potatoes which he shipped into Des Moines and sold at 60 cents a bushel brought prices tumbling. Now the grocers themselves are advertising potatoes at 65 and 70 cents. At the city market a half dozen men are offering spuds for 60 cents.

One week ago grocers and hucksters who controlled the potato market here were selling potatoes for 40 and 45 cents.

Then Mayor Hanna sent Edward Lytton, his secretary, on a trip through Iowa potato districts to find out what the farmers were getting.

Lytton found that within thirty miles of Des Moines farmers were selling potatoes for 40 and 45 cents. The commission men were snapping up the tubers, shipping them to Des Moines and reselling at 100 per cent profit.

Mayor Hanna heard Lytton's report and got busy. He contracted for a car of potatoes to be shipped from Durant. The potatoes cost 50 cents and were of the best quality. Estimating freight charges, shrinkage and cost of handling at 15 cents a bushel, Mayor Hanna decided on a price of 65 cents.

Humpty Dumpty sat on a wall; Humpty Dumpty had a great fall. The Mayor of Des Moines and all his men will never let Humpty climb back again.

The potatoes arrived and five big transfer wagons carried them to the market. The wagon drove in at 6:45 a. m. and then began a charge that will become famous in Des Moines.

An hour later the last 530 bushels had been sold and hundreds of people who had been unable to get potatoes in Des Moines were disappointed.

The roar of the commission men was long and loud. They accused the mayor of wasting the city's funds to further his own ambitions. The mayor showed he had not used a cent and declared he was going to keep right on selling cheap potatoes until the market was broken.

Today the market is broken. Two cars of potatoes were brought to Des Moines by individuals and sold on the market place at 65 cents. The commission men have begun to cut prices and potatoes promise to drop to 50 cents.

A BUSH-RANGER IN POLITICS

Forty years ago and more, when northern Ontario was little more than an uninhabited wilderness, a lad was entrusted with an important mission for an old Indian chief.

He was a young man of thirty, a settler in midwinter through wild, unsettled country. For two days and two nights he had engaged in a terrible running fight with timber wolves, his only rest in the boughs of trees, with the howling of the third day, sleepless but indomitable, he reached the post and delivered his messages.

Frank Cochran was born in Quebec, in a little village named Clarenceville, 59 years ago, and got his education in the public schools of that province although a Methodist. For a time he worked as clerk in a hardware store at Pembroke, but early in life he came to the woods and to him and he went to Sudbury when Sudbury wasn't much to look at. There he made his headquarters.

He got in his best work before the rest of the building wakes up. Mr. Cochran is like the admiration and despair of practical politicians. In battle there is no more ardent, daring or doughty warrior. He is an enthusiastic party man, and he is a place in the campaign with a consecration and abandon that keeps his followers alternately thrilling and shivering. He takes his chances as though they were every-day occurrences. He is none of your smooth, gumshoe political artists. He is as direct in his methods and moves through difficulties much as a moose travels through the northern bush. He crashes through obstacles and may stumble, but he gets there. As an administrator he is the bete noir of the party man. He has a clear vision of the public weal. He meets deputations with a "yes," or "no."—H. W. A. of the Toronto Globe.

It was a remarkable experiment. But it worked out well. The tall, snowy, silent man from the north knew according to his idea of its future. He christened it the "Greater Ontario." He looked at the political, silk-hatted deputations and newspapermen, but an open sesame always awaited the man in corduroy, the practical fellow with ideas.

There was almost an uncanny energy about the new northern Minister of the Crown. He came to his office on crutches, his amputated limb succeeded by an artificial member. In a few months the crutches were cast aside and an ordinary stick took their place. Within a year he was walking his twenty miles a day through the bush the only unwearied man in a party of inspection. He likewise visited the Ministerial houses at the Parliament buildings. Long before the official hour of opening he came striding in and seated himself at his desk. He gets in his best work before the rest of the building wakes up.

Some years ago a man swung himself to the platform as an incoming C. P. R. train whistled. He threw back his shoulders and paced up and down, inhaling the cold, clear, northern air for several minutes. Then the train started again. A cloud of steam obscured the moving cars. He grasped the platform railing, leaning his weight upon the steps, slipped to the track, and the wheels passed over his foot and leg, grinding and crushing him to pulp. Alone and unseen, most men from shock and pain, would have dropped to their death. Not so this man. He clenched his teeth, righted his one hand grip on the car rail, and lunged on while the train quickened its speed. It travelled some distance over, he was discovered. Then it was stopped. The maimed man knotted a handkerchief around his severed limb, and, turning to the rail, was seen, observed with a warm smile. "Looks as though it was done for. You had better take me to a hospital."

The boy and man were Frank Cochran, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines in the present Ontario Government, and organizer of the Conservative forces in Ontario in the recent election, when they took 72 out of 85 seats.

About this time Sir James Whitney had been called to the Premiership of Ontario and was casting about for a northern man to "run" that great new district, larger than many an old world kingdom. His eye fell upon the Sudbury storekeeper, the experienced woodman and miner, and went no further. Frank Cochran was transplanted from the wilderness of the north into a modernized office in Queen's Park, labelled "Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines."

WOMEN'S AILMENTS CAUSED BY NEGLECT

Are Quickly Cured and Robust, Sound Health Restored by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Women are on the whole more sickly than men. One reason is that their system is more complicated; another and more important reason is they put off measures of relief too long. At the beginning constipation is the cause of the trouble, which in turn causes the blood becomes weakened and polluted—the nerves suffer and a run-down condition takes root.

In many respects the case resembles that of Miss Hazen Schmidt, a young woman of Vandalla, Mo., who lay in a comatose state for 105 days. Although Miss Williams has yielded to medical treatment sufficiently to awake for a moment at times, she never fully regained her faculties. As soon as efforts to revive her were abandoned, she again sank into the state of catatony which has marked her condition from the beginning of her peculiar trouble.

Miss Williams attended a moving picture show at Goshen, and was one of many dancers at the party given by the management after the show. She appeared to be in excellent spirits, and there was nothing in her manner to indicate that she was later to fall into a deathlike trance. She came out of the picture show and retired for the night, and it was only when she failed to arise and prepare breakfast on the following morning that her condition was discovered.

Mrs. Haines went to Miss Williams' room and found her apparently asleep. She sought to awaken her, but in vain. A physician was called in, but after an hour's hard work he too was forced to abandon the task. Three hours later, when it was found that the girl still slept soundly, another physician was called in but was unable to awaken the young woman.

A physician was called in, but after an hour's hard work he too was forced to abandon the task. Three hours later, when it was found that the girl still slept soundly, another physician was called in but was unable to awaken the young woman.

Miss Williams' case is a typical one of the many cases of women's ailments which are caused by neglect. The kidneys quickly respond to the remedial action of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the back and side shortness of breath and bad color disappear—the functions of the body then operate naturally, congestion and pain are prevented and perfect health returns.

Thousands of happy women say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest and best blood-purifier, the finest complexion renewer, the most certain regulating medicine known. All dealers in 25¢ boxes, or the Catarrh-Oxone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Since yesterday afternoon Miss Williams has slept fitfully, and although she opens her eyes at intervals, it is evident that she recognizes no one. Friends of the young woman who were with her at the dance say nothing unusual occurred and that Miss Williams seemed to be enjoying herself to the utmost. In her fits of delirium the young woman talks of nothing but dancing, and it is thought her enthusiasm over this form of entertainment may have occasioned the strange stupor.

SKIN A MASS OF FIRE

Horrible torture—pain unendurable—days when the whole body seems to be burning—long nights of sleepless agony—Then—

Instant relief! The skin cooled and refreshed—all burning and itching gone.

Thousands testify to this—thousands who suffered from Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles, until they heard of that simple cooling wash of Watergreen, Thymol and other ingredients known as D. D. D. Prescription.

Samuel Lewis, writes: "I used three bottles of D. D. D. Prescription, and now my skin, once a mass of fire and irritation, is as smooth and soft as a child's."

Of all remedies for the skin that we know we can cordially recommend the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. Just a mild, cooling wash—but it cures and soothes the skin as nothing else can. And it takes away the itch instantly!

We would like to tell you more about D. D. D. Prescription if you will call, write the D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept. S.S. 49 Colborne street, Toronto and get a free trial bottle. E. Clinton Brown.

LETTER FROM BOSTON GIRL

Boston, Oct. 20.—Boston may be slow, but at least the school board shows signs of waking up to national opportunities. The system of school savings banks, recommended by the state bank commissioner and outlined in chapter 28 of the Revised Laws of 1911, will soon be in use in many of the city's schools. The board has passed an order permitting principals to establish these savings systems or to recommend to the public that they patronize the postal savings banks recently opened by the government. It is ordered, also, that any system of school savings which has been previously inaugurated at the schools shall be discontinued. Thus it is assured that the school savings system will be encouraged in the habit of saving, and this under competent and safeguarded methods—a branch of education which the parents and grandparents too often were sadly deficient in. Massachusetts has long done many things for encouragement of thrift; yet much more unquestioning needs to be done.

TRIED EVERYTHING WITHOUT RELIEF

Until I Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

Sarnia, Feb. 5th, 1190.

"I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors but derived no benefit whatever. Finally I read an advertisement of 'Fruit-a-tives.' I decided to give 'Fruit-a-tives' a trial and found they did exactly what was claimed for them."

I have now taken 'Fruit-a-tives' for some months and find that they are the only remedy that does me good. I have recommended 'Fruit-a-tives' to a great many of my friends and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly.

PAUL J. JONES.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only natural cure for Constipation and Stomach Trouble, because it is the only medicine in the world that is made of fruit juices and valuable tones. Hundreds of people have been cured, as if by a miracle, by taking 'Fruit-a-tives,' the famous fruit medicine.
