FURTHER PROOF. TAM ANOTHER MAN ST., Jous, N. B., Sent. 29, 1874. A. CHIPMAN SMITH.

Dear Sir.—I have suffered for fifteen montas with Chronic Rheumatism, and could not find may relief, after try ng every medicine that I saw advertised to cure it, until I was told about the Diamond Rheumatic Cure. I have used three bettlee of this valuable remedy and now can say that I am another man to what I was. I would advise anybody suffering with this territive disease to try it, and see it it does not the same for them that it did for me.

Yours, James L. E. Charley, Indiantown.

nd he lives on Sixth street. The other day, while reading a dime novel, his randfather came in with the paper, and asked him to read the President's message. It irritated Jackson to break off-his story just where the trapper was go-ing to be scalped, so he made up his mind to have revenge on his grandfather. He took up the paper and started of as follows:
The business of the Patent Office shows a steady increase. Since 1836 over 155, 000 patents have been assued. Officer Deck, of the station house, wants it distinctly understood that he is not the Deck confined there a few days since as a luna-

And he continued: The business of the Agricultural Bureau is rapidly growing, and the department grounds are being enl red, and the highest prize in a Chinese lottery is twenty-time cents, and the man who draws it has his name in the paper, and is looked upon as a heap of a fellow. "What I what is that?" roured the old man, "I never heard of such a message "I can't help it," replied Jackson;
you asked me to read the Fresident's message, and I'm reading it." And he

"Jackson Green, does that message read that way?" asked the old man.

"You don't suppose I'd lie to you, do you?" inquired Jackson, putting on an injured look.

"Well, it seems singular," mused the old man. "I shouldn't worder if Grant was tight when he wrote that."

Jackson went on:

"Hold on, Jackson—stop right there!"
said the old man as he rose up. "You needn't read another word of that message. If Gen. Grant thinks he can insult the American people with inpunity he will find himself mistaken. You may throw the paper in the stove, Jackson, and let this be an awful example to you never to taste intoxicating drinks."

Jackson tossed the paper away and resumed his dime novel, while the old gent leaned back and pondered on the degradation of men in high places.
