Foresters Take Dim View Of Brunswickan, ISS Project

The largest and most active campus organization, the Forestry Association met in a lengthy but unfortunately not too well attended meeting on Monday, November 15th.

While dental surgery took its toll among the association's executive the swimming meet severely reduced general attendance to approximately a quarter of the average number. Terry Rankin ably substituted for vice-president Don Biggs. Following the read- National Council of Student Christattention of the association and with cussed. slight deliberation the more colourful (and expensive) of the two sample cards was agreed upon. This card will bear the Forestry Crest. Upon a motion by D. R. Redmond order lists for the cards will be placed in the Forestry bailding for the convenience of the students. With little loss of time the discussion then turned to the failure of the Brunswickan to publish the write up on the previous meeting. An oversight apparently resulting from the Brunswickan's failure to print anything in the nature of campus activities that did not present a slightly political hue. With this preliminary skirmish the members turned to the controversial subject of the ISS scholarship plan, and for the better part of an bour the discussion progressed along the premise that "Charity should begin at home". At the moment the final vote was being taken to ascertain the Association's offical stand on the matter, Miss Alice Mc-Elveney arrived to re-opeon the discus-

Although Miss McElvaney presented concise and convincing arguments on behalf of the establishment of the scholarships, various members of the association felt that Canada had much to do for her own people before going farther afield, and that the present government plan to bring The university reflects too much the
