

CONTENTS.

INTRODUCTION,	5.
The Author sets out from Boston on his travels	13
Description of fort Michillimackinac	14.
 fort La Bay,	15
 the Green Bay,	ib.
 lake Michigan,	19
Arrives at the town of the Winnebagoes,	21.
Excursion of the Winnebagoes towards the Spanish settlements,	22
Description of the Winnebago lake,	24
Instance of resolution of an Indian woman,	25
Description of the Fox River,	26
Remarkable story of a Rattle Snake,	27
The great town of the Saukies,	28
Upper town of the Ottagawmies,	30
Description of the Ouiscousin River,	ib.
Lower town of the Ottagawmies, or Les Prairies Des Chiens,	31.
An attack by some Indian plunderers,	32
Description of the Mississippi from the mouth of the Ouiscousin to lake Pepin,	33
 lake Pepin,	34
Remarkable ruins of an ancient Fortification,	35
The River Bands of the Naudowessie Indians,	37
Adventure with a party of these, and some of the Chipeways,	ib.
Description of a remarkable Cave,	39
Uncommon behavior of the Prince of the Winnebagoes at the falls of St. Anthony,	41
Description of the Falls,	42
Extent of the Author's Travels,	43
Description of the river St. Pierre,	45
Sources of the four great rivers of North America,	46
Reflections on their affinity,	ib.
The Naudowessies of the plains, with whom the Author wintered in the year 1756,	47
The	48