

I.—Water Pollutions, &c.—Con.

	PAGE.
Textile factories.....	14, 17
Tilefish, erratic appearance of.....	16, 17
Tin industry (see mines).....
Tyne River, catch of salmon.....	25
" not depleted by pollutions.....	24
" tributary of, poisoned.....	13
Thames River (England).....	23, 24
Trout, large, near copper mines.....	18
Upper waters, necessary to keep pure.....	11
Verrill, Prof., on destruction of tilefish.....	17
Wales (see mines).....
Waters in Canada, exempt if specified fish absent.....	8
Wood-alcohol.....	18
Wood-pulp.....	20, 22
Wool-cleaning.....	13
Yorkshire Rivers destroyed.....	13
" sewage.....	24

II.—Neglected Structural Features in young fry.

Ears in young fish very delicate.....	29
" described.....	29
Experience valuable in fish-culture.....	27
Eyes of fry very large.....	28
Hearing sense in young fishes.....	29
Light, excess of, injurious.....	26
Noises to be avoided in hatchery.....	29
Scientific knowledge valuable in fish-culture.....	30
Science and practice must be combined.....	27
Sense organs on body of embryo-fish.....	29
Skin of fry, very thin and sensitive.....	29, 30
Spawning beds receive reflected light.....	28
Tanks and jars to be shaded from direct light.....	29

III.—The object of a close-time for fish.

Bas prohibition had beneficial results in N.B.....	33
Close times subjected to continual criticism.....	31
" protect breeding fish.....	31
" prohibit late unseasonable fish.....	33
" for netting in order to benefit anglers.....	34
" to restore depleted fisheries.....	33
Indefensible reasons for close seasons.....	34
Predacious fish require less protection than defenceless kinds.....	32
Public opinion necessary to make laws effective.....	34
Quinte, Bay of, summer fishing prohibited.....	34
Reasons for close times very various.....	31, 34
Shad need protection during and after spawning.....	33
Tweed Salmon Commission's view on salmon protection.....	33
Weekly close time, how rendered inoperative.....	32