Torontos Defeat of Canadiens Will Impart Added Interest to the N.H.A. Series

INDIVIDUAL BOWLING CONTEST

Willie Ritchie Has Signified His Willingness to Sign Up For a Fight at New York Against Freddie Welsh—Another Mann Cup Controversy.

The games last night in the National Hockey Association made small change in the standing of the different teams. Torontos are now a game ahead of Quebec and in striking distance of the leaders, Wanderers and Ottawas, who are tied for first place.

The Montreal Bowling Association will next month inaugurate a competition for the individual championship of Montreal, conducted on the same lines as these contests in Chicago and New York.

A circuit known as the Panama Canal League has begun operations in the canal zone, and will play small the middle of April.

The games last night in the N. H. A. were not close so far as the scores were concerned. The one that came nearest to possessing a different result was the contest between the Torontos and the Canadiens.

Another controversy is about to arise over the Mann Cup—emblematic of the amateur lacrosse championship of Canada. President Haydon, of the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association, doubts the standing of Kendall, who played with Vancouver against Calgary in the series last fall.

Hugh Jennings has just turned back two Tiger kittens, Betsell, a pitcher from Ottawa, has been sent to Saranton.

Gardie Roberts is once more the leading goal-getter in the N. H. A., with 22 tallies to his credit.

Jimmy Johnston the New York fight promoter, has just concluded the first transcontinental phone match ever made.

Larry Lajoie is so delighted to move from a balded to a champion team that he has rented a house in Philadelphia.

Toronto shows up well as regards "third period finishers," says the Ottawa Free Press.

NEWS OF THE PLAYHOUSES

"A WOMAN'S WAY"—HIS MAJESTY'S NEXT WEEK.

"How should a young married woman deal with a husband, who, neglecting her and going his own way, has fallen into a habit of flirting with other ladies?"

Just how she is to win her foolish husband back again to the domestic fold from which he has strayed is the wife's problem.

A feature of the performance will be the gowns worn by the ladies. Depicting as it does, the highest status of New York society, the scenes of the play give ample opportunity to the ladies of the company to display the latest gowns and hat effects.

NEXT SUNDAY'S MUSICALS.

Solodats at next Sunday's concert at His Majesty's will be Albert Lindquist, tenor; Mme. Donald, soprano, and Master Russell, violinist.

Barely two years ago Manager M. H. Hanson, of New York, was invited by a member to attend a smoker given by the directors of the Chicago University Club in honor of a speeding guest.

Since then Mr. Lindquist, an American-born Scandinavian, of the finest type, has become a great, a really great favorite.

Lindquist was victorious, ovals were showered upon him but the great terror of the future was not spoiled nor has since grown concealed.

"The Spoilers," which will be shown in three acts and nine parts, at the Princess Theatre to-day, is a film of particular excellence.

EMPIRE WAS WELDED BY GERMAN HAMMER

Raised to Shatter but Simply Drove Rivets Home, Sir George Foster Told Engineers

CANADA'S PLACE

Dominion Will Never be What it Was Before War—True of Parties—Press Trying to Do Its Duty, Says the Hon. W. S. Fielding.

Describing the war as a fight between the German ideal which made the man for the state and the British ideal which put the man first, Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in an eloquent reply to the toast of "The Empire," at the annual banquet of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers last night, pictured the hammer which had been raised to shatter that Empire sending the rivets home and welding it together into one solid mass.

The gathering was strongly patriotic in tone, the speakers to the sterner professions of engineering, law and the press telling of the place of each in the affairs of the nation.

Replying to the "The Empire," proposed by Professor H. E. T. Haultain, of Toronto University, Sir George Foster introduced his subject by speaking of the necessity for each member of each profession to think, in terms, not of that profession, but of wider humanity.

Continuing, he outlined the building of the Empire from units, pointing out that the love of Empire is immensely greater in times of war than in times of peace.

"What are fighting along the battle lines of France and Belgium and Prussia and Austria and Russia are not men and guns. The men and guns are only the result of something gathered there for something. The things that are fighting are the ideals of government and liberty. The ideals are ghosts in fact, but they come up not as ghosts but incarnated as living men. In blood and flesh the ideals suffer and are victorious."

War Testing Ideals.

There were being tested to-day in Europe, the speaker said, the German ideal and the British. In the German ideal the state is dominant and the individual lives but for the state, and has neither conscience nor morals and has not to bow to the dictates of honor.

"The British ideal," continued Sir George, "differs from the German in that the German man is made for the state, while in Britain the man comes first. The Government is for the man—an absolute inversion. Those are the ideals we are fighting for to-day."

All the allies were fighting for what Britain was fighting for, not excepting Russia, which had experienced a wonderful transformation in the past twenty years.

Reviewing the conditions which preceded the war, affairs in the different parts of the British Empire and Germany's expectation of a falling apart of that Empire, Sir George spoke of the manner in which it had been welded together.

"The British ideal," continued Sir George, "differs from the German in that the German man is made for the state, while in Britain the man comes first. The Government is for the man—an absolute inversion. Those are the ideals we are fighting for to-day."

"All the allies were fighting for what Britain was fighting for, not excepting Russia, which had experienced a wonderful transformation in the past twenty years."

Dealing with Canada's part in the war, the first was, he said, to see the fight through. This was no time to speak of the future relations of the Dominion and the Motherland.

"The British ideal," continued Sir George, "differs from the German in that the German man is made for the state, while in Britain the man comes first. The Government is for the man—an absolute inversion. Those are the ideals we are fighting for to-day."

"All the allies were fighting for what Britain was fighting for, not excepting Russia, which had experienced a wonderful transformation in the past twenty years."

GERMAN FLYING MACHINE WAS DESTROYED BY FRENCH CANNON Paris, January 28.—An official communique issued by the French War Office says: "The day of January 28th was marked only by local actions, which were favorable to us. "In Belgium, in the region of Neupont, our infantry gained a foothold in the great dune to which there was a reference in the communique of January 17th. A German flying machine was destroyed by our cannon "In the sectors of Ypres, Lens and Arras, there were artillery combats and some infantry attacks were repulsed, but these were immediately rolled back by our fire. "On the heights of the Meuse and in the Woivre region there is nothing to report. Between Hibernus and Argonne there were artillery combats of no great intensity. It is now known that the attack repulsed by our 24th Oct. the Germans dearly. "On the heights of the Meuse and in the Woivre region the day was calm. In the Vosges there were artillery combats. Our guns at many points silenced the fire of the German batteries and mitrailleuses. We fortified at all points our positions on the ground taken on January 27th."
