Raheen, May 19, 1893. To the Editor of the Catholic Record:

Raheen, May 19, 1893.

To the Editor of the Catholic Record:

DEAR SIR AND EROTHER—I have been much pleased to find in your late issues an increasing interest manifested in the C. M. B. A. columns. The excellence of its literary departments—selections, editorials and summaries—are fully and highly appreciated by your thousands of readers everywhere. I must, however, frankly confess that during the past year I have been often disappointed with the meagre contents of the C. M. B. A. department. During that period questions of very grave and general interest to the members of our Canadian association were in dispute between our Grand Council and the Supreme; and the rank and file of our brotherhood, who are accustomed to take the most active interest in its welfare, have frequently for lengthened periods been in a state of anxious suspense to know what was being done. Not that any doubt existed regarding the ability and prudence of our executive to do all possible in the interest of our association, but the inherent desire of learning all about a subject in which we feel a deep and intense interest is one of the commonest traits of the human heart. I do not desire to be understood as attributing the blame, if there be any, to the management of the RECORD, as I understand very well that it was the wish of our executive that the matters in dispute should not be publicly discusses through the papers. No doubt there may be many points it would be injudicious to discuss in that way, but I am of opinion that fair and open criticism, conducted in a temperate and proper style, will promote rather than injure the best interests of the association.

I was led to making these comments by the perusal of Bro. Carleton's well written letter in a late issue; but while commending its style I cannot agree with his ideas. I do not at all consider that we should initate the reprehensible course of the C. M. B. A. Weekly in its persistent villification of the officers of our Grand Council, and even of our hierarchy, who could not end sented, week after week, in its columns; and was received with more or less credence by our Canadians, who had no other source of information at hand.

Neither Bro. Carleton nor any other members of our executive can complain of want of loyal support of the arrangements they effected with the Supreme Council.

The belief is general that our representatives at the Montreal convention did all that prudence and ability could do under the circumstances; but, on the other hand, the feeling was no less general that the barrain was not a favorable one for Canada. However such as it is, the onus of its violaton must rest with the Supreme Council, even as in the historic case of the violated Treaty of Limerick, before the ink had dried with which it was written. Brother Carleton admits that the arguments he quote as having been used by the officers of the Supreme Council against continuing the transferral of membership between Canada and the States, with our separate beneficiary established, were rather extreme. Certainly they were. Had our American brothers wished it would have been an easy matter to arrange a few clauses that would effectually prevent any fraud in such cases. But the Supreme Council acted from different motives. They fancied that if this privilege were withdrawn there would be an open revolt of our members in favor of restoring former conditions of relationship to the Supreme Council. Like all arbitrary measures of a similar character, it has had, in Ontario at least, the opposite effect of embittering that relationship. I know from credible sources that it was the intention of the Supreme body, from the first, to establish a Grand Council in Quebec; and it was to facilitate this object that they artfully had such a clause embodied in their agreement with our representatives. Another instance of their duplicity was in lately sending their agent through Quebec, ostensibly to ascertain the relative numbers which favored the Quebec and Canada Councils, but in reality their agent through for the supplemen constitution provided for it; consequently there was nothing disloyal in seeking it. I must, however, protest against the cry raised by our opponents that we were separationists. Such was not the case. We sought nothing but what was provided for it in the constitution; and the cry thus raised was like other misrepresentations from the same source, but a feeble effort to discredit our just demands. The resolutions passed by Branch 11 may be inopportune. They represent, however, the earnest and indignant feeling which is widespread regarding our treatment. They are not to be taken in any sense as a censure upon our officers or delegates. I know nothing of them except as published; but I do know that every branch in my district is prepared to endorse them when the proper time comes.

prepared to endorse them when the proper time comes.

For my own information, and for that of many branch officers, I would ask whether special issues of the revised constitution, harmonized with the provisions of the Ontario Insurance Act, are to be issued for our members? The present issue points out where there are conflicting clauses; but as no copy of the Insurance Act is embodied with the constitution, members are unable to judge what the law is that governs them in various points, which should be clear and intelligible.

ARCHDIOCESE OF TORONTO.

On Saturday last at the Central Prison, On Saturday last at the Central Prison. His Grace the Archbishop administered the sacrament of confirmation to a number of candidates. He was accompanied by Rev. T. Walsh, chaplain of the institution: Very Rev. Father Maijon, Prov.; Very Rev. Vicar-General McCann, Rev. Father Teefy, Superior St. Michael's College; Rev. Father Walsh, pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes. His Grace made a short but very effective address to the men, reminding them that the sacrament they had received would confer on them renewed strength with which to combat the trials and temptations that would again assail them on their regaining their liberty. He wished them to understand that he was not reproaching them but rather encouraging them. He looked upon their deprivation of liberty only as one form of the punishment which everyone had to undergo for his sins. He wished them now to forget the past, and to endeavor to correspond to the graces they had received, thereby arming themselves for the conflict of the future.

On the same day His Grace confirmed

HE VICAR-GENERAL HONORED — MGR.
HEENAN INVESTED WITH THE INSIGNIA OF HIS NEW OFFICE—ADDRESS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Gatholics of Hamilton crowded St. Mary's Cathedral yesterday morning to see their beloved former priest, Vicar-General Heenan, invested with the insignia of the new offices to which he has recently been appointed. The investment took place before High Mass, at 10:30 o'clock, and was conducted by the Lord Bishop, assisted by Fathers McEvay, Hinchey, Coty and Kehoe. The Vicar-General entered the sanctuary of the cathedral attended by Fathers Hinchey and Coty, and approached the seat occupied by the Bishop, who was assisted by Fathers McEvay and Kehoe. The Bishop arose, and thus addressed the congregation: Dear friends, it is my privilege to announce to you that your old friend the Vicar-General has been appointed Prothonotary Apostolic of the highest grade, and I have here the official document, which it is not necessary to read, as it is in Latin, but I will give you the substance in English. I feel that the diocese has been greatly honored. The priest who rules well is worthy of honor, and I am able to say that the priest who is honored to-day has ruled faithfully for many years, and I am glad to be able to honor him. His Lordship then gave a translation of the document. It is as follows:

Leo XIII. Pope, to our beloved son Edward Ignatius Heenan, Vicar-General of the diocese of Hamilton:

Beloved son, health and apostolic benediction. Hamilton Times, May 29

Ignatius Heenan, Vicar-General of the diocese of Hamilton:

Beloved son, health and apostolic benediction,—Having learned on the testimony of your Bishop as set forth in the beautiful petition presented by him to us in your behalf, of your religious zeal for the satisfaction of souls and constant diligence in the performance of good works, as well as of your learning and piety and the prudence and success with which you have for a long time discharged the onerous and honorable duties of Vicar-General of the diocese, we have deemed it fitting in recognition of your worth to bestow on you a most honorable and distinguished title.

Therefore, absolving you, as is customary, from all and every ecclesiastical censure that you may possibly in any way have incurred, we, by these presents and by our authority, pronounce and appoint you a Prothonotary Apostolic with the rank of Domestic Prelate, and grant you and declare you entitled to all the rights, privileges, honor and prerogatives of the same. It is hereby commanded, however, that before assuming the insignia, or partaking of any of the privileges of this new dignity, that you are, if in Rome, to appear personally, or, if absent, that you shall appoint a worthy representative to appear in your name before the Dean of the Prothonotary Apostolic for the purpose of making the required profession of faith, of taking in due form the usual oath, and of complying with all the other conditions prescribed by the Holy See. Given a frame, at St. Peter's, under the seal of the Fisherman, this 17th day of March, 1893, in the sixteenth year of our Pontificate. (Signed)

SERAPHINUS CARDINALUS VAUNUTELLI. The Bishop next produced a document signed by the Roman Dean of Prothonotaries Apostolic, declaring that the above mentioned conditions had been complied with by a proper representative in the person of Right Rev. Monsignor De Paww, a distinguished resident Roman prelate. Monsignor Heenan then knelt before the Bishop, and with his right hand on the holy gospels read the professi throne and allowed the new Monsignor to continue the service.

Mass was celebrated by Mgr. Heenan, assisted by Father Hinchey as deacon, and Father Coty as sub-deacon. The usual sermon was dispensed with, and after Mass the following address was presented to the Vicar-General by a committee, on behalf of all the Catholic citizens of Hamilton:

To the Right Reverend Ignatius Heenan, Prothonotary Apostolic, Vicar-General of the Diocese of Hamilton:

thonotary Apostolic, Vicar-General of the Diocese of Hamilton:

Monstrone—The Catholic laity of the city of Hamilton desire to offer you their hearty congratulations. It was with singular pleasure of the Hamilton desire to offer you their hearty congratulations. It was with singular pleasure of the Hamilton desire to offer you their hearty congratulations. It was with singular pleasure that they learned of the high honor and dignity conferred upon you by the Holy See. Ordinated in Hamilton, you have passed the greatest part of your priestly career administering the holy sacraments and performing the several functions pertaining to your sacred have come to look upon you as part and parcel of their religious life, and have all along regarded you as Father, friend and pastor.

The Diocese of Hamilton has always been blessed with an able, zealous and plous clergy; and from among them you were several times selected by the Bishops who ruled over this See to administer the affairs of the diocese. And now, in answer to the special prayer of our behaviour and the highest dignity ever bestowed on a priest of the highest dignity ever bestowed on a priest of the people, wherein you have all along been affectionately cherished. We could say more, were much more, but we know your profound the highest dignity ever bestowed on a priest of the people, wherein you have all along been humility would be pained by even the bare reference to your many vitrues and good deeds. We will therefore content ourselves with assuring you of the continuance of our deep affection and recard, and pray that you will be spared to us yet many years, and that you may long enjoy the honors well and deservedly won, and which we feel assured will be deservedly won. We humbly ask your prayers and blessing. But will be spared to us yet many years, and that you may long enjoy the honors well and deservedly won, and when we feel assured will be deservedly won. CONCERT AT HESPELER.

The concert held in Glick's Hall, Hespeler, on Friday evening last, in aid of the Catholic church, was in every particular a decided success. Distinguished literary and musical talent had been engaged, and by the opening hour the hall was crowded to the door. The soloist of the evening was Miss Mand Carter, of Toronto, who possesses a rich, powerful voice: and that her solos were highly appreciated was evinced by the lond applause she received. Miss Carter, on account of her high order of talent, certainly deserves the enviable reputation she has acquired as a public singer in this part of the Province, and wherever she sings her lady-like manner is sure to make her a general favorite. Vocal solos were also given by Misses Ruby Sullivan and Lottie Hulme, of Galt, which greatly surprised as well as pleased the audience. For the latter, considering her age, we can speak for her a brilliant future. Several comic selections were satisfactorily given by Mr. Chas. Wolstenholme, of Galt. Part second of the programme opened by a club-swinging exhibition given by Misses Leafy Junck and Ida Bolduc of Hespeler, which was much admired, Miss Hamacher acting as accompanist. Prof. Hulme and the individual members of his talented family who made their first appearance here, cannot be spoken of too highly. It is doubtful if the Professor has an equal in his art in Ontario, and the people of Galt are fortunate to have an opportunity to receive training from such a thorough master of music. Should this family again visit Hespeler they will undoubtedly receive a warm welcome. The recitals by two young ladies of Loretto Abbey. Toronto—Miss Lillie Slaven and Miss May Hunt—in which much training and by no mean little natural ability were displayed, attracted special attention. The recitation entitled "The Polish Boy," deeply impressed her hearers, and though somewhat len

LORETTO ACADEMY, GUELPH.

Cone of the most successful and pleasing concerts ever given by the pupils of this well-known and highly esteemed institution took place on the 18th inst, at 7 p. m. in the spacious basement of the church of our Lady, which was crowded with the delighted parents, friends and prominent citizens most capable of appreciating the talent displayed on the occasion. The presence of His Lordship, Right Rev. T. J. Dowling, was hoped for till the eve, but unavoidable business deprived his devoted children of the great honor of tendering him their "Welcome." Among the clergy present were Rev. Fathers Kenny, S. J., Plante, S. J., Dunmartier, S. J., Slavin, Dohertty, Dube, O'Loane, S. J., and Kavanagh, S. J.

The opening trio by twelve little ones was rendered with ease and precision and called forth the applause of all. The other instrumental pieces were a duet by Behr, with violin accompaniment; a solo by Schulhoff, on three pianos; a march from Tanhauser, by Wagner, on four pianos, which showed the skill and proficiency of the papils, and charmed every one by the delicacy of touch and shading and thorough comprehension of the subjects. Three splendid choruses—"Aca Maria," by Mendelssohn, "Come Dorothy," and "Good Night Farewell"—showed to advantagethe fine voices possessed by many of the pupils, especially Misses Cherrier, Dorsey, Tymon, J. Doran, and Hallaron. The juvenile cantata—"The Meeting of the Birds and Fairies"—was a berfect gem of beauty, grace and talent. E. Reinhart, as queen of the birds, led most admirably her gaily plumbed attendants, while Miss Nellie Kleopher reigned majestically over a troup of white winged, star-E. Keinhart, as queen of the birds, led most admirably her gaily plunded attendants, while Miss Nellie Kleopher reigned majestically over a troup of white winged, star-crowned little elves, bearing silver wands, which tinkled gaily as they flitted to and fro. Miss N. Kleopher's elocutionary ability shone in this scene as well as in the Minuet and other charming recitations. One of the latter—the 'Organ Builder—was given in a most pathetic manner. The mournful sound of the Dead March and the tolling of the bell rendered it very effective. The instruments used for the concert were the beautiful toned pianos of the Gerhard Heintzman Co., Toronto.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Last Sunday, Trinity Sunday, was made specially interesting in the Cathedral in this city, by the rendition of a specially prepared musical service. The talented organist, Mrs. Cruickshanks, presided as usual, and Mr. Millar, conductor, led the choir. Fiske's Mass in E flat was sung, and a musical Vespers given in the evening. The choir was materially strengthened by the assistance of Mrs. Keltie, of Hamilton, and Mr. P. J. Watt, of London, and an orchestra also added much to the fine effect produced. It was the best musical service held in St. Peter's Cathedra for many years, and Mrs. Cruickshanks and Mr. Miller are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. A liberal collection in aid of the choir fund was taken up.

CATHOLIC TEMPERANCE CONGRESS

Chicago, May 22, 1893. To the Catholic Temperance Organizations of America:

Having received several communications from gentlemen interested in the Catholic Temperance Congress in regard to the accommodation and protection which should be offered to the delegates to this Congress, I have decided, after mature consideration, that the Bureau of Accommodation for Catholic Societies offers the best and most satisfactory means of securing comfortable and reasonable accommodation, under present circumstances. This Bureau guarantees to meet all incoming visitors and locate them, according to their desires, in private houses or hotels, with which contracts have been made. Rooms without board $1.00 per day, with board $2.00 per day, and upward.

As the more prominent hotels are continually filled or engaged for months to come, the Bureau for Catholic societies will undoubtedly save much trouble to intending visitors.

The officers of the Bureau are all Catholics of America :

doubtedly save much trouble to intending visitors.

The officers of the Bureau are all Catholics of high standing, and they promise to use their personal endeavors to see that delegates to the Temperance Congress will be taken proper care of.
