Life in Earnest.

A most impressive revival of religion was progress in their native place, and Mary Allston and Alice Rosedale were made subjects of renewing grace. Alice, whose mind had ever been subject to serious impressions, was first aroused to a sense of the guilt of her conduct in so long resisting the influences of the Spirit, and she felt that it would be perfectly just if God should cast her off for ever. She became aware that the redeemer in heaven, and yet she feared exa slight foretaste.

Her distress incapacitated her for her ordinary ly a perception of their wanton cruelty; so much sweetness, and extending her hand to him rewas her mind engrossed with the all important marked, "You did not think it would hurt me subject. Mary, for her comfort, tried to repeat so much, Herbert," all his fortitude forsook him, the cheering promises of the Gospel, but they fell pon unheeding ears, for she was convinced for that rough, badly taught boy to ask forgiveturned home, and entered her mother's chamber deepest sincerity and humility, and when he was with so heavy a step and so bad a countenance that Mrs. Rosedale was seriously alarmed. Throwing herself upon a low ottoman at her mother's feet, she exclaimed, "Oh mother I am That prayer was answered, and that rough lost! What shall I do to be saved?" The answer of Scripture rushed to the mother's lips, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." "But can he, will he receive a shalt be saved." "But can he, will he receive a poor sinner like me?" "Alice," said her mother, "do you believe me when I tell you that I lave wan?" "How can I doubt you when you have represented by the saved." "But can he, will he receive a shalt be saved." "But can he, will he receive a shalt be saved." "But can he, will he receive a shalt be saved." "But can he, will he receive a shalt be saved." The present critical state of European affairs render these publications unusually interesting dur-ing the forthcoming year. They will occupy a ing the fortheoming year. They will occupy a middle round between the hastily written newsitems, crude speculations, and flying rumors of the daily journal, and the ponderous tone of the fufure historian, written after the living interest and excitement of the great political events of the time shall have passed away. It is to these specialicals, that readers must have the the only periodicals that readers must look really intelligible and reliable history of cievents; and as such, in addition to their established literary, scientific and theological charter, we urge them upon the consideration of the
