

Poetry.

Everyday Work. Great deeds are trumpeted, loud bells ring, And men turn round to see...

A torrent sweeps along the mountain's side, With foam and dash and roar, And its strength is spent, where it flows...

ROMANCE OF A BLACK VEIL.

BY BERTHA M. LEVY.

CHAPTER XXX.

It was a bright October afternoon. The light of the day was dying, and the soft gray shadows of night were slowly creeping on...

There appeared to me a certain amount of heroism in bearing patiently the slights and insults of my household foes. It was a strange and unnatural position...

It was a strange position—surely, and it was made sadder still by the coming of Lady Maud. I saw now how kind they could be, and how they could welcome me into their lives...

"I have never said myself any pain. If the Earl drove Lady Maud out, I watched her start. If he asked her to walk with him in the grounds or the garden, I must see them go and return; I must dream of what they talked about, I must picture the fair faces, until I cried out in my heart that I could not bear it."

"How curious it will seem when Maud is Countess of St. Asaph, and lives here!" said Gladys one morning to her sister. "I wonder, Daisy, when they will be married?"

my love and me. Lance seemed always as though he were pained by my conduct. How could I go up to him and talk to him, freely as I had used to do, when that fair-haired girl was always by his side? She had taken my place.

"You are growing thin and looking ill, Lady Maud," said kind Lady Mary to me one day; and I thought to myself, "No wonder, with the pain I suffer; it would be no wonder if I died."

This day we were all in the morning-room, a large cheerful apartment overlooking the park when he came in, bringing some fine grape peaches.

"How good of you, Lord St. Asaph! I know you will choose me a choice one."

"I had drawn me to him, and stood looking with sad wondering eyes into his face. What has arisen between you and me, dear?" he persisted.

"I have been trying to think if I have in any way offended you, when you went on that, when you were so kind to me, and I have some kinder feeling in my heart, when you stood aloof. That was not the way to manage you, though, Laurie."

"I have never said myself any pain. If the Earl drove Lady Maud out, I watched her start. If he asked her to walk with him in the grounds or the garden, I must see them go and return; I must dream of what they talked about, I must picture the fair faces, until I cried out in my heart that I could not bear it."

"I have never said myself any pain. If the Earl drove Lady Maud out, I watched her start. If he asked her to walk with him in the grounds or the garden, I must see them go and return; I must dream of what they talked about, I must picture the fair faces, until I cried out in my heart that I could not bear it."

quite forgotten, for Lance sent to inquire if I was not coming down to dinner. He had remembered me then; in the exuberance of his forgotten to be kind to me. But I did not want his kindness; let him devote himself to Lady Maud.

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

withdrew from me. His face flushed. "I beg your pardon," he said. "I did not intend to displease you. I will be more careful. But how you have changed to me, Laurie! Great Heaven, how you have changed!"

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"Will Laurie go with us?" she asked. "I suppose so," replied Lady Ullswater, with the drooping of the lip that she seemed to reserve for me.

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

Trade Catalogues. "American illustrated trade catalogues excel all others in the world, count produce any other country."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

"I should think it was time, I rejoined, with a laugh, that sounded horrible even to myself. It is never too late to mend, and I am beginning to mend now."

TRURO Marble Freestone GRANITE WORKS. COR. PRINCE & WADDELL STS. Why do you spend your money for cheap stones to mark your graves...

F.H. JOHNSON & CO. Carriage Builders & Undertakers. ACADIA MINES & SPRING HILL, N.S. GASKETS and COFFINS in stock...

WE SELL Potatoes, Spilling, Bark, R. R. Ties, Lumber, Laths, Hay, Rice, Plywood. Write fully for Catalogue. HATHAWAY & CO. General Commission Merchants, 22 Central Wharf, BOSTON.

Chapman & Archibald WHOLESALE & RETAIL DEALERS IN Boots, Shoes, Hats & Caps. (KENT'S OLD STAND), PRINCE ST., TRURO, N. S.

SEE HERE! YOU CAN SAVE MONEY BY BUYING YOUR BOOTS & SHOES AT FORMAN'S. The Best Assortment in Town!

JAS. FORMAN. THE HALIFAX WEEKLY HERALD! ENLARGED TO EIGHT PAGES! ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR!

G. R. SMITH, Importer and Dealer in DRY GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, SLIPPERS, HATS, CAPS, Etc., Etc. Special attention given to READY MADE CUSTOM CLOTHING 100 SUITS.

Men's Diagonal Plum Colored Suits at $6.50. BEST VALUE YET. See the New Assortment of WRITERS and SPRING CLOTHS, Made in U.S.A., now open for your inspection.

G. R. SMITH'S. Country Produce taken in exchange. Women's dresses, report says, are increasing in the cities of Germany.

Women's dresses, report says, are increasing in the cities of Germany.

CHAPTER XXI.

"Where are you going, Lady Laurie?" asked a laughing, muffled voice. "I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"You are in a terrible hurry," she laughed. "One would think time was very precious with you."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

CHAPTER XXII.

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

CHAPTER XXIII.

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

"I have been thinking of going to the terrace to visit your mother."

Public Archives of Nova Scotia. Various notices and advertisements.