HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED.

(From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by all druggists.

Nerves and Piano Tuning.

It was testified in a London police court recently that lunatic asylums contain a larger percentage of piano tuners than of representatives of any other trade. Any one who has been forced to listen to a piano being tuned can understand the nerve racking nature of such a business.

RACKING PAIN IN THE JOINTS.

Also every form of rheumatism, neuralgia and sciatica are best cured by Nerviline, the quickest relief for muscular pain yet discovered. It's because Nerviline strikes in and penetrates right to the core of the pain that it gives such unbounded satisfaction. "I caught cold in my shoulders while driving and suffered great pain," writes G. E. Dempsey, of Berlin. "I used Nerviline freely and was soon quite well. I have found Nerviline an excellent remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia as well as for cold on the chest. I recommend Nerviline highly and wouldn't be without it." Price 25c.

Good Humor.

According to ancient theory, there are four principal humors in the body—blood, phlegm, cholera and melancholy. The predominance of any one determined the temper; hence the expression "choleric humor," etc. A nice balance made a good compound called a good humor, and a preponderance of any a bad compound called an ill or bad humor.

SNIFFELING AND SNEEZING COLDS

Can be stopped in a few minutes and permanently cured in one hour by inhaling fragrant, healing Catarrhose. No remedy compares with Catarrhose for cold in the head and nasal catarrh. It soothes and heals the inflamed mucous membranes, prevents sneezing and coughing, clears away the "stuffed up" feeling in the forehead. If you have not used Catarrhose get it to-day and try it on your next cold. You'll be surprised at the efficiency of the delightful inhaler treatment which pleases everyone because it cures so quickly. Complete outfit $1.00; trial size 25c.

A Novice at the Business.

"I suppose you had a perfectly lovely time at Wexford's house party?" "No, it was a fizzle. Mrs. Wexford has so little tact. She was always arranging it so that the men would have to pair off with their own wives." Exchange.

Emotion turning back on itself and not leading on to thought or action is the element of madness.

THE MAN WHO WORKS HARD.

Perseverance and will-power he must have, but whether he has vigor and strength is another consideration. Hard working men usually have irritable nerves and should fortify their systems with a course of Ferrazone, a tonic that rebuilds and revitalizes beyond all telling. It's just wonderful the strength that Ferrazone imparts to broken-down men. It forms new blood, supplies the system with abundant nourishment, and where formerly there was tiredness and lassitude Ferrazone establishes a reserve of energy and vim. Try Ferrazone,—price 50c. per box.

First Marquis.

The title of marquis was first given by Richard II. to Robert de Vere, earl of Oxford, who was made Marquis of Dublin in 1386.

Effect of Imagination.

A Berlin bridegroom reported that he had swallowed his wedding ring. He suffered intense agony and vowed he was dying until his pockets were searched for money to pay for a telegram, when the ring was found in the lining of his waistcoat. He became well in a few minutes.

Audiences that applaud an actor willingly give him the glad hand.

HUMOR AT SCHOOL.

Henry J. Barker, M.A., Compiles Some Excellent Examples of British Children's Unconscious and Ready Wit.

The following are examples of schoolboy wit, though whether conscious or unconscious one cannot say:

"Boys," asked a master in a history lesson, "what was the Great Revolution?"

And one young prodigy answered: "Why, it was when William of Orange turned round, sir!"

An equally smart answer was given by a boy who was observed by his teacher to have sketched a railway engine on his slate:

"Why don't you draw the carriages, too?" inquired the teacher.

"Oh, the engine draws them," responded the boy.

Lessons on elementary science (a favorite subject in many of our schools) often evoke answers of a very unscientific nature. The governor of a school in Brixton had given a lesson on the different parts of a flower, external and internal, viz., the leaves, petals, stamens, pistil, ovary, etc.

A few days later, in continuing the subject, the lady commenced by asking a few questions.

"Mention," she said, "one of the important parts of a plant which you cannot see."

And one girl, who had not been present at the former lesson, replied:

"Why, the inside, teacher, of course!"

The following is another example of the innocent directness with which children look at things:

During a science lesson on birds' eggs and their colors, the teacher asked:

"Why are duck eggs of a bluish tint?"

And the young urchin who happened to be pointed at stammered out:

"Because, sir, the duck is—bluish inside!"

During the course of an examination in grammar, an inspector came to the somewhat difficult subject of the irregular comparison of adjectives; e.g. little, less, least; much, more, most, etc.

"Yes," continued the gentleman, pointing to a sharp-looking lad, "you boy, compare the adjective 'ill'."

"Comparative, worse, sir," "Right," said the inspector, "go on."

"Superlative, dead, sir!"

In the course of a Scripture lesson on the temptation of our first parents in Eden, the teacher had explained to the children that Adam's chief occupation was the simple and delightful one of dressing the garden and keeping it in order. Later on in the lesson he asked:

"Why was it, do you think, that the devil decided to tempt the woman and not the man?"

"Because," replied one youngster, "Adam was too busy watering the garden."

The following anecdote illustrates quite erroneously the notions of what the teacher intends to convey.

During an examination on the life of Jacob and his sons, the master asked:

"Why was Joseph put into prison?"

And one old-fashioned little urchin answered:

"Why, he loved a Pharaoh's wife, sir; so he locked him up safe so as he couldn't get at her!"

On this same subject of the life of Joseph, a teacher came to that part of the story where the brethren arrive from Canaan to buy corn. He gave the children a graphic account of the reception which Joseph accorded them, and the feasting which accompanied the event. He touched upon the special favor shown to little Benjamin in serving him with a mess of food five times greater than that of the others.

"There," said the teacher, placing his hand on the shoulder of a lad just in front of him.

"Why, I should think he was fair busted!" responded the youngster.

This little story shows the risk which teachers run in giving "show lessons" to visitors:

The vicar of a country parish brought a couple of ladies to see the working of the village school. Both visitors were members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Whilst in the girls' department, the mistress kindly consented to put some questions to the children upon their knowledge of the uses of animals to man.

The girls answered very intelligently all the questions put to them in connection with the common domestic animals; and the mistress was thus emboldened to proceed to less familiar ground.

"What useful articles do we obtain from the elephant?" she asked.

"Ivory," answered the first girl.

"Right; and what from the whale?"

"Whale-bone," said the second.

"Very good; and what from the seal?"

"Sealing-wax," answered the third.

Many teachers of our East London schools have an excellent custom of giving the scholars an annual outing into the country. The children are allowed to roam about Epping Forest (or other sylvan retreat) at their own sweet will, and are afterwards regaled with a good substantial meal. On the occasion of one of these treats, a lady teacher who was assisting in serving the children at their meal came up to one little lad and said:

"Will you take some bread-and-butter, my child?"

"No," responded the urchin, rudely and decisively.

"No, what?" mildly suggested the lady.

"No jolly fear, while there's curran-cake about!"
