GOOD NEWS FROM ENGLAND

It is reported from England, through British newspapers, that there is to be no more beer in Woolwich Arsenal. Up to now the manual workers in the arsenal have been allowed to send out for beer during their dinner hour. Now a notice has been posted up announcing that no alcoholic liquor is to be brought into the factories. The notice concludes: "In cases where the work is necessarily of a hot nature, such as forges, furnaces, etc., barley water will be provided."

Mr. William George, brother of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, at the close of the quarterly meeting of the Carnarvonshire County Council, of which he is chairman, gave a luncheon to all the members and officials. "No toasts, no intoxicants," was the special notice on the invitation cards. The firm of Lloyd George and George has never accepted a brief in connection with the liquor traffic. Once a firm of brewers offered a fee of 100 guineas for a single day's appearance at a local petty sessions, but the offer was refused.

Sir Basil Thompson, former Chief of Scotland Yard, ascribes the self-restraint in England after the signing of the armistice, unlike the after period of all former wars, to the decrease in drinking. Sir Basil says there has been no crime wave in Great Britain after the war, and that the public house is a far less important factor in the life of the people than before.

HUSBAND OF FORMER GREENWICH LADY DIED IN OREGON

A copy of the Morning Oregonian, dated Feb. 22nd, gives particulars concerning the death at Portland, Oregon of Thompson T. Davis, which was briefly noted in these columns in a previous issue of THE ACADIAN. Mr. Davis, who was born at Amherst 71 years ago, was known by many in this vicinity, having been a visitor from time to time at Greenwich, where his wife, who was a daughter of the late J. Lovett Bishop and a sister of Messrs. George L. and Leslie H. Bishop, had her home. The deceased was a graduate of Mt. Allison University and the New Brunswick Normal School and taught at Hamilton, Ont., and at a private school at Toronto, Bermuda. He went to the United States in 1890, enrolling as a student at Harvard where he received the B. A. degree in 1891 and took his M. A. the following year. In 1893 he located at Portland, Oregon, where he has since resided and done most excellent work, being dean of school principals at the time of his death. For 26 years he was in charge of the Lincoln High School and under his instruction almost 4000 graduates had entered upon life.

"I have", he once said, when pressed for an estimate of his service, "tried to secure faithful and efficient work on the part of the pupil. I have tried to create harmonious co-operation on the part of the teacher. So far as I have succeeded in these aims, I have benefited! Portland schools."

Prosperity will come when men watch their work instead of watching the clock work.

THE AUTHOR OF "THE KING'S ENGLISH DRILL"

(From the Sunday Leader)

Rapidly carving her way to the top rung of the ladder, and destined to become a very vital force in the world of Education, Miss Rosamund Archibald, whose portrait, a singularly unflattering likeness of her by the way, but the best that her interviewer could obtain, appears in this week's illustrated supplement of the Sunday Leader, is a young Nova Scotian who is already winning recognition throughout the Dominion. Her recently published book "The King's English Drill" which was reviewed in the Sunday Leader as well as all the leading newspapers of Canada and the United States, is being adopted in many schools as the best method of teaching the correct manner of speaking and writing the English tongue.

Rosamund deWolfe Archibald, M. A., to give her her full name, is the daughter of the late John S. and Rachel deWolfe Archibald, of Wolfville. She was educated at Windsor Academy, Acadia University and Smith College, and won her degrees of B. A. and M. A. at both colleges.

At the time when the war cloud of 1914 was gathering over Europe Miss Archibald was considering an offer made to her to take up a position in the Women's College at Constantinople, Turkey. She had at that time almost completed her studies for the taking of her Doctorate Degree, which she hoped to complete at the University of Oxford, England.

The outbreak of hostilities in Europe entirely put an end to these hopes and ambitions, and Miss Archibald accepted instead the position as Head of the Department of English at Acadia Ladies Seminary, Wolfville, where she is still installed.

"Here" said Miss Archibald, "I have been developing original methods of teaching the English language and literature. In 1921 I published 'The King's English Drill,' the first of a series which is a very pleasing, rational and effective method of teaching correct speech. I am engaged, in addition to my regular teaching, in giving Lecture Demonstrations of the Method. I simply cannot fill all the engagements I am offered in this respect."

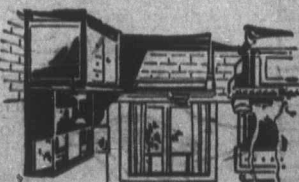

"Then, I am hoping soon to publish a 40,000 word volume on my method of teaching English Literature by means of illustrations, which my pupils have been assisting me in developing for seven years as part of their regular courses. Just at present we are bringing out 'The True Story of the Acadians' which is to be used as a Pageant."

"While I was studying at Smith College I was made a member of the Philosophical Society, which was then engaged chiefly in investigating Psychological subjects, and doing some special work for the Psychological Society of the U. S. A." In this connection Miss Archibald received congratulatory mention from Professor Munsterberg of Harvard University.

Asked if she had never contemplated leaving Wolfville and entering upon some wider sphere of activities, Miss Archibald replied that though she had had offers by the score, especially from across the border, she had steadfastly refused them all.

"Although some of these offers were magnificent and really promised splendid opportunities," she said, "I prefer to live in my own home town, under my own flag, and pursue my own quiet way. I would rather feel that I am serving my own people and my own country than be saving money under another flag."

"My whole hearted passion is to promote the speaking and general usage of better English throughout Canada, and some day I hope to inaugurate" a National Better English Week, Canada Wide.

In appearance Miss Archibald is a tall, slim, dark haired girl, with a soft voice and unassuming manner. The charm of her personality and the drawing power that she exerts over young people, particularly young girls, proves how effective she would be as a teacher, and how completely she could enthuse and carry a class with her towards the attainment of her ideals.

Wolfville and Nova Scotia alike are to be congratulated on being the birthplace and the chosen home of so gifted a daughter, who will one day undoubtedly wear the laurel wreath of international fame.

UNITED FRUIT COMPANIES
DUST PRICES 1923

It has always been the policy of the United Fruit Companies to supply the highest quality of dust at the lowest price possible. When we first went into the dust business, dust was selling at $11.50 per 100 lbs in the Annapolis Valley. We steadily lowered this price until last year we sold Bordeaux dust at $6.00, and 90-10 sulphur arsenate dust at $7.00, delivered to the farmer. Consistent with this policy we are again pleased to announce a further price reduction, a reduction which is only made possible because of the large scale upon which we are now operating.

Prices (retail to the farmer from every local company).

Bordeaux Dust, per 100 lbs. $4.75
 90-10 sulphur-lead arsenate dust, per 100 lbs. 6.00
 Straight superfine dusting sulphur, per 100 lbs. 3.70

Prices on other mixed dusts may be had on application, and are proportionately low.

The Bordeaux dust is of the same strength as last year, being composed of 12 lbs dehydrated copper sulphate, 8 lbs. arsenate of lime, and 80 lbs hydrated lime, or in other words a little over 4% metallic copper and a little over 2% metallic arsenic. This dust is little more than half the retail price of the same dust of the same strength sold by any other concern in America according to all the price lists now available.

The sulphur-lead arsenate dust is about two-thirds the price at which the same material may be bought in any other district.

The above dust mixtures are all standard dusts thoroughly tried and tested and well-known in all American fruit growing areas; and it is consequently with much pride that we announce ourselves as pioneers in setting new low price standards on high quality materials.

We were early approached with regard to handling the new dusts known as "green dust" and "brown dust", which are dusts containing copper and arsenic in different forms from the regular Bordeaux, and in consequence we obtained from the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Annapolis all the information and experimental figures relating to these new dusts. From an examination of this data we found:

1. That the "green dust" gave a very poor control of apple scab.
2. That the "brown dust" gave a control of apple scab on an average a little poorer than our regular Bordeaux dust.
3. That both these dusts were heavy materials and that it took nearly half as much again of these dusts, as compared with our regular Bordeaux dust, to cover the same area of orchard.

From the above we could only come to the conclusion that these dusts were not only of lower quality than we desired, but also that they would be very expensive for an orchardist to use, and consequently that the handling of these dusts would not be consistent with the United Fruit Companies policy of low cost and high quality.

We were further warned by the Provincial Entomologist in his speech before the Fruit Growers Association against the danger of changing from proven materials, to materials about which little was known. On the same occasion the officer in charge of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory stated that these new dusts were in some respects defective, were only in an experimental stage, and had not stood the test of time. These statements served to confirm us in our opinion, and in view of the low prices at which it was possible for us to supply standard dusts, the handling of these new dusts appeared to us the height of business folly.

We are informed from our Entomological advisers that it is possible that future experiments may find methods for improving and overcoming the defects of these new green and brown dusts. We are keeping ourselves informed on any developments of this nature, and are ourselves participating in factory experiments with this end in view. In the event of such new methods being found we will be in a position to manufacture and supply green or brown dust at a retail price of about $4.00 per 100 lbs.

The above is written to explain the policy of the United Fruit Companies, which is to only supply the best quality dusts at the lowest price possible, to handle no materials which have not proven their value in the hands of impartial experimenters, but at the same time to keep in touch with all new developments so that when sufficient is known about them, they may be utilized for the benefit of all the farmers and not for the benefit of any private exploiters.

CANADA RANKS THIRD AS A GOLD PRODUCER

With a total of $26,500,000 in gold in 1922 as compared with $19,400,000 in 1921 and $16,500,000 in 1920, Canada is again in the position of being the only country in the world to increase her output in the year. The Dominion is now the third largest producer of gold in the world and ranks second within the Empire.
