of his bereaved mother.

CONCERT.—A concert by the members of the St. George's church choir and the Goderich Glee Club, will be held in the S. S. house, on Monday evening next, January 28th, 1884. Some very pretty standard English songs will be rendered, and as several of the most prominent amateurs of the town have kindly consented to appear, a most enjoyable concert may be expected. Admission 25c.; children 15c. To commence at 8 p. m. Proceeds in aid of St. George's church choir fund.

CHORAL UNION.—At a meeting held in St. George's church S. S. house on Tuesday evening last, the following officers for this organization were elected: President, S. P. Hall; Vice President, Mr. R. B. Smith; Sec.-treas., R. S.
Williams; Committee, Messrs. Robson, Hayes and Kay. W. F. Foot was engaged as conductor. The first regular meeting for practice will be held on Monday evening, 4th of February, 1884, at 7:45 p. m. in St. George's church S.
S. house. The music has been ordered, and a full rehearsal is desirable.

M. McBride, principal of Stratford High School (formerly of Goderich) is proving a success in his new position.
The Beacon says the attendance at the school has increased, and that things are running very satisfactory under the new principal. As has often been remarked, there is no good reason why, with the facilities afforded, this school should not, as regards its reputation, stand equal to any in the Province. There are now signs of revival, harmonious working and anguine anticipation among the present staff, which is very gratifying.

The Mitchell correspondent of the Stratford Beacon says: "The annual charity services in Knox church were held on Sunday last, and were well attended. Rev. J. A. Turnbull, LL. B., at Goderich, preached on both occasions.
His discourses were appropriate, well reasoned and impressive. On Monday evening the annual tea-meeting was held, and was a success financially and otherwise." Rev. Messrs. Turnbull, Tully (chairman), Ayers, Gilpin and Cunningham gave addresses—brief and pithy.
The proceeds were about $100.

An exchange says:—Curling is all the rage at present, and is entered into with great enthusiasm by the Scotch members of the community. Those who play the game, as well as those who indulge in the exhilarating exercise of skating, will do well to take great care of themselves, as a cold may be so easily contracted by standing about on the ice, and a cold at this time of the year is not the easiest thing in the world to get rid of. There have been several instances of people being laid up by inflammation of the lungs in this way. The changeable weather we have had is very treacherous.

HYMNICAL.—On Wednesday a St. George's bell rang out merrily to honor to the nuptials of Miss Tremaine's thomas, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thomas, and F. W.
Secombe, son of R. Secombe, Esq., of London South. The bride was modestly attired in white cashmere encorsage, with trimmings of lace and white watered silk; bonnet to match, without plume or flower. The bridesmaids wore Misses Ann Cooke, youngest daughter of Major Cooke, and Miss Annie Bell, of Wingham, niece of the bride. Both were attired in white muslin, with bon-nets like the bride. The groomsmen were Messrs. J. Thomas, brother of the bride, and F. Fridman. The usual marriage ceremony at St. George's was solemnized by the Ven. Archdeacon Elwood and Rev. Mr. Walters. Mr.
Foot, organist, kindly played appropriate airs. Mr. Lawerson, Bayfield road, gave the bride away. The 10 a. m. train brought her late, Mr. and Mrs. Secombe, father and mother of the bridecomer, and Mr. Secombe, brother, were too late for the marriage ceremony at the church. The guests, of whom there were a large number, partook of breakfast at the home of the bride. The bridal party left with accompanying guests at 3 p. m. for Detroit, and on their return to their home at London South, will hold a reception.

The youthful editor of the Blyth Review threatens a libel suit against those young editors shouldn't let such small matters vex him. Mr. Aldrich, it appears, is not going to edit the Review.

The Carnival costumes at the Arcade tractive characters appearing on the ice.

THE NEW COUNCIL.

What was Done at the Statutory Meeting.

The town council for 1884 met on Monday morning last at 11 o'clock.
All the members took their seats, after making the usual declarations of qualification and office.

The mayor, in taking the chair, stated that the changes made by the election had not been very numerous. A large proportion of the old members had been returned, and he hoped the same harmonious feeling that had obtained during the past year would continue in the present council.

The council appointed H. W. Ball auditor for 1884, and the mayor appointed W. R. Robertson.

Messrs. Johnston, Murney, Colborne, Butler and Nairn were appointed on the selecting committee.

The following committee were then struck:—

STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE COUNCIL FOR 1884.

CENTREY.—Elliott, Bingham, Cantel-on, Nicholson, Murney.

COURT OF REVISION.—Mayor, Reeve, Deputy Reeve, Campion, Butler.

FINANCE.—Jordan, Reeve, Deputy Reeve, Colborne, Campion.

HARBOR.—Butler, Cantelton, Elliott, Mitchell, Nairn.

HEALTH.—Jordan, Cantelton, Colborne, Mitchell, Nicholson and J. L. Innes, medical men and druggists in town.

MARKET.—Nicholson, Bingham, Murney, Nairn.

PRINTING, STATIONERY AND SUPPLIES.
—Reeve, Lee, Cantelton, Mitchell, Nairn.

PUBLIC WORKS.—Bingham, Butler, Elliott, Mitchell, Murney, Lee, Colborne.

RELIEF.—Mayor, Elliott, Mitchell, Nicholson, Cantelton.

SPECIAL.—Mayor, Reeve, D'By Reeve, Nicholson, Colborne, Jordan, Murney, Lee, Mitchell, Campion.

The Mayor to be ex officio member of all committees on which he is not named.
The first named on each committee is chairman.

On motion the council adjourned.

CHANCERY'S CHANGES.

A Brief History of the Celebrated Case of Platt vs. Atrill.

This important case has at last been decided by the highest court in Canada in Mr. Atrill's favor. The facts, which may interest our readers, are as follows:

In 1850 Platt leased, with right of purchase, a part of blocks E and F, in the town of Goderich, for a mill site, and a right to build a dam across the Maitland, and to make a race from the dam to the mill. The mill site and mill race were particularly described in the lease by metes and bounds. Platt built the dam and the race within his limits, and dam across the river to communicate with the race, the whole having been completed and ready for use about Christmas, 1859.

Platt's lessors were the old Buffalo and Lake Huron R. Co., who then owned the lands forming both banks of the river up to Maitland bridge, except the old Galt property (Block Colborne).

Shortly after starting the mill, Platt discovered that the water-power was insufficient, and he thereupon extended the race up along the front of Block F, (then owned by his lessors the railway co.) to the Maitland bridge, where he built the stone dam. This work, which cost a large sum of money, was completed in 1865, and proved satisfactory as a sufficient water-supply. The mill originally built was an extensive and thoroughly equipped stone grist mill, with saw mill attached, and was no doubt a valuable property. The first mill, however, was burnt many years ago, and was never rebuilt.

In 1871 the R. R. Co. advertised and sold all their lands at Goderich, reserving only the mill site, mill race and dam as originally described. Mr. Atrill subsequently became the owner of all the lands thus sold.

In 1873 Mr. Platt's assignee obtained a deed from the Railway co. of the mill site, race, dam and race, under the original right of purchase. In this deed the mill site, race and dam were again described by particular metes and bounds precisely as in the original lease with right of purchase.

Atrill contended, as he had been advised that the new race was upon his part of Block F, and that as he owned the land on both sides of the river, the dam near the bridge was an interference with his riparian rights. He notified Platt of this when the dam and race through the action of freshets, required extensive repairs, to keep in future within his own bounds. Platt paid no attention to this, but repaired the race and dam as they had been, whereupon Atrill threw down the dam and closed up the race. Platt then commenced the dam and race as they had been, and Platt has, we understand, announced his intention to carry the case to the Privy Council, England, if that august tribunal, but rather distant, court will grant him leave.

The decree was affirmed by the Court of Appeal, but upon the ground that the race was not upon Atrill's land at all.

The Supreme Court, held, reversing the original decree, and the judgment of the Court of Appeal, and dismissing Platt's action with costs, that he had no right to the race or dam, and that Atrill was, therefore, justified in what he did.

The main question throughout was the proper legal construction or meaning of the conveyances, and the effect of the last judgment is simply to declare that that Platt's rights are limited by the metes and bounds mentioned in his conveyance which clearly stop short hundreds of yards below the dam, which with a road from it along Block F, he was claiming.
