THE HONOR OF LABOR.

Labor has at length come into its own. The nomination of Mr. William Linegar as the candidate of Labor, in association with the Opposition Party, at the great meeting held in the Star Hall on Thursday night marks a red letter day in the annals of the Newfoundland workingman. He and his organizations have been recognized by a party which is honored in having a labor representative in its ranks, and in Mr. Linegar the laboring classes have a man in whom they can repose the fullest confidence; for he is one who has been closely allied with the workingmen of St. John's for a quarter of a century, and has ever advocated labor representation in the House of Assembly. Now the opportunity has arrived and it is the duty of every worker with his hands to rally round their candidate and roll up for him on polling day a vote that will surprise the political enemies of Labor. There is no man more qualified to maintain the honor of Labor than Mr. Linegar, and his political success will give Labor that representation it has been so long seeking. Follows then that it is up to all laboring men to stand by their candidate through thick and thin; to stand by him till the last ballot has been deposited in the boxes on polling Carbonear day, and to then further strengthen his position by unswerving loyalty and devotion. The honor of Labor demands no less.

It will be remembered that Labor first placed candidates in the field in St. John's West in the general election of 1919. But the odds were too great, and the three-cornered fight resulted in the overthrow of the three nominees. In the bye-election of 1920 Labor became aligned with the Opposition Party, with the full consent and approval of the general committee. The issue was fought on the usual lines, but with a brand new government, flushed with its success of but a few months, there could be but the one outcome. At that time an agreement was entered into between the Opposition and Labor Parties that they would unite in one common cause. That union meant the recognition of Labor as a political entity in conjunction with the Opposition. Last Thurs- nett's stock is above par. day night it was consummated, and William Linegar received nomination conjointly with Sir Michael Cashin and Mr. C. E. Hunt Thus has the agreement been faithfully carried out. Labor gets is "on again and off again," now with its rightful place and is recognized by the leader of the Opposition one man, then with another as fast Party and its members. But you will look in vain on the Govern- as they pass the culling heard, till ment ticket for the name of any champion or advocate of the cause of Labor, directly identified with that class. Labor was not even approached by the Prime Minister, or even asked by his agents whether or not there was any desire to have a place on the political slate of the Government party. As Mr. Linegar publicly Government to compel them to exestated, Sir Richard Squires boasted that since the last election he cute any freak regulations that would had never been approached by Labor, consequently it is apparent that he has ignored its representatives entirely. But Labor will very well know how to resent that studied slight. It now has its chance; its hour has come, and to the last ditch it will stand by the against the menace of Coakerism. three Opposition candidates for St. John's West.

The Government have played at politics instead of practising in St. John's. statesmanship, and had more endeavored to keep their party alive rather than conserve the interests of the country. And it was due to that policy of drift and ineptness that St. John's West was as dead as it is at the moment. This statement was made by Mr. Hunt than whom there is no keener student of economics and conditions arising out of political neglect. Another assertion made by and desolation, is as much as any remedy for many forms of indigestion, the same gentleman, and one which is perfectly correct, was that people can suffer. What a blessing but especially for those kinds assocno country in the world had such a Government of misfits as had Newfoundland. "No man," he said, "is to-day earning the salary he did in 1919, unless he is high in Government circles. The majority of men who are just now able to follow their particular employment, are doing so at greatly reduced wages. If we have three and a half more years of this Government's rule, over fifty per cent. of St. John's will be breaking rocks or will have left the country, because there will be no trade or employment to offer." This statement is so true as to be appalling, but it is not over- Party for the districts of St. John's drawn. Three and a half more years of Squires-Coaker administration, and the country will be sucked dry of everything it possesses. No true lover of the home land desires to see such conditions. The mechanic, the tradesman, the artisan, the laborer now know where they stand with regard to the Government's affection for them, and should act accordingly. The honor of Labor is in their hands, and they will preserve that honor by voting the straight ticket for Cashin, Linegar and Hunt.
