—It is confidently expected that the Strauss concerts in Canada will be an immense success. In Montreal the subscription list is nine feet long, Ottawa will turn out well; Toronto has nearly 300 names on the list varying from one to fifteen tickets. The fifteen tickets are for a party who are coming over from Buffalo. "They do appreciate a good thing in Buffalo." Hamilton is solid for Strauss; and if the citizens of London wish to hear the greatest musical treat that ever came to this city, they will secure their seats now. The great combination will be at the Princess Rink on Sept. 19.

In the Toils at Last.

For the past few days Detectives Rider and Phair have been on the lookout for a man known around the city as J. H. Graham, who, it is alleged, has been working a series of advertising fakes in the city. Their man was in Toronto on Sunday and the officers gow word that he was coming through on the C. P. R. to Detroit. When the telegram was received the detectives had not sufficient time to reach the station before the train pulled out, so a description of Graham was wired to the officers at Windsor, where he was arrested by Detective Campau and Chief Bains. Detective Rider went down in the evening, but the Montreal authorities were there before him and were allowed to take both Graham and his accomplice back to Montreal where they are wanted on charges of fraud.

He Called Rer Ead Names.

Allan Daniel, a respectable looking man, dressed in his Sunday clothes, rat on a bench this morning in the Police Court, where he appeared in answer to a summons charging him with using abusive language to Mrs. Ametha Stephens. His counsel, Mr. Toothe, explained that the parties had a wrangle over some money affair, and in a moment of anger the defendant had used some hard language, for which he was now ready to apologize. The apology was ac-moment of anger the defendant had used some hard language, for which he was now ready to apologize. The apology was accordingly written out and signed, but the complainant announcing her intention to publish it in the papers, the defendant withdrew it. Mrs. Stephens went into the box and tostified that Allen had stood on the railway track over her back from and the railway track over her back fence called her vile names, reflecting on haracter and the nature of her house After some more wrangling the defendant settled the matter by tendering his apology and paying the costs.
