NEW YORK, March 24.—The representatives of the National League of Baseball Clubs met here Saturday. It was decided to purchase the interests of Washington and Indianapolis clubs so that there shall be only eight clubs in the League. The Indianapolis club will not resign but has offered to withdraw its nine from the field for the coming senson in order to help the League out of its difficulty. All the best players of the Indianapolis club, Denny Glassock, Bassett Buckley, Burkett, Somers, Rusie, Scanlan, Hines and Boyle will come to the New York club and the rest will be scattered. Washington will enter the Atlantic Association.

THE SAGINAW-BAY CITY CLUB.

A Bay City dispatch says: The Saginaw-Bay City club of the International League has elected the following officers: W. A. Pettapiece, Bay City, president; Geo. A. Reynolds, Saginaw, vice-president; Geo. A. Reynolds, Saginaw, with the abeve-mentioned officers, will compose the Board of Directors. Malcolm McArthur, of Detroit, will in all probability be selected as manager. Nearly cough money has already been subscribed and the balance can be easily secured. The prospects of the lnternational League are brightened very much by the enthusiasm reported from the Saginaw-Bay City combination. These cities are about 100 miles from Detroit, and about 10 or 14 miles apart. In Bay City, West Bay City, Saginaw and East Saginaw the club will have a population of about 90,000 to draw from, and with a good team the venture should pay. Buffalo is still a weak spot, as the Buffalo people have agreed to do little more than provide grounds for a club to be located there at the joint expense of the other members of the International, but it makes an easily-worked circuit. A schedule for the six-club circuit is being prepared, and will be submitted to the International meeting in this city to-morrow. The solidification of the League and the consideration of the League and the consideration of the League and the consideration of the Readule will be the bar.

Friel, who halls from Jersey City, played two months here last season, and his capabilities are familiar. Last year, however, he played right field, whereas his place is properly on the left, in which sosition he will play this year. He is a good hitter, base runner and fielder, as he showed last year even though under the disadvantage of being in his wrong position.

Hiland also played here last season and needs no description, except to remind baseball patrons of the clever way in which he filled the gap caused by Donovan's illness.

Leighton, the new center field, is from Quincy, Ill., and is considered equal to Patsy Donovan in every respect. He is a left-handed and a fine hitter and base runner. Anson, of the Chicago club, offered Fessenden $500 for his release the day after he was secured.

THE LONDON C. C.

The annual meeting of the London Cricket Club will be held to-morrow evening, and lovers of cricket who desire to see the game flourish this season should attend at the Tecumseh. Let an energetic secretary be chosen and everybody help him to make the club a success. London ought to lead the West in everything. There are other questions to decide: What about grounds? Shall the club have a bowler and coach? When shall we go for our summer holiday tour? What about the "Canterbury" this year?

Rousing Temperance Meeting at the City Hall.

The ex-Pugilist Gets in Some Hard Blows on the Liquor Traffic-A Big Crowd in Attendance.

The announcement that "Joe Hess," the reformed prize-fighter and saloon-keeper would speak on temperance in the City Hall yesterday afternoon had the effect of completely filling every seat on the floor and in the galleries, and by 4 o'clock—the time for opening—listeners were wedged in at all the doors. Ex-Ald. Winnett occupied the chair, and on his either side were Rev. Mr. Courtice and Mr. J. G. Shuff. In a few remarks stander, by saying that he had contemned the business and not the man, and in the course which he had pursued he had John Wesley as his example. The lecturer said: "I paid a visit to the jail this afternoon and had a talk with one of the prisoners; he is a citizen of yours, and told me that it was rum that did it.' I have reference to Mr. Smith, who is held for murder. He said to me: "Tell all the boys that I was a boy once and took my first glass, but the habit grew upon me.' I plead with you this afternoon to avoid the evil influences of drink. Who will be the next man that will take a glass of rum and go home and murder his wife?" The responsibility, in the opinion of the speaker, was not altogether with the man who committed such a deed, nor with the saloon-keeper, but equally so with the man who committed such a deed, nor with the saloon-keeper, but equally so with the city and the Province that permitted the sale of the liquor which was the cause of the deed. He held that the greatest educator was the power of the pulpit, which, if its power were set at work, could accomplish wonders. Next to the pulpit as a moral educator he would place the secular press, which had the power of either lifting or lowering the morals of the people, and he hoped that it would take up the temperance work. The third educator was the patrol wagon, which awakened many an indifferent mother or sister to the need for temperance reform when a son or brother was taken down in it for being drunk. The Women's Christian Temperance Union was was taken down in it for being drunk. The Women's Christian Temperance Union was an educator, but there was one more powerful and effective and this was the young ladies. This would be illustrated if the young ladies. This would be illustrated if the young men of the city with whom they kept company the same code of morals that the young men exacted from the women. He pointed out in a little story how a girl could influence the young man of her choice. Even tobacco should be frowned upon, and he indorsed the motto "that the lips that touch tobacco shall never touch mine" as the best one for young ladies. He spoke on the inevitable punishment that would follow the liquor traffic, quoting a passage from Isaiah, punishment that would follow the liquor traffic, quoting a passage from Isaiah, v., 11.: "Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink, that continue until night, when wine inflame them." He was of the opinion that woe had followed on the city in the ease of Mr. Smith and on the whole Province of Ontario. He gave some very amusing accounts of the frauds practiced by saloon-keepers and claimed that none could keep up the requirements of the license.

Many gentlemen expressed their great pleasure at the very prosperous condition of affairs which this report indicates. The unconditional policy of the company and its honorable and liberal treatment of its policy-holders have been undoubtedly the chief factors in bringing about its success and popularity. The rapidity of the growth may be judged from the fact that the yearly income is now about twelve times as large as it was in 1872, and more than double what it was even as late as 1884. The increase in the assets during the one year 1884, which had been accumulated during the previous fourteen years. And while the progress has been even more noticeable.

WINDEG, Man, March 24.—A few days ago a party of loggers stumbled over a pile of bones on the south side of the Lake of the Woods that were the silent and ghastly record of the terrible death of some human being. The bones consisted of a human skeleton and the skeletons of seven wolves. A revolver and seven empty cartridge shells were lying near the former, and it is supposed that the man was attacked by a pack of wolves and had made a desperate fight for life, killing seven of their number before being overpowered by the ferocious beasts. An old explorer named McManus, who has lived at Rat Portage for years, has been absent on the lake for a longer time than usual, and it is feared that it is he who has fallen a victim to the wolves. The remnants of clothing, it is said, resemble those worn by McManus. The revolver also looks like the weapon he had when last seen.
