

HARRY THAW MUST GO BACK
DECISION OF GOV. FELKER

In Statement He Declares That Any Other Course Would Be Violation of Interstate Laws—Case Now Rests With Federal Court.

[Canadian Press.]

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—Governor Felker today honored the requisition of the State of New York for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw. The case is now transferred automatically to the federal courts, where a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Thaw is pending.

The governor based his decision on the indictment returned against Thaw in New York County, and which charged him with conspiracy to escape from the insane asylum at Matteawan, N. Y., to which he was committed following his trial for the killing of Stanford White. Thaw made his spectacular flight on Aug. 17, and a few days later was arrested near Cooksboro, Que.

Thaw Not Present.

Thaw's attorneys announced that they would file immediately an amendment to their petition for a writ of habeas corpus, application for which made shortly after Thaw was arrested in this state, following his deportation from Canada. The original petition was based on the allegation that Thaw had been indicted for conspiracy by the Dutchess County grand jury, and it was suspended pending the governor's decision on the matter of extradition.

Because the extradition has now been granted on the strength of the New York County indictment it will be necessary to amend the petition accordingly.

Thaw was not present when Governor Felker announced his decision to the attorneys representing Thaw and the State of New York at the capitol. He will remain here in the custody of United States Marshal Nuts and Sheriff Drew, pending the federal proceedings.

Felker's Statement.

In granting the extradition, Governor Felker said in part:

"The sovereign state of New York, by its governor, has demanded of the proper authority of this state the extradition of Harry Thaw. A proper respect for the public interest manifested here in demands that I should state the views which form the basis of my decision.

"By the petition of Governor Glynn and the accompanying papers, it appears that the grand jury inquest of the county of New York has duly returned into open court an indictment against Mr. Thaw. That is sufficient to warrant the arrest, arraignment and trial of the respondent if he may be found within the state wherein the indictment is pending.

"It is, furthermore, sufficient to establish that Mr. Thaw is—if found in any state or country, while such indictment is pending—a fugitive from justice.

"The provisions of the federal constitution and the acts of Congress enacted to give force and effect thereto as construed by the courts are resorted to in such matters, limited me to the consideration of the question (1) whether the person demanded has been substantially charged with a crime, and (2) whether he is a fugitive from justice. Such was the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the most recent case, wherein in a sister state demanded of New Hampshire the interstate rendition of a person within her borders. In that case it was decided by a unanimous court that the proceedings in matters of this kind before the governor are summary in their nature. The person demanded has no constitutional right to be heard before the governor on either question, and the statute provides for none. To hold otherwise would in many cases, render the constitutional provision, as well as the statute passed to carry it out, wholly useless."

IN BATTLE OF WOMEN

Gray-Haired Old Woman Walked About Street With Blood Streaming From Temple—Was Taken to the Police Station.

Two well-dressed women assisted a gray-haired woman, who was bleeding profusely from a wound just above her right temple, to the police station this morning shortly before court time.

The women told the desk sergeant that they saw the aged woman wandering aimlessly down the street, and fearing that she would be injured at some street crossing by a rig or automobile, they brought her to the police station.

The woman told a story of being attacked in a rooming house by another

MR. MEREDITH FELT
THAT MRS. BEEMER
WOULD BE FREED

Crown Prosecutor Says That the Result Was as Had Been Anticipated.

HER OWN STORY STRONG

She Will Not Be Further Prosecuted By the Crown for Alleged Crime.

E. Meredith, K. C. interest.

"What do you consider was the strong point in her defence? Was it her own story on the stand?" asked the reporter.

"Well, yes, it was a factor," Mr. Meredith replied. "She certainly told her story very well. Then there was the suspicion that the man may have administered the strychnine himself. He was known to be in hard circumstances at the time, and the jury gave the woman the benefit of the doubt."

Asked as to what action the crown might take in the case as a result of the acquittal, Mr. Meredith explained that the verdict simply meant that Mrs. Beemer was not guilty of the crime with which she was charged. The crown might still contend that a crime was committed but they could not try Mrs. Beemer again on the charge.

Will Crown Continue? If the officers of the crown were convinced that a crime was committed they would still persist in the endeavor to bring the criminal to justice, but as to the probabilities of this in the present case, Mr. Meredith could not state.

WHAT CITY WANTED FOR GRANTING SUNDAY CARS

The absolute refusal of the street railway company to grant any concessions to the city, or pay a cent for the privilege of operating Sunday cars is rather interesting in view of the fact that the city was going to demand for the extension of the franchise of the company to the seventh day.

Ald. E. H. Johnston, prior to the conference of the city and the company, prepared the city's demands. They were:

1. Fifteen per cent of gross proceeds.
2. Workingmen's tickets to be good on Sunday.
3. The street railway to be extended along the Hamilton road from Egerton street to the city limits.
4. The company to provide air-brakes on all cars.
5. The company to extend its line from Wharncliffe road to Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Preparation of Marines at Portsmouth, Declared Part of Training.

LONDON PRESS COMMENT

General Diaz Still in Jail at Havana and Is in Pessimistic Mood.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—No announcements were made either at the White House or state department today as to the progress of the negotiations conducted by Mr. O'Shaughnessy and John Lind in Mexico City to bring about the retirement of Huerta.

Though there have been intimations, official and unofficial, that Huerta would reject the American demands, the next step is dependent on the receipts of an absolute and final answer.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—At the navy department it was denied that the preparations of marines at Portsmouth had to do with the Mexican situation, and it was officially said that the activity there was preliminary to the execution of plans announced several weeks ago, for the working out of an advanced base problem on a large scale by the marines.

When the cabinet meeting broke up the members were shown news dispatches from Mexico City saying Huerta's formal reply would be a complete denial of the right of the United States to demand his retirement, but without exception none would comment. All admitted that the Mexican situation had been discussed but silence was the rule.

English Press Comment.

London, Nov. 8.—The Daily Mail says the key to the Mexican crisis lies in Huerta's attitude. "The alternatives before him are clear," the Daily Mail continues. "On the one hand, he may retire, thus consulting the best interest of the nation, which already has suffered so much from the effects of internecine strife. On the other hand, he may defy the Washington cabinet and elect to lead a forlorn hope against the Constitutionalists, who will advance beneath the shield of Mexico's great neighbor. Peace is now Mexico's paramount need, and the duty before every Mexican patriot is clear."

The Daily Chronicle says: "The danger in the situation is that the dictator may try to play off England against the United States, at the same time arousing the suspicions of the people, who are none too friendly to Huerta, by the false suggestion that the United States has designs on the country. A month after the assassination of Madero, England, with regrettable precipitancy, recognized Huerta."

Many are complaining about ash collection. In some cases citizens are at fault for failure to provide cans.

While the garbage department is complaining that the citizens are failing to cooperate in providing ash and garbage cans, citizens are complaining that the garbage department is not as efficient as it should be. The advertiser has been literally besieged with complaints during the past few days. Since the separate collection of ashes and garbage went into effect, the complaints have more than tripled.

The general contention of the citizens is that the wagons of the department do not call often enough. They claim that a week is not sufficient for the removal of the garbage and ash accumulation. A week's ashes, they claim, is a nuisance to have in the house. It is impossible to get it into an average-sized can. For this reason they are "kicking" for a more frequent service.

Many of the complaints are unjustified. The fact that the department refuses to take ashes that are not placed in cans with the required cover, is a reason that many citizens give for their objections. However, the department has declared that on sanitary grounds a cover must be provided. These rules have to be lived up to, according to Supt. C. Dodd, of the department, who refuses to go to back doors for the ashes, and will force citizens to place it in the can.

VINCENT ASTOR TO WED

Announces His Engagement to Miss Helen Huntington.

[Canadian Press.] New York, Nov. 8.—Vincent Astor confirmed through his secretary today the announcement that he was engaged to marry Miss Helen Huntington. Huntington, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huntington of Stamford, N. Y., the wedding it is understood, will take place next spring.

Young Astor inherited about $65,000,000 from the estate of his father, the late Col. John Jacob Astor, who perished on the Titanic. He will be 22 years old this month. The bride-to-be is 20. The Astor country place adjoins that of the Huntington family at Staatsburg, which is a few miles north of Poughkeepsie, and the young people have known each other since childhood. Miss Huntington is the granddaughter of the late William B. Dinsmore, a millionaire resident of Tuxedo.

Middlesex County Has Put
20 Miles of Road in Shape

Mr. Arthur Sedgewick, assistant highway engineer of the Public Works Department of the province, has just completed a tour of inspection over the road-work done in the county of Middlesex this summer.

Somewhere in the neighborhood of twenty miles of road has been put in good conditions in the county this summer, according to County Engineer Charles Talbot. The roads on which work was done have been practically rebuilt, and properly drained. The expense was between $18,000 and $20,000. Bridge work to the extent of about $10,000 was also done.

IS GRAND TRUNK TO MAKE OFFER
FOR CITY'S LINE?

Vice President Dalrymple Personally Inspects London and Port Stanley Line.

INTENTION NOT STATED

We'll-Defined Rumor Has It That Road Will Open Negotiations With City.

Mr. J. E. Dalrymple, vice-president of the Grand Trunk, arrived in the city this morning in his private car, and with several officials made a trip over the London and Port Stanley Line as far as Port Stanley. Previous to leaving for Port Stanley he was taken over the interswitching line in East London.

Won't State Purpose.

Questioned as to the purpose of his trip over the city's line, Mr. Dalrymple was non-committal. "I have a day to spare in this vicinity, and as I have not been over the London and Port Stanley line in many years I thought I would like to take a trip to the lakeside today," he said. Superintendent Tasker, of the Pere Marquette, came over from St. Thomas this morning to meet Mr. Dalrymple, and accompanied him on the trip.

Asked to make a denial of the garbled report of an interview with him which appeared in a local paper last Monday, Mr. Dalrymple said he preferred to say nothing at present. "You were present at the interview and know what was said," he continued. "Of course I know some reporters feel they have to earn their salaries the same as I do, so we will let the matter drop for the present."

Will Road Make Offer? A rumor to the effect that the Grand Trunk would make the city an offer for the line to be run as a steam line before any work was started on it, has been in circulation in railroad circles for some time, and Mr. Dalrymple's trip over the line this morning strengthens the rumor.

Mr. Dalrymple also said that his trip over the interswitching was one of inspection. It is understood, however, that he went over the line to get first-hand information about the location of the proposed C. P. R. switch into the McCormick property.

May Refuse Switch.

Some time ago the C. P. R. applied to the city for permission to construct a switch into the McCormick property. The matter was taken up with the railway commission and the desired permission given, provided the Grand Trunk should not protest within a certain time. The Grand Trunk asked for an extension of the time, and two weeks was granted. It is understood that Mr. Dalrymple as soon as he returns to Montreal will take up the matter with the commission and enter an objection to the C. P. R. switch.

Early Police Court. — Police court will be held at 9 o'clock instead of 10 on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday next week on account of the registration for East Middlesex taking place on those days.

Wingham Folk in Odd Case Over the Caprice of a Hen.

GETS IN POLICE COURT

Wingham, Nov. 8.—Police Magistrate Morton has a difficult case to decide, and it is all owing to the caprice of Sarah, a prize hen, the property of Mr. Harry Brown, who is the plaintiff in the case. Sarah recently took a notion to spend the nights on the fence of Mrs. R. Henderson, rather than in the home coop. In an attempt to put a stop to these ramblings, Mr. Brown tried to get the hen, but before he could get hold of it, Mrs. Henderson seized the bird for rent of her fence for sleeping purposes. This action caused Mr. Brown to put in a charge of theft, with the result that the matter was transferred to the police court. Twenty-one witnesses have been summoned in the case. It was called Friday, but owing to the plaintiff's counsel being out of town, it was postponed until next Tuesday.

He rose in his biplane from the outskirts of the village in an exploration flight over the positions of the Moroccan natives at Benisimar.

At an altitude of about three thousand feet his motor suddenly stopped. He made a rapid viroplane descent, and succeeded in regaining control of the machine just as it touched ground. He was able to resume his flight before the natives, who had witnessed his descent, could arrive at the spot.

MR. THOMAS H. SMALLMAN TELLS THE MAYOR NOT TO "SIR" HIM

"Your Manner Is Sickening," Says Vice-President of Street Railway to Graham—"Putting On Side" Arouses Mr. Smallman—The Sunday Car Question.

Not a single concession will be granted by the street railway company for the privilege of operating Sunday cars in London. This flat statement was made by Vice-President T. H. Smallman at the conference of street railway officials and aldermen at the city hall on Friday afternoon. The question of fares and schedules, which would be operative if a Sunday service were instituted here is still in abeyance. They are to be presented to the council in the form of a report before Nov. 15, and will form the basis of the only agreement that now seems possible in the Sunday car negotiations.

The statement of Mr. Smallman that no concessions would be granted was an unqualified one. "We will not pay a cent for the privilege of running Sunday cars," he said. "The company is indifferent and we do not care to mix up in the discussion at all."

Manager King's Views. When the Sunday car debate was opened, the company officials were asked to present their views on the question. Manager C. B. King was the first to reply.

"I thought that I expressed it last week," he stated. "I doubt whether our earnings would justify the expense. They would be comparatively less in London than in cities where they now have Sunday cars, in view of the high feeling against them. So many here are opposed to the idea of Sunday cars that the patronage would be small. I would not suppose that the same service as week days would be demanded, would you? You wouldn't have the cars start at 6 a.m. and run until midnight. Any sane man knows that."

Mayor Graham: "What difference would there be in the patronage of Sunday cars and that of an ordinary holiday?"

Mr. Smallman: "We would have no parks, no ball games to take the people to; no one to work on Sunday."

Sunday Ball Games.

Mayor Graham: "Well, if what they say is true, I guess that there are more ball games going on in the outskirts of the city on Sunday than on holidays."

Mr. Smallman: "Do you want to prove Continued on Page Ten."

DR. MACGREGOR HAS BEEN

"A MINISTERING ANGEL"

TO THE SICK IN PRISON

Jackson, Mich., Newspaper Comes Forward With a Flat Avowal

of His Innocence—New Trial Hearing May

Be Concluded on Monday.

These are anxious days for Dr. Robert Macgregor, the former London physician, who is now serving a life sentence in Jackson penitentiary for the murder by slow poisoning of Cyril Sparling, a young man who resided near Bad Axe, Mich. The reason for his anxiety lies in the fact that his attorneys, believing in the claim which he has always put forward that he is innocent of the crime of which he was convicted, have taken his case before the supreme court of the United States, and that body is now engaged in determining whether or not Dr. Macgregor is entitled to a new trial. It is expected that a decision will be rendered Monday.

Arousing Great Interest.

The case is arousing tremendous interest in Michigan, and many Londoners are watching the proceedings with the hope of seeing the young man cleared of the crime charged against him. A few months ago a sensation was sprung in the matter when it was reported that a brother of Cyril Sparling was dying from the same symptoms which attended the death of his brother. Dr. Macgregor's contention at the time of his trial was that Cyril Sparling died, not from poisoning, but from an obscure disease, which was common to his family. Had the brother died from apparently the same cause, it would have been convincing proof that Dr. Macgregor's claim was just.

New Trial Is Likely.

It is quite possible that the whole matter will be opened up again through the investigation now going on before the supreme court.

The Jackson Citizen, one of the leading papers of that city, has the following to say of Dr. Macgregor, in its issue of Nov. 6:

"Dr. Macgregor is a typical, honest-looking, apparently splendidly-charactered man, such as is usually found occupying the non-to remunerative office of physician in a country community. To know him in his prison life is to lead one to believe that some court must have erred in its judgment, and this is what Dr. Macgregor says is true in his case."

"A Ministering Angel."

"Since coming to the prison, where the sunlight of ambition is usually blighted out, so far as the prisoner is concerned, Dr. Macgregor has become like a ministering angel to the inmates of the penitentiary. In his capacity as assistant in the prison hospital, his services have become invaluable. No matter what his day's work has been, say the prison officials, he is never too tired to sit by the bedside of a sufferer during the long hours of the night in an effort to stay the progress of disease or to quiet pain and allay the suffering of the patient."

Not a Guilty Man.

"News that this man is to receive a new trial, should such tidings be made possible by the action of the state's highest court, will be welcomed by every inmate of the prison and by all the officials connected with the place. They say of him that his actions and bearing are not those of a guilty man, but rather those of a man, buoyed up by a clear conscience, and the belief that the wrongs which at the present weigh heavily, will yet be righted."

"Should a new trial be granted it is probable that a change of venue will be asked, which, if granted, will take the trial of the case into a new field and permit Dr. Macgregor being transferred to the county jail of the county where the trial is to be held."

then we would have only about half the patronage of the city."

Mr. Smallman: "Sunday cars would be a convenience I know, but their patronage would only be for church-going purposes. There is no place to go outside of church, except to visit relatives and friends in other parts of the city. I don't think that a railway service would have enough traffic to make it pay. There is no doubt that it is a convenience. You have the right to order the service."

Ald. Spittal: "You would get your power for nothing. It won't make any difference whether you use it six days a week or seven."

Mr. Smallman: "We will be very happy if we get it for six days a week."

Must Pay Extra Day.

Manager King: "The power is metered and we would have to pay for the seventh day."

Mayor Graham: "Can you give us some basis of your Sunday schedules?"

Mr. Smallman: "That would be premature now."

Mayor Graham: "Well, we want to know the conditions. Would you operate the same service and schedule on Sunday as you would on the week day?"

Mr. Smallman: "That would be decided by the patronage. You wouldn't suppose that the same service as week days would be demanded, would you? You wouldn't have the cars start at 6 a.m. and run until midnight. Any sane man knows that."

Mayor Graham: "What difference would there be in the patronage of Sunday cars and that of an ordinary holiday?"

Liberal Majority Cut By Unionists

[Canadian Press.]

Linthgow, Scotland, Nov. 8.—Mr. Pratt, the Liberal candidate for Linthgowshire, was successful over his Unionist opponent, James Kidd, but by a greatly reduced majority, at the by-election held here yesterday. The figures were: Mr. Pratt (Liberal), 5,615; James Kidd (Unionist), 5,094.

At the last election Alexander Ure, the Liberal, polled 5,835 votes against the 3,765 received by James Kidd, the Unionist.

Mr. Ure vacated the seat a few weeks ago on his appointment as lord president of the Scottish court of sessions, and it was difficult for the Liberals to find a candidate to replace him, but Mr. Pratt, who was a former bailie of Glasgow, and practically unknown in the constituency, was selected to meet the Unionist, James Kidd, who had been before the electors for years.

The contest was vigorously fought, no
