

Hawser of Human Hair.

One of the sacred relics in the great Buddhist temple at Kyoto, Japan, is a rope of human hair 800 feet long and three inches thick, made from the heads of millions of Japanese women.

To Win a Quiet Girl, First Appeal to Her Brain; Then to Her Maternal Instinct; Then Become a Habit, and Finally Sweep Her Off Her Feet.

A young man asks me if I will give him some hints on how to woo a quiet, unemotional girl to whom caveman stuff does not appeal.

Well, son, I am not denying that when a maiden is several thousand years beyond secretly craving to be courted with a club, and to have a man drag her off to his two-by-four flat by her lovely red hair, winning her presents a good many more difficult than it does with the more primitive of her species.

Still, it can be done, for every girl's heart is a citadel with a door that she leaves unguarded in the hopes that the right man will have the gumption to guess the combination of its locks one day, and walk in and take possession of the premises.

So it is up to you to find the key; and do a little porch-climbing, and here are a few suggestions about how to do the trick:

First, get her really interested in you. Spend less time in making love to her than you do in talking to her about world affairs, and books, and the philosophies of life.

The girl who is just a bunch of throbbing nerves and senses never looks beyond the moment. It is enough for her that she palpitates at the touch of a hand, or the sound of a footstep, or that some man's kisses fill her with ecstasy.

If you can get a girl so interested in what you think that she saves up subjects to discuss with you, you have got her going.

If the quiet girl's eyes brighten when you come, press your suit with vigor. But if she yawns, and says that mother does not approve of callers after 10:30, waste no more time upon her.

Your second play is to convince your quiet, unemotional girl that you need her. Ordinarily, a man who is courting a girl piques her interest by keeping her guessing, and the more uncertain she is that he wants her, the more she wants him.

Threaten to commit suicide if she says "no," or convince her that you will pine away and die of a broken heart. Tell her all the hard-luck stories you can conjure up, and make her realize that all the comfort you have in this sad and sordid vale of tears is her understanding and sympathy.

If you have a past, do not hide it under a bushel when you go courting the quiet, unemotional woman. Above all things else, she adores reforming people, and if you can make her believe that all you need is her sweet, womanly influence to lead you to the higher life, and that with her by your side you will never listen to the voice of the bootlegger again, or play another card, or ace another skirt, she is yours for the taking.

She will lecture you, oh, so gently, and pray for you, oh, so fervently; and when a woman undertakes to be a man's guardian angel, it is all over but sending out the announcement cards.

Your third play is not to be weary of well doing. Have patience. Camp on your lady love's doorstep. Become a habit with her.

Let her get used to depending on you for most of her pleasures and entertainment, and then, if she still persists in telling you that she can only be a sister to you, suddenly tell her that you accept her decision as final. That will give her a shock that will make her sit up and take notice.

Finally, son, do not put too much faith in the theory that a girl is unemotional because she does not fall in love at first sight, and broadcast her feelings to the world. Because a girl does not tear her heart upon her sleeve is no sign it isn't doing business at the old stand in her breast.

Often the quiet people who have least to say about their affections love the most. Still waters run deep, you know, and there are volcanoes masked with snow.

And these quiet people, who are too shy to show their own affections, are the easiest to sweep off their feet with violent and tempestuous love-making. They yearn to be loved, to be flattered, caressed, cajoled. They long to be told that a man can't live without them, and there's not a mother's daughter of them who can resist the man who sets the wedding day, and tells her that he is going to marry her whether she will have him or not.

So, if I were a young man in love with a quiet, unemotional girl, I'd just step on the gas, and break the speed laws going to the paragon with her.

CHESLEY AVENUE CLUB MAKES PRESENTATION

Honors Miss Myrtle Corbin, Bride-Elect, at Last Night's Meeting.

A splendid turnout of members marked the first meeting of the Chesley Avenue Mothers' Club held at the school last night. Miss Frank Mayne the new president, in the chair for the first time. The feature of the evening was a short address by Miss Wade on "Mothers of Men," in which the speaker pointed out that the world had no substitute for the mother's love. A very fine musical program included violin selections by Miss Pauline Fitzgerald, Mrs. Frank Smith acting as accompanist; vocal solos by Miss Myrtle Corbin, Mrs. English the accompanist; and vocal selections by Mr. Wilson with Mr. Minnitt as accompanist. Clever readings by Miss Kathleen Patton were also included in the program. During the evening the members of the club presented Miss Corbin who is leaving the teaching staff of the school to be married shortly, with a handsome cut glass bowl. The meeting was made more interesting by the presence of several members of the Empress of the North Club, the club is planning to have the St. Lawrence Club with them at the November meeting.

An interesting debate has been arranged for the January meeting, the subject being "Resolved That the World is Getting Better and Better." Mrs. A. E. Tutt and Mrs. H. Moyer will uphold the affirmative side of the argument while Mrs. H. S. Fellow and Mrs. W. Palmer will take the negative side of the question.

WILL BRING PRESIDENT OF HADASSAHS TO CITY

Expect Visit From Mrs. David Dunkelmann on November 8.

The Hadassah Chapter is planning to bring to the city Mrs. David Dunkelmann of Toronto, president of the Ontario Hadassah Chapter, and she probably arrange a banquet in her honor of the evening of November 8. The chapter members are also assisting the Daughters of Zion with their dance which is to be held on November 1.

Another important undertaking of the chapter will be the harvest festival which the chapter is planning to hold some time in December. Their booth at the Streets of Wonderland Bazaar will be a silk stocking booth, and the members have planned to decorate it in black and orange.

A FLAG IS PRESENTED TO JUVENILE COURT

Judge Warner and Court Officials Delighted at Gift of Municipal Chapter.

The juvenile court is rejoicing, because at last it has a beautiful flag presented with a beautiful union jack which covers the wall space in front of the judge's seat. The flag is the gift of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., and has already seen one court sit.

Judge G. Q. Warner has written a letter of appreciation to the Daughters of the Empire. The flag filled a vacancy which has been keenly felt ever since the establishment of the court. Now children in attendance at this court will have the flag of the British Empire to inspire them to higher ideals. And give them a feeling of debt to the nation which has given them protection.

Fashions by Wire

Special to The Advertiser. Copyright.

Paris, Oct. 23.—In accordance with the fantastic contrasts which designers love this season, the heaviest furs are being combined with the most fragile fabrics. Great founches of sable or marten are edged, for example, with a tiny tulle ruff.

The Serpent's Head. Paris, Oct. 23.—Not content with having their gloves and wrist bags made out of snake skin, the elite are now wearing serpent's heads to their articles. One wrist bag is in the form of a silken coiled serpent, while a pair of gloves has serpent's heads woven on the palms.

Hats, Black and Small. London, Oct. 23.—Most hats just now are black and small. But their tinsel is brightened by a gaily hued trim or by one of the striking Rhinestone pins so much in evidence.

Plaid Stockings. London, Oct. 23.—Plaid stockings, extraordinarily vivid and striking, are being offered by some of the smart shops for sports wear. This hosiery, which is fleecy and woolen, should be worn with a sports suit of plain color.

Shoes Simple Again. New York, Oct. 23.—Shoes have suddenly taken a turn toward the simple and unadorned. The toe area is a trifle rounded, the shoe itself fits very smoothly, and the ornamentation is unobtrusive.

Long Coat Again. New York, Oct. 23.—Back the fashions travel once more to the long coat which is really long. More often than not it reaches today to the hem of the gown, though sometimes it clears the hem by two or three inches. Bracelet Matches. New York, Oct. 23.—And now it is the bracelet which perfectly matches the necklace. Beads strung on thin wire in three strands form the fashionable armband of the moment, which is usually worn on the upper arm.

Warm Negligees. New York, Oct. 23.—There is a vogue today for warm, comfortable negligees which by contrast make the flimsy ones look rather chilly. These new negligees are of cut corduroy, velvet, or of crepe de chine lined with albatross or wool in the same shade.

PLAN BAZAAR. Special to The Advertiser. Thorncliffe, Oct. 23.—The ladies of the Methodist Church purpose holding a bazaar in the league room of the church on Friday afternoon.

Mass Meeting of Children Planned For November 3

Will Parade Streets to Wesley Hall, Carrying Banner, "A Little Child Shall Lead Them."

A mass meeting of the children will be held in the city in connection with the World's Missionary Convention to be held here at the beginning of November. Miss Mayme Young, treasurer of the local children's work board, is carrying out the detail work in connection with this meeting, which the board members hope will be the largest of its kind ever held in the city.

Saturday afternoon, November 3, is the date of the meeting, which will be held at Wesley Hall, First Methodist Church. Promptly three o'clock the children will gather at the church. A grand parade about the block will be the feature of the day, carrying at their head a huge banner bearing the words: "A Little Child Shall Lead Them."

The meeting will be adapted to meet the needs of the children. It is expected that a returned missionary, contented like the people of some eastern countries, will be present to explain lantern slides of the different missionary countries, which will be shown during the afternoon.

A number of London members of the children's work board expect to go to Stratford for the provincial children's work convention which is being held there.

POLLYANNA CLUB MEETS. The members of the Pollyanna Club held an interesting supper meeting at the King Street Y. W. C. A. last night, when plans for the winter's work were made. One of the chief works of the club this fall will be the dressing of dolls for children of the homes, to be presented at Christmas time. Several stunts were practised at the meeting, which will be presented by the members at the big Halloween party which is to be held at the "Y" on Tuesday next.

SPEAKS AT CHEAPSIDE. Cheapside, Oct. 23.—The anniversary services of the Methodist Church were held on Sunday last. The speakers were Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Bagshaw. The choir consisted of the Selkirk Quartet, furnished the music.

Social and Personal

Mrs. E. Wilson is visiting relatives in Lincoln, Nebraska. Miss R. Kearns of Palmerston is visiting Mrs. C. Whitmore, Wellington street. Mrs. Van Dusen of Toronto is the guest of Mrs. George Peters, Sherwood avenue.

Miss E. O'Leary of Port Arthur is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. Bidwell, Waterloo street. Mr. Fred Marshall is leaving Friday morning on a trip to Detroit and Indianapolis. He will be gone for a month or six weeks.

Mrs. A. C. Joseph goes to Toronto on Friday to attend the meeting of the executive of the Ontario Graduate Nurses' Association. Mrs. Fred Evans, Horton street, entertained recently at a linen shower in honor of Miss Mary Ashton, a bride-elect of next month.

Complimenting Miss Lorna Deane, whose marriage takes place early in November, Miss Kathleen Cole is entertaining at a small tea tomorrow. Miss Alma Grigg, 64 Bruce street, is visiting at the home of Miss Bertha Needham, Balmoral avenue.

Miss Aline Hagitt of Hotel Dieu, Windsor, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hargitt, Talbot street, prior to their departure for California. S. Mrs. George Hargitt and daughters, Misses Frances and Thelma, of Talbot street left yesterday for St. John, Canada, where they will spend the winter.

The choir and congregation of St. Paul's Cathedral are holding a farewell party to-night, in honor of Mr. Harry Carson, who is leaving shortly to reside in Regina, where he has been transferred by the postoffice department.

The Women's Canadian Club have invited the press men and women of the city as well as a number of local writers to a dinner being held during Canadian Book Week. Mr. John M. Gunn will speak on Canadian poets. The affair has been arranged for November 16.

Dr. John R. Armstrong and Mrs. Armstrong are spending this week in Chicago, where the former is attending the American Congress of Surgeons. While there they are guests with Dr. and Mrs. Basil Harvey.

Mr. John Webb of Windsor, accompanied by his wife and daughter, spent the week-end evening in honor of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Webb, of John street.

Dr. V. A. Callaghan, house surgeon at St. Joseph's Hospital, is in Chicago attending the annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, being held in that city.

Invitations are out for a charity ball which is to be held in the Winter Gardens on November 9, under the auspices of the Campbell Becher Chapter, I. O. O. F., and the Arcadian Club. Twelve hundred cards were mailed today by members of the invitation committee.

An interesting event of Tuesday, October 30, will be the Halloween dance which the Edinburgh Castle Camp 109 is holding at the Moose Hall. Mrs. A. Henderson is convener, and on her efficient committee are Miss May Robertson and Miss Mary Hagan.

Among the interesting events of tomorrow afternoon is the reception of a recent bride, Mrs. Harold Snelgrove, formerly Miss Laura Stephenson, at her home in Byron.

A delightful Halloween affair will be the tea and dancing which is being given under the auspices of Ryerson Mothers' Club in the school. A charming program has been arranged, including selections by the school orchestra and choir. Mrs. Frank Jones is acting as convener.

A charming affair of Thursday, October 25, will be the dance being given under the auspices of St. Joseph's Nurses Alumnae. Miss Margaret Harvey is acting as governor of the dance, and music will be supplied by Miss M. Lethbridge's orchestra.

Revival of Oil Lighting in Germany.

So great is the cost of illuminating gas in Germany that the family oil lamp has once more become popular and long lines of men and women wait outside fuel stations to have the oil can filled.
