Another Record Established for Month of November, and Year's Total May Reach Five Millions

With permits already issued this month for buildings aggregating in value $510,000 and plans of another structure to cost $125,000 being examined by the building inspector, a permit for which will in all likelihood be issued before the end of the month. November promises to establish another monthly ouilding record. October's showing was $563,000, the largest single month in the history of the city. To date the value of the structures for which permits have been issued this year is $3,678,565, a million more than for the whole of 1910, and this record figure will next month be greatly added to when the permits for the new Belmont block at boldt street, the new St. John's church and the new building of the Union Bank of Canada are issued and, in all likelihood, a permit for the new addition to the Parliament buildings to cost $750,-000. In fact Building Inspector Northcott believes that when 1911 ends the figures will approximate very closely to the $5,000,000 mark not including the expenditures made in districts immediately idjacent to the city such as Oak Bay. Esquimalt and South Saanich, in all of which the year has been an active one in a building way.

ures was made yesterday when the permit for the new wing to the Empress Hotel, the contract for which has been let to Messrs J. L. Skene & company, was issued. The cost of the addition is placed at $250,000. The new structure, a detailed description of which has already appeared in these columns will be of reinforced concrete construction, instead of the steel construction used in the last addition made; it will be seven stories in height and in keeping with the balance of the magnificent hotel building. Work has already commenced.

Other permits issued yesterday were to J. K. Lee Dye for a two storey store and lodging building to be erected at the corner of Quadra and Fisguard streets to cost $12,000, the plans of which have been prepared by Mr. C. E. Watkins, the contract having been let to Mr. Thomas Hudson; to Messrs. T. N. Hibben & Company, temporary store premises at the corner of Broad and View streets to cost $2,000; to Mr. Howard Clark, dwelling on Empress avenue $1,900; to Mr. William Wilson, alterations to the store fronts of the Victoria Hotel, to cost $1.800.

BRIBERY CHARGE

Investigator for Defence in Mc-Namara Case Accused of Endeavoring to Illegally Influence Veniremen

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—The ugly smirch of suspected bribery was trailed today across the trial of James B. McNamara for the alleged murder of Charles J. Haggerty, a victim of the a pleased prosecution and a dumbfounded defense took stock of the day's work of Samuel L. Browne, chief investigator of the state, who arrested three men and stacked District Attorney John D. Fredericks' desk high with yellow bills taken from their pockets in Fredericks' presence.

Bert H. Franklin, a former deputy by the defense as an investigator, released late today on $10,000 cash bail, is to appear in court tomorrow to answer to charges of bribery and attempted bribery sworn to against him by Browne, while George H. Lockwood, an unsummoned venireman, and C. E. ("Cap") White, an alleged stakeholder, both arrested, are at liberty, and, according to District Attorney Fredericks will appear as witnesses against Five hundred dollars, taken from Lockwood's pockets, is declared by the prosecution to have been the first payment of a sum which he was to have received if he would prevent an adverse verdict in the McNamara case, and $3,500 found on him was declared to be the balance to be paid when the grand jury investigation to determine where the money came from flew thick and fast throughout the day. No grand jury is now in session, but a special one may be called. This is not necessary so far as Franklin is concerned, because his case can be taken care of through an information filed by the district attorney, but if it is desired to reach anyone not under arrest, an indictment is necessary.

Investigator Browne would go no further than to say that no more arrests would be made today, although earlier in the day, amid the excitement of the arrests, he had predicted other more important ones to follow.

There was nothing stereotyped about the arrest of Franklin. It was no saloon or hotel room scene familiar to followers of exposes. A deputy United States marshal for years, with whatever acquaintance with criminal meth- of which shall be beneficial in whole ods and the methods devised to catch criminals his work may have given which cases a fair adjustment shall be him, Franklin was arrested on a street | made. corner in the heart of the Los Angeles; alleged, they had stuffed the money into them.

narched to the hall of records, where the McNamara trial is staged on the eighth floor, and District Attorney Fredericks waited for them at the end of a long corridor on the eleventh floor. Hands in pockets, they entered his office, and when hands came out, Browne declares the yellow bills clung to their fingers. Twenty minutes later two of the -Lockwood, the venireman, and White, an ex-juror and supposed stakeholder-went out of the swinging doors free, hardly enough time having elapsed for the dictation and signing of a statement, if this was done. The announcement that they would appear against Franklin as state witnesses followed them out. Franklin, unperturbed, remarked that the state would find it was mistaken and had no case. A question as to the legal status of Lockwood arose as soon as the report of the arrest gained circulation. He had not been reached by any subpoena, the corner of Government and Hum- Unless some one other than officers of the court told him he was on the venire list, he did not know it, and if he did not know it, he could not have been bribed to "hang" a jury or do anything else to it. This the state concedes. District Attorney Fredericks, however, asserted that Lockwood was legally connected with the jury from the moment his name was drawn from the big red jury wheel last Saturday.

Committee of City Council Proposes to More Than Double Civic Area—Conferring With Outside Sections

A Greater Victoria which will certainly be worthy of the designation "greater," a territory within the cororate limits which, in addition to the 1436nt area, would also include Oak Bay, Esquimalt, and that portion of South Saanich lying south of a line drawn from Mount Douglas, on the acrtheast, to Knockan Hill on the northwest, is what is proposed by a committee of the city council to be hereafter designated the City of Victoria. In a report submitted at last night's meeting of the council the ex-tension of the present limits was advocated by the mayor and Aldermen Okell, Gleason and Moresby, constituting the committee, and suggestions AT LOS ANGELES as to the future financial arrangements with the sections taken in were also made.

In the discussion which followed even larger schemes were hinted at, Mayor Morley suggesting that now that the city's water problem has been practically settled, it would be in order, in the event of the extension of the limits as proposed being agreed upon, to take steps towards an adequate tramway service commensurate with the greater area to be served and that unless the present tramway company saw fit to so improve its service as to make it adequate to the needs of the residents of the Greater Victoria, to consider the advisability of expropriating the company's plant and system. "We have Los Angeles Times disaster. Tonight settled the water question," said his worship, "and could turn our attention to that, "that" meaning the tram-

The discussion on the report was cut short by reason of the fact that when the hour of 11 o'clock, the legal time for the termination of council proceedings, arrived, Alderman Langley vacated his seat and made for United States marshal, now employed the door, thus leaving the council without a quorum and no motion to extend the time could be passed. The ### committee's report follows:

What Is Proposed "We, your special committee, on the proposed extension of the city limits, beg to report and recommend as follows:

"That the limits be extended so a to include the whole of the Esquimalt peninsula south and east of the new Songhees reserve; all that por tion of Saanich, east and south of the following line: Beginning at the point of intersection of the west line of Section 16 with Portage Inlet, thence northeast along the said west line of section 16 to where it is intersected by a continuation of the base line between Knockan Hill and Mount Dougjury were discharged. Rumors of a las; thence easterly along the said base line to where it intersects the western limits of the city property known as Mount Douglas park; thence north and east, following the line of the city park proeprty to Cordova Bay; thence following the shore line east and south to the northeast shore boundary of Oak Bay municipality. Also including the whole of Oak Bay municipality. The whole area to be known as Greater Victoria, under the official name of the City of Victoria. "That the following inducements be held out to the owners and residents of the territories proposed to be included within the new city limits: 1. "Exemption from taxation, due to city debts contracted prior to date of consolidation of interests, except as concerning such improvements or expenditures undertaken by the city previous to consolidation, the results or part to all interests concerned, in

2. "The absorption by the city of all wholesale business district in broad liabilities of the municipalities intlement arranged." From Water to Water

His Worship reterred to the agita-tion to form a new municiapity known as North Victoria. The committee's idea was to take in the better part of the territory which, it was suggested, should be formed into the North Victoria municipality, thus leaving but a comparatively small amount of territory between that portion and the water on the east and sides. Therefore it had been considered advisable to run the limits from water to water a distance of about six miles or not more than five miles from the centre of the city to any point. With a proper street car service this would mean not more than 15-minute service to the centre of the city. The time is not far distant when the city will insist upon a proper tramway service. The system of civic mprovements could be extended to the acquired area somewhat on the principle now in force, the outside sections to be formed into a suburban district. The report will be further considered at the next session of the council.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH Coroner's Jury Hears Evidence Bearing on Decease of Herbert Hall.

Accidental death, whether through suffocation or burning the jury was unable to state, was the verdict returned yesterday afternoon at the inquest upon the charred remains of Herbert

Hall, who met his death early last in his room at the Klondike hotel, Johnson street. Dr. Raynor testified that the post-mortem examination indicated that death was due to suffocation. Mr. J. Rudge, proprietor of the hotel, gave the deceased a good reputation during the two months the latter had lived at the hotel. Deceased was not a drinking man, Mr. Rudge stated the top floor on which deceased had roomed, was lighted by electricity in the hallway, but lamps were used in the rooms. Deceased had been a very heavy smoker and had been known to smoke in bed.

Fire Chief Davis testified to the intense heat of the fire which, he believed, had been caused by the breaking or explosion of a lamp, heat of equal intensity hardly being possible had the mattress been set ablaze by sparks from a pipe.

The jury was composed of Mr. W. H. Smith, foreman; Messrs. W. Maynard, W. H. McGregor, Elmer Ozard, J. Jaffers and W. H. Winsby.

FORTY MILE CONTRACT OF C. N. R. AWARDED

Messrs. Moore & Pethick, Victoria, Obtain Contract for Line Between Forty and Hundred Mile Posts

An important development in connection with the construction work of the Canadian Northern railway was made known yesterday through the granting of a contract to Messrs. Moore & Pethick, of this city for the construction of forty miles of road on the Vancouver Island line at points between the 60 and 100-mile points. The value of the contract is estimated at $500.00. The Messrs. Moore & Pethick of this city for the construction of forty miles of road on the Vancouver Island line at points between the 60 and 100-mile points. The value of the contract is estimated at $600,000. The contract was awarded the successful tenderer by T. G. Holt, the executive agent of the company in Vancouver.

As the contracting firm have almost concluded their grading work on the Cowichan Lake branch of the E. & N, line it is expected that they will start upon their ichan Lake branch of the E. & N. line it a expected that they will start upon their new contract before the end of the year. I have been the work will prove is anticipated that the work will prove rather heavy on account of the grades. Four-tenths of one per cent. is the maximum grade obtained, which is regarded as highly creditable in view of the roughness of the country covered. With this additional contract awarded a total of 100 miles is now under construction on the Vancouver Island system of the Canadian Northern.

Six inches of snow fell on the 8th November, and twelve inches on November. 12th. The weight of snow on the wire netting caused the supports to give way, and much damage was done. There were no cases of frost bite. Several pens consist of immature pullets, and these will not come into the producing class much before January 1st.

As foreshadowed at the outset of the contest, several of the White Leghorn pens are now in the heavy molt. In some pens this was caused by too early hatching, but in three pens this is caused by the fact that the birds were laying before receival at Hastings park, and as usual in such cases, they have stopped faying and gone into a molt. These birds have every appearance of having been fed on too rich a ration prior to the competition.

Capture of Han Yang by Imperialist Forces is Severe Blow to Cause of Revolution in PEKING, Nov. 28 .- Han Yang has been occupied by the imperial forces, which crossed the Han river twenty miles above that place. Wu Chang has made a provisional capitulation, and it evident that the government is getting a strong hand in that part of Hu Peh province, where a few weeks ago the rebels seemed to have supreme conrol. There is no news of Li Yun. Heng, the revolutionary commander, and it is not known whether he led the defence of Han Yang or directed it from Wu chang. It is not believed that the rebels will surrender but rather that they will prefer to take chances in a flight in the country. The rebels yesterday endeavored to obtain the terms offered by Yuan Shi Kai three weeks ago, but it is reliably reported that Lieutenant General Fang Kwo Chang, ommander of the imperial troops at Hankow, has refused to grant them. A Hankow consular representative says it was a foregone conclusion that the imperialists would win if they attacked seriously because of their superior organization. During the attack. every position was heavily shelled, and the imperialists numbered probably 30,-000 modern drilled men, The rebels were for the most part volunteers, perhaps Sunday morning when fire broke out equal in numbers to the imperial forces.

Tide Turns for Yuan Two days ago Yuan Shi Kai's position seemed hopeless. He was deserted by former followers upon whose help he counted. Both Chinese and foreign residents in Peking believed the dynasty was on the verge of abdication. Friends urged the premier to capitulate. Others feared his assassination, and endeavored to persuade him to take refuge in the foreign concessions at Tientsin.

Today Yuan Shi Kai is still a one-man government, combining in himself both legislative and executive powers. It is now expected that the men recently appointed to the cabinet will come to Peking promptly. A certain awe surrounds Yuan Shi Kai. The national assembly feared him, and did not dare to insist upon his presence before it. The members preferred to leave the capital when the army rallied unexpectedly. The premier removed suspected officers, encouraged others and rewarded the soldiers with gifts of money in spite of the treasury's plight. He even sent Manchu troops away from the capital to the front, and he is now sendng reinforcements to Pukow, opposite Nanking, as well as to Hankow and Shansi. If the premier were able to obtain a foreign loan he would control the situation. The opinion is held, however, that the revolution is by no means ended. The legations believe the dynasty is saved, unless the rebels succeed in Kai with dynamite. The premier recentinformed Sir John Jordan, the British minister, that he did not fear assassination. His carriage passed through the streets of Peking guarded by caval-of the city at Nanking early this morning. SHANGHAI, Nov. 28.—The great crisis in the revolution has been reached. The overwhelming defeat at Han Yang came unexpectedly to the revolutionists and their sympathizers south of the Yang Tse. Even the radicals admit that the revolution is held together by a slender thread. Wireless reports from Hankow indicated that it was comparatively quiet around Hankow and Wu Chang. The gates of the latter city were closed, and it could not be told what was happening inside. There was some firing, but apparently it was of little importance. The imperialists are ocpying Han Yang and Hankow. They are making great preparations, and are awaiting reinforcements before a grand assault on Wu Chang is attempted. It is reported that big reinforcements came to join the rebels, but the loss of the arsenal and the re-

Depends on Wanking. All eyes are turned on Nanking, where General Chang holds out. He is surrounded on every side, and escape is impossible unless the reinforcements promised by Premier Yuan by way of Pu Kow, reach him in time, which is not improbable. Chang is favored by the strength of the walls and gates and the lightness of the revolutionary guns. The fire from Tiger Hill, occupied by the rebels, was directed last evening against the north gate of Lion Hill. The imperial guns replied strongly. A well authenticated statement asserts that the rebels expect that the gates will during the night. The rebels also at Guptil, agent at Skagway of the Alaska. Steamship company, Mr. Guptil's brother. They came south on the Dolphin after the injured steamship agent was out of danger, although still suffering mentally as a result of the wounds received with an axe from burglars who broke into his office. Mr. Guptil, who had been at a theatre, returned to find thieves endeavoring to loot his safe in which was $2.080 in receipts from ticket sales for one of the company's steamers and $652 of his personal funds. The thieves threw a sack over his head, and tried to choke him. He fought desperately and was struck down with an axe. He was struck many times with the axe and had seven wounds in his head and face, his cheekbone and the bridge of his nose being broken. He saw two men before he fell, and the couple, after the murderous attack upon him left Mr. Guptil bleeding on the floor and made off without disturbing the cash although they had opened the outer door of the safe.

When Mr. Guptil left Skagway, Chick Boyle, an ex-soldier from Fort Haines, who was arrested at Dyea some days after the assault, was being detained. Some bloodstained clothing was found near the place and this was identified as having belonged to Boyle. He admitted the ownership of the clothing, and failed to give a good account of his actions on the night of the attack.

Mr. Guptil and his wife remained at Skagway until his brother recovered, and when they left he was improving physically, but his memory was affected. It was some time before he was able to recognize

General Chang's troops occupy one position on Purples troops occupy one position on Purples Hill. This was attacked by the rebels during the night. The rebels also attacked several of the gates, but inefectively.

The report that the fleet has not taken part in the bombardment is regarded as of great significance. It would not surprise observers to see the dragon flag rehoisted on the ships at any time. In that event the revolutionary cause would lose. The situation would then become dangerous, because of the disappointed millions, many of whom are on the verge of starvation. They were promised freedom from taxation and the absolute elimination of the Manchu dynasty.
