

Hunting With Guns as Accessories

By the time he has gathered all his equipment and impediments around him the average man preparing to enter the woods with the idea of game hunting begins to wonder, first of all how he is going to carry it all, and then just how much of it he really needs. Eventually he sets off with the bare necessities of the trip, minus most of the paraphernalia he intended to take, but one thing he will not leave behind—his camera. It may get in his way sometimes, but as a rule he finds it indispensable. Without it he knows that he will be unable, probably, to support his claims as to big moose shot or ferocious game encountered.

As a matter of fact quite a noticeable number of those entering the Canadian woods during the last few years have been known to carry guns rather than cameras as accessories. A great deal more skill and bush lore is required to enable one to secure a shot with a camera than with a rifle, the chase is even more exciting and the end, without entailing any slaughter, produces quite as much thrill. This will be readily acknowledged by the true sportsman.

Reproduced above are some of the closing season's most interesting shots. The doe was got within range after three days hunt out of St. Jovite, Quebec. She was not the largest animal seen, but she made the best shot. The moose which is seen leisurely sharpening its teeth, was caught in the Klipawa district of Ontario, while the other faced the camera in the waters of the Tobique, Nova Scotia. The buck cleaving the Lake of the Woods shows what may be obtained in the way of "action" photographs.

VITAMINS

It was while experimenting with cod-liver oil to unlock the secret of its wonderful health-building virtues; that the basis of its great helpfulness to mankind, the vitamins, was discovered.

MARITIME PROVINCE INTERESTS.

(Ottawa Journal.)

While we hear a great deal about the serious conditions confronting the west, we are apt to forget that the eastern fringes of this far-flung country, also has its problems. Dissatisfaction in the Maritimes amounts sometimes even to an expression of hostility to the rest of Canada. Canada will only become great if all her component parts are contented and prosperous, and it is up to Ontario and Quebec to lend a sympathetic ear to the peculiar grievances of the provinces down by the sea.

The Canadian Maritime Provinces Development Association was formed to put those provinces on the map. Sir Henry Thornton went to St. John realizing the great importance of doing something to "buck up" that end of the Dominion. He suggested a commission of business men to meet with him and seek a solution. President Beatty of the C. P. R., and Premier Veniot of New Brunswick have endorsed Sir Henry's proposal and the Development Association is taking the lead in carrying it out. Each of the principal interests of the provinces will have a representative on the commission which will function under the auspices of the Association. It is also suggested that Ontario and Quebec be given representation in order that sister provinces may have a part in the good work that is proposed.

SMUGGLING ON HUGE SCALE IN CANADA.

Revenue Officers Are Unable to Cope With Present Situation.

Ottawa.—The Department of Customs and Inland Revenue is fully seized of the seriousness of the present situation with respect to smuggling, and is as much disturbed because of the loss of revenue involved as Canadian manufacturers are by reason of the destructive competition occasioned through the wholesale bringing in of commodities on which duties have not been paid. But the Department as at present constituted appears to be practically helpless to cope with the situation. The total appropriation for inspection of ports, appraisal of goods and preventive service is about $350,000 per year. Included in the preventive service is the up-keep of half a dozen cruisers, and it is estimated that not more than $100,000 is available for land service, a sum entirely inadequate to cope with the present situation on a boundary of 3,000 miles.

In the past smuggling was carried on in a comparatively small way. Today it has become a wholesale traffic, and it is estimated that to cope with it a sum of not less than a million dollars will be required for preventive services. Inasmuch as the estimated loss in revenue today is in the neighborhood of $15,000,000 there is little doubt that the estimates at the coming session will be heavily increased. In the meantime the Dominion Smuggling Preventive Association, formed by the manufacturers for the purpose of co-operating with the Department, is preparing for a conference with the Minister of Customs this week.

A TAX ON MAIL ORDER HOUSES.

It has frequently been suggested that mail order houses should be compelled to pay a tax into the treasuries of the districts in which their business originates. This subject comes to the fore again owing to the consideration being given by Parliamentary legislation to curb Transient Traders and also because of the Par-

He was a brother of the late Stipendiary Samuel Legge of Middleton who passed away not many months since. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Legge lived on the property now owned by Mr. Angus Ramsey and here their family grew up. The deceased had many friends in the community and neighborhood, particularly among the older people who learned with regret of her decease. Her only direct descendants in town are the little Legge girls, Marie, Cora and Phyllis.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS GIVE CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT.

Middleton.—An entertainment was given last Tuesday in the Armdale Theatre, by the pupils of MacDonald School. The programme, of a Christmas nature, consisted of music, vocal and instrumental, drills and short plays and a tableau. The tiny tots evoked rounds of applause because of their dainty appearance and poise.

In "Hawthorn's Melody of Love" which combined a tableau, song and march, by the girls of MacDonald High School, the stage setting and costumes were particularly effective. The "Doll Exercise" (Primary Department) was another pretty feature, as was also the "Star Drill" and "Mother Goose."

The theatre was well filled and much commendation was given to the teaching staff for their work in making the performance such a success.

A PLEA FOR THE LOBSTER.

While it is gratifying to note by the last issued fishery statistics of the Dominion Government that there has been an increase in the yield of Canadian lobsters, it is pointed out by careful observers, says the Quebec Telegraph, that not all the provinces are enforcing the Federal regulations as they are naturally supposed to do, with the result that a number of what are known as berried lobsters are being placed upon the market in violation of law. The taking of these female lobsters, even in the closed season is not only illegal but exceedingly destructive for a conservative estimate each of these females produces an average progeny of 30,000 young. It is gratifying to know that where the regulations are better enforced, there is marked increase in the lobster production. How "penny wise and pound foolish" is the policy pursued by illegal lobster fishers may be judged from a case mentioned by a contemporary in which four thousand female lobsters weighing about 8,000 pounds, were sold at 26c. per lb. for $2,080. If these lobsters had been left in the ocean they would have produced at a conservative estimate—an average of 30,000 progeny, or a total of 120,000,000. If only one percent of this progeny reached marketable age the lobster supply would be increased by 1,200,000 pounds, equivalent at a price of 26c. per lb. fresh to $312,000. The prices the canners pay fishermen are lower than the price of lobster marked fresh, but even for canning, the fishermen would get 7c. per pound, or $84,000. Adding the costs of canning 1,200,000 lbs. of tinned lobsters equivalent to 6,900 cases, would be worth at the factory $180,000, figuring an average cost of $30 per case, which is a low price nowadays. Thus the fishermen, to make an immediate gain of $2,080 deprive the country of a possible future gain of between $178,000 and $312,000.

However, he has borrowed a big engine from the Canadian Pacific people, one of those so powerful that it pulls a heavy train between Montreal and Winnipeg in less than forty hours and he's alright now.
