WOODEN SHIPBUILDING FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The plan to build wooden ships in Canada is being worked out by Mr. F. Perry, the British member of the Imperial Munitions Board. Mr. Perry recently visited British Columbia and personally investigated the possibilities of the industry. He was much impressed with the feasibility of building innumerable wooden vessels on the Pacific Coast. He has made strong recommendations to the British authorities.

As Great Britain needs every possible ship to transport Canadian food products and war equipment across the Atlantic, the Imperial Munitions Board was authorized to proceed with the scheme. The chief difficulty then was financing, but this was overcome by the offer of Sir Thomas White to loan ten million dollars to the Board. No time was lost in accepting the offer.

It is understood that nearly all of the ten millions will be spent in British Columbia.
