Innovatek Medical Incorporated, (IMI) a greater Vancouver based medical company, was incorporated in November 1990 to take advantage of the enormous marketing and technical expertise of the management team. Innovatek Medical is committed to develop and market innovative clinical diagnostic lab test kits, reagents and systems develop and market innovative clinical diagnostic lab test kits, reagents and systems for use in health care and related industries.

In collaboration with International Newtech Development Limited, a line of membrane based immunoassay tests are under development, including tests for hCG (pregnancy), LH (ovulation), and infectious hepatitis. The pregnancy and ovulation tests are currently in production and are exported to China and other countries. A one-step pregnancy test, currently undergoing clinical trial, is intended for the North American and European markets. Diagnostic test kits are available OEM or for private labels. In collaboration with Manlab Resources, a pulse oximeter for non-invasive measurement of oxygen in blood is under development.

The principals of Innovatek Medical are all experienced former senior executives of healthcare product companies. They have vast experience in science, medical technology, engineering, biotechnology, marketing and sales, manufacturing and management. Innovatek is interested in exporting its products to Europe, South America, Asia, and is seeking collaboration partners to develop new products.
