

Capital Punishment

protect life. It is not as this Member has said, that we are granted permission to kill. [Translation]

Mr. Schellenberg: On occasion.

Mr. Rossi: I am sorry, my dear colleague, not on occasion. We are not sworn in to kill. You will not make me say that we are permitted to kill. That is completely false. We have to protect the life of everyone but we do not have to kill.

The Acting Speaker (Mr. Paproski): I am sorry to interrupt, but it being ten o'clock, pursuant to order made on Friday, June 12, 1987, the House stands adjourned until tomorrow, at ten o'clock, pursuant to Standing Order 3(1).

At 10 p.m. the House adjourned.
