

GENERAL HEALTH LEAGUE

The League has developed its work and expended its funds, not with the idea of making a permanent place for itself in the community, but rather to assist in the formation of a public conscience concerning health work, and to assist other organizations, particularly the municipal department, in their growth.

In recommending that certain responsibilities be delegated to certain voluntary organizations, it is not intended to suggest that the municipality should be freed of responsibility. It is merely that it seems expedient for the time being. In later years, when the Department has completed the organization of the work it has in hand, it may then be considered as to whether or not it should take over other work. I believe that best results are obtained by doing a few things well, rather than half doing many things.

In my opinion, the League should

1. Continue to assist other organizations in their development (in the manner that they have done in tuberculosis work especially);
2. Continue its health demonstration centres;
3. Continue and develop its health education work;
4. Support the Health Department;
5. Assist in every way possible the development of whatever part of the above programme is accepted.

A. Grant Fleming, M. B.
Managing Director