SECTION II.

dying woods, indigo and dollars, all which prove the great importance of this province and of that trade, which the administration of Grenville was fo impolitic, as to endeavour to put a flop to.—The great excefs of the Weft Floridan imports above their exports is what must happen in all new fettlements, and was occasioned by the flocks of goods required to carry on the Spaniss and Indian trades, and the capitals necessary to improve their lands, which they have begun to cultivate in the weft parts of the province.

The imports and exports both of Canada and the adjoining part of Labrador (the only part that is inhabited, except by Indians) are included under those of Canada. They do not, according to our data, take from Britain more than the value of 178. 6d. for each inhabitant, confequently this Colony has the appearance of being little profitable; but when we confider the principal part of their export confifts in an advantageous staple, peltry, it is not, though far north, without its use to this country*.

Nova-Scotia, and the illes of Cape Breton, St. John's, &c. take but at the rate of 13s. 3d. for each individual of their inhabitants; notwithftanding this they would be va-

* Canada, fince that time, has encreafed greatly in the exportation of grain, fo that in the year 1773 they were able to export 50,000 quarters of wheat, and in 1774 or 1775, near double that quantity.

luable

13