

stream, falling in on the left side of the river, not far within the south-eastern boundary of the seigniory of St. Mary. They were found to occur on four tributaries, in the seigniory of St. Joseph, for distances of one and two miles from their mouths. One of these joins the main stream, on the left bank, about a quarter of a mile below the parish church, and the other three are on the right. The lowest of them is about two miles below the church, the next about the same distance above it, and the fourth is the Rivière des Plantes, about half a mile farther up, and near the south-eastern boundary of the seigniory. In Vaudreuil Beauce they were discovered on the Guillaume, much farther up than previously stated, and on the Bras opposite to it; on this and some of its tributaries the metal was traced to the centre of the township of Tring, a distance of about twelve miles. Three other streams which yield it in Vaudreuil Beauce, have heretofore been mentioned; they are the Ruisseau Lessard, Ruisseau du Moulin, and the Touffe des Pins, on which it was first discovered. In Aubert de l'Isle it was found on the Famine, and traced to Harbottle's settlement, and beyond the seigniory into Watford, a distance altogether of about ten miles. Some particles were obtained on the Ruisseau d'Ardoise, about a mile above the Famine, and it was followed about three miles up the brook commonly called Pozer's stream, in Aubert Gallion. On the Rivière du Loup, in addition to its occurrence in a multitude of spots, in fact almost continuously from its mouth across Jersey and Marlow, it was found in nearly all its tributary brooks, such as the Ladyfair, the Grande Coude, the Metgermet for four miles up, the Traveller's Rest, the Portage, Kempt's Stream, Oliver's Stream for four miles up, and another stream between it and the boundary of the Province. Above the Loup, on the Chaudière, it occurred at successive intervals in twenty places in sixteen miles, as far as the south-western boundary of Dorset township.

The localities of its observed presence on the other line of exploration were on Lake Etchemin and along the Famine in Aubert d'Isle, and Pozer's Stream in Aubert Gallion, towards Tring, and again on the St. Francis, in Dudswell, in Westbury,
