

exploring the east coast of Greenland ; on his return home he passed some more time in study ; in 1834, at Cambridge, he took the degree of (Baccalaureus Divinitatis, B.D.) Bachelor of Divinity, and subsequently received the degree of (Divinitatis Doctor,) D.D.) Doctor of Divinity. He served as Chaplain to the Mariners' Church in Liverpool, and afterward as vicar of Bradford, in his native county. Failing health obliged him to retire to Torquay, but still he pursued his scientific and philanthropic labors. In 1847 he visited the United States, and shortly before his death made a voyage round the world. He was a member of the Royal Society. His principal works are : " An Account of the Arctic Regions " ; " Journal of Voyage to the Northern Whale Fishery " ; " Discourses to Seamen " ; " Magnetical Observations " ; and " Franklin's Expedition."
