If he had reversed the argument it would have sounded better. The workingman is entitled to the greater consideration if the Minister is determined to make a difference between one class of employe and another. The Minister says he would never have the time to consider .75 the cases of the five thousand employes of the Railway Department. Who is asking him to? Is he obliged to dismiss any official at all, unless .45 a strong cause for dismissal is made out? The political morality of some of the new ministers is really astounding. It begins to look very much as if the spoils doctrine were to be carried out in Canada for the first time. That the chief victims should be working men who, if the truth were 3.50 known, are probably the most energetic servants the public has, sounds almost grotesque in its selfishness and injustice. Now, supposing the United States should abolish the bonding system, Eng-land would want a law that all goods com-ing into English ports should come through Canadian ports, and those that did should be taxed, and vice versa. Mr. Curtis makes it appear that the lines to Portland and Milwaukee were built later than the other railroads of the system. He is en-tirely at variance with the facts. The Chicago & Grand Trunk was the last ac-quisition in the United States. The other American lines have been in existence 40 years or more. Now, as to dividends, the Grand Trunk paid dividends sometimes, and the Great Western, too, when they were separate organizations, and after fu-sion they paid everything but the common stock. I can show anyone who may be interested all the dividends to-day is that a displicate system was organized through Canada, and the Grand Trunk, and one who had made a success of the railway he had handled, he rightly showed a wise discriton, and if the Grand Trunk can be made to pay, under present conditions Mr. Hays is likely to succeed.
