MAKES A CONFESSION.

"I don't know what to say," remarked Jacob, the brother of the assassin. "We have not seen Leo for several months. It always was a timid lad, and we never would have suspected him of doing such a thing as this. I suppose the people that we have something to do with it, but they surely cannot blame us. Leo never acted like an Anarchist. He never talked to us about such things."

From the sons and father a brief history of the family and of the would-be murderer was given. The father, who is now more than 60 years of age, has lived on a farm near Chagrin Falls, N. Y. He has three sons and two daughters. The eldest son, Leo, was a farmer and was killed in the war. The second son, Paul, was a farmer and was killed in the war. The youngest son, John, was a farmer and was killed in the war.

When Leo was a boy he was very much like his father. He was a quiet, unassuming, and hard-working man. He was a member of the church and was a very good citizen.

SPREADING THE FATAL GERM

Speech of Emma Goldman Which Turned Young Czolgosz's Head.

Excuse Murder if Motive is Right

Uphold Some of the Vices Which Are Abhorrent to Modern Civilization.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 8.—An address delivered in this city, May 4 last, by Emma Goldman, is very largely responsible for the attempt on the life of President McKinley.

The Goldman woman spoke here twice on that date, and a copy of her address was found in the pocket of Leon Czolgosz when searched by the Buffalo police.

It is recalled that it was one of the most enthusiastic in his applause of the utterances of Miss Goldman. The hall in which the lecture was delivered at No. 170 Superior-street, the same hall in which the Anarchists now meet in this city.

Full of Fire

In the course of her address of May 6 Miss Goldman first outlined the principles of Anarchism and detailed the means whereby she hoped to accomplish the ends of Anarchy. Her talk was full of forceful passages, and in some cases more notable for their strength than for their elegance.

"Under the present state of society," she said, "are mere products of circumstances under the ruling policy of government ecclesiasticalism and a bond of custom and prejudice. It is impossible for the individual to work out his own career of freedom and development. It is to be a complete freedom. It strives to bring about the freedom which is not only a freedom of the individual, but a freedom from without, which will prevent any man from having a desire to interfere in any way with the freedom of another."

Away With Government

"Under the present state of society," she said, "are mere products of circumstances under the ruling policy of government ecclesiasticalism and a bond of custom and prejudice. It is impossible for the individual to work out his own career of freedom and development. It is to be a complete freedom. It strives to bring about the freedom which is not only a freedom of the individual, but a freedom from without, which will
