THE NEW LOCH LOMOND MAIN

Report by City Engineer at Council Meeting.

Some Discussion on Hydro Distribution—Upkeep of West Side Trestles—New Road in Simonds.

At a committee meeting of the common council this morning the proposed extension of the water main from the One-Mile House to Little River was discussed, and it was practically agreed that a new main to Loch Lomond was needed. Some discussion also took place regarding the report of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission.

Commissioner Jones presented a report from Engineer Hare as to an approximate cost of installing a thirty-six inch main from the One-Mile House to Little River by diverting it around Fernhill. He said that to install an iron pipe would cost approximately $70,000, providing the work was done in favorable weather. The same line made of reinforced concrete capable of withstanding a heavy head would cost approximately $474,000, a difference of $102,600. From Little River to Pinney's Hill and using 2,200 feet of cast iron pipe now on hand, the cost in round figures, he said, would be $191,600. To parallel the wood stave main with reinforced concrete, the pipe would cost in summer weather $157,200, plus the cost of laying the 2,200 feet. If in winter it would cost $2 more a linear foot.

Mayor Schofield and Commissioner Frink and Bullock agreed that a new main was needed right through to Loch Lomond, and favored the commissioner of water and sewerage bringing in a report in the form of a final plan. It was suggested that the work could then be done in stages.

Commissioner Jones felt that the proposed extension of water and sewerage in Bellevue avenue was important, and suggested that the members of the council visit there tomorrow.

Commissioner Thornton felt that this work should be undertaken, and spoke of the handicap the people residing there were under.

Hydro Distribution.

The matter of the hydro report was then discussed. Mayor Schofield said he regretted that he was not in a position to present a report. He explained that he had consulted with the city engineer, but desired something definite before presenting it to the meeting.

At this stage Commissioner Frink moved that the mayor be authorized to get technical advice as he deemed expedient to make a report.

The customs returns for the port of St. John for November, 1921, are as follows: Customs import, $340,201.86; sundry cash, $229,871; excise tax, $43,820.91; excise duty, $3,379.19; St. John pilotage, $1,166.25; St. John pilotage inspection, $466.22; pilotage dues, $1,737.95; marine dues, $2,920.72; total $394,028.48. The returns for November, 1920, were: Customs import, $317,980.09; sundries, $387.97; steamship inspection, $466.22; pilotage dues, $1,737.95; marine dues, $1,672.24; total, $144,948.65. The increase for the month over November of last year is $249,179.83. The reason for the increase is largely on account of increased importations of sugar, as practically no sugar was imported in November, 1920.
