BULGARIA SIGNS TREATY; LOSES MUCH BY THE WAR

Gloomy Scene in Town Hall at Neuilly This Morning

PREMIER WIELDS THE PEN

His Country Deprived of Thrace And Strumbitza, Must Give up Compulsory Military Service And Pay An Indemnity of Some $445,000,000

Paris, Nov. 27.—M. Stambouliisky, premier of Bulgaria, signed the treaty of peace between his country and the Allied powers at the Neuilly town hall at twenty minutes to eleven o'clock this morning.

By the conditions of the treaty Bulgaria is called upon to surrender all works of art and valuables taken from Allied countries during the war and to pay an indemnity of approximately $445,000,000.

Compulsory military service in Bulgaria is absolutely abolished by the treaty terms. The Bulgarian army is limited to 20,000 men, with a general staff, or police force, not exceeding 600.

All the other delegates were in their seats when M. Stambouliisky's presence was announced. The Bulgarian premier, with bushy black hair, sharp eyes and robust physique, saluted with formality as he entered and took his seat.

The other powers signed in alphabetical order. The covenant of the League of Nations is incorporated in the treaty.
