P. had liestiated for some time, and only gave way under the extreme pressure brought to bear upon him by his wife.

That worthy lady was in an ecstasy of delight at the notion of having a baronic for her son in law and a titled daughter; the only drawback to her happiness being that Sir Frederick had imisted upon the marriage taking place in a very uniet manner.

Mrs. Adams had hoped to have had a long list of aristocratic guests to grace the wedding, but her future son-in-law had informed her that this would not be in any case, as the members of the

Mrs. Adams had hoped to have had a long list of aristocratic guests to grace the wedding, but her future son-in-law had informed her that this would not be in any case, as the members of the aristocray had not yet returned to London, and it was not considered the "correct thing" to have fashionable marriages in the off season.

So the worthy couple had agreed to everything Sir Frederick proposed, and the baronet had succeeded so well, that, aided and abetted by Mrs. Adams, he had induced Hiram P. to settle a very large dowry upon Minnis.

"Only on one condition, though, Sir Frederick, "Mss. Adams had said, "and that is that we fix ourselves somewheres does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves somewhere does by your un-town readence, and that is that we fix ourselves and the door.

The possibilions started off, and before the rid min which is always worrying filman's life out of him, to lend the wind of the carriage had passed over Dick Phillimore. I should have been into the carriage had passed over thing which is always worrying filman's life out of him, to lend the wind the door.

Four months had elapsed since the wedding of Minnie Adams with Sir life out of him, to lend the worth of a house hundred cents for every dollar we spend."

It was not without a strong protest that Himm P. had consented to this part of the programme, for the English way of living did not suit him at all. Like most Americans he was gregarious, and to the that up in a large room, with contract the most Americans he was gregarious, and to the that up in a large room, with contract the most Americans he was gregarious, and to the that up in a large room, with contract the most Americans he was gregarious, and to the thin partity much as bad as solitary confinement in the Penitentiary in Philadelphia.

It was not without a strong protest that Himm P. had consented to this year of a ple sant April evening and the streets were filled with men returning, from business to their homes, while in the more fashionable parts of the town, carriages were driving up and down, either, bringing back their occupants, who had been paying calls and shopping, or waiting to convey their proprietors, then engaged upon their toilets, to some fresh scene of pleasure.

In the old days, at Titusville, he would at for hours together round the stove in the hall of the Crittenden House his hat tilted over his eyes, his boots nees intent, cut in and out amongst the more grandy valieles which were negligible.

fast-trotting horses, evidently on business titled over his eyes, his boots neadly balanced on the stove-top, at level with his face, and a large, brown spittoon handy for reference, without uttering the consecutive words.

Occasionally, he would ejaculate, "Say," but he never said anything himself, or, "Wal," but that was merely a safety valve, for fear constant silence should cause him to explode.

He dailiked the English method of eating and drinking, detested the huge joints, grieved miserably over the missing delicacies of Indian-corn, buckwheat-cakes, cold alsw, raw beets, clam chowder, and cramberry sauce, and declared there was not a man that he had yet met throughout the length and breadth of Great Britain, who could fix up a Santa Crus punch that was worth drinking.

"Too late! too late!"

Down the chuchyard came the wedding party, the bells ringing, the bystanders hurrahing, Sir Frederick Randall bending over his bride, and the old people beyond glowing with exultation.

"No, not too late," muttered Dick Phillimore to himself; "I may yet save her!" he cried, rushing before the

DR. CHANNING'S Sarsaparilla FOR THE BLOOD.

CURES A HIGHLY CONCENTRATE SYPHILIS. RED JAMAICA SCROFULA, SARSAPARILLA AND THE SALT-RHEUM. DOUBLE IODIDES. SKIN DISEASES

Space forbids the giving more testimony in this place, in favor of this great medicine. Is not one certificate, however, from an eminent and well-known Physician like Dr. Bessey, of Montreal, sufficient to establish its superiority over the numerous mixtures called Blood Purifiers offered by Druggists and others? I cannot but regard the formula from which Dr. LIVER AND RHEUMATIC prepared, as one of the best possible combinations to constitute an effectual remedy, for the cure of Blood Impurities. So far as my experience leads me with this remedy, I can testify to its great value in the treatment of all Strumous and Cachectic affections, as Glandular Enlargements, and a wide range of skin affections; as a reliable preparation for general use as a blood purifier, I know of none equal to it, combining as it does, all the imputed vispues of Saraparilla, and several cher valuable remedies, with the extraordinary alterative properties of the "Double Iodides," and of none that can be more highly recommended as AFFECTIONS, DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS. Messra. Halls Safe and Lock Co., Louisville, Ky., Gentlemen,—The large number 18 Double Door

Fire Proof Safe purchased from you in March, 1872, was in the disastrous fire, corner Eighth and Main streets, on the night of the 16th inst., when over a half million dollars of property was burned, and st-od nobly one of the most severe tests possible, falling into the cellar with the walls of the building, and several hundred barrels of whiskey stored in the upper stories poured their contents into the celler, keeping the safe literally boiling in burning whiskey for over forty hours. The bricks and stone were burned into ashes and lime, and it was the

for two days, and feet under the bricks and sales was opened, and we are promotion of the book and juapers were found uniquired, not even discolored or scorched. Several gold watches and some valuable jewellery were found untarnished.

We wish you to deliver, to-day, a duplicate of the safe to our new store, No. 9 Main street, and we still send you a check for the money. We want no other safe but a Halls. Yours truly,
