At the Guild Hall banquet the Marquis of Salisbury, Lord Wolseley, Mr. Ritchie, Lord George Hamilton, Lord Halsbury, the chief justice, the Duke of Marlborough, and a few minor diplomats were present. Mr. Chamber lain was absent. Lord Salisbury and loading 8,000 bushels of peas from the Ministers' in a speech in which he vigorously denounced "the ignorant arrogance of the invader," dwelling on The Presbyterian manse, and barn the fact that Sir Alfred Milner, in spite of herculanean efforts, was unable to prevail with the overbearing, corrupt oligarchy, therefore other of our champions have the business in hand. During the course of the banquet Lord Wolseley announced that orders had been given to mobilize another division for South Africa, and that the government was quite prepared to nobilize a second army corps.

LORD WOLSELEY. Replying to the toast "The Army," proposed in warm terms by Alderman Trelear, Lord Wolseley said:

"Every day applications are received from volunteers in all parts of the empire who wish to be sent to the front. volunteers who are all on guard. We have hard work before us, for our foe

"When one reads of the work which four local forces in Natal have done in the past few weeks, one must deem them worthy of standing side by side with the best regulars.

"We at present have only mobilized one army corrs, consisting of 53,000 men, of whom 44,000 are already on the way to the Cape. Today orders have been sent to mobilize another division, and if called upon by the minister to mobilize another army corps we are quite prepared to do so."

MARQUIS OF SALISBURY. Lord Salisbury, rising at a quarter past nine to reply to the lord mayor, was greeted with intense enthusiasm, prolonged cheering and a general way ing of handkerchiefs.

"I have had to answer for many years similar kinds of receptions in this hall, but never before under conditions that justified me in appealing so confidently to your sympathy and support as in the present grave state of public affairs. Before turning to this serious point, my duty is to inform you that our situation in South Africa is the only part of our relations with other nations to which any term of apprehension or doubt can be applied. "For several years our relations and cordial feelings toward our kinsmer on the other side of the Atlantic are constantly growing; and, though streets were lavishly decorated with neither we interfere in the affairs of their continent nor they interfere in the affairs of ours, we feel we can now stitution of a number of school boy always look for sympathy and a fair brigades testified to the presence of the veteran regiments at the front. ment of markind.

THE FOREIGN PRESS.

"But perhaps you think I am san guine in saying that on the continent of Europe we have no hostility to fer.r. There is undoubtedly a certain ecerbity of tone among the writers for the foreign press; but I do not believe that the trend of this orinion affects the peoples of foreign nations. I am quite certain it does not affect their governments and I will say that I have noted as one of the cheering symptoms of the present time. the appy relations existing between the United States and ourselves—(cheers) and the sympathy with which we watch their approach toward the same great problems that we ourselves have had to solve.

"That is not to say that I do not eel the greatest sympathy with their late antagonist, the kingdom of Spain. Weientertain the highest hope that out of that war a blessing in disguise will grow-and be an abundant growth civilization and culture in that ancient and most interesting monarchy,

SAMOAN AGREEMENT.

"This morning you had intelligence of an agreement between ourselves and one of the great continental states, with which for many many years we have entertained relations of sympathy and friendship beyond others. Samoa is not in itself a very important matter, but it was important because it constituted a subject of difference between ourselves and a nation whose good will we prize very highly. I do not know entirely the reason why the German people and government attach Year after year an accumulation of so much importance to Upolu, but they do, and we are very glad to find the means whereby, without in the least diminishing the rights and advantages of England, we are able to gratify their views and sentiment. The agreement is somewhat complicated: but, roughly, it may be said that the Germans have great interest in this island because they have invested large mounts in its cultivation and because they have constructed a great commerce of which they are proud. The islands, therefore, are of great value to To us, on the other hand, islands are generally only valuable when they furnish good harbors. Upolu furnishes a very bad harbor. You will remember the great hurricane when a British man-of-war escaped and when German and American men-of-war were driven ashore. Well, in these cirumstances, we were glad to accept a unciation of the treaty claims and right of dominion over another island, Tonga, where there is an admirable, an nimitable harbor. We took the har-

re interested. 'I believe we have arrived at a very remarkable phenomenon, an agreement which is seriously pleasant and advantageous to the powers, but this is interesting particularly because it indicates that, at the present moment, our relations with the German people are all we could desire.

THE TRANSVAAL WAR.

"The great subject that interests all of us, undcubtedly, is this war, adorned with so many splendid feats of beroism and skill, but saddened by so mary losses. I have great difficulty n dealing with the war; and if I attempted to deal with the future, I had been undertaking a task in prophecy from which the hardiest would If I speak at all, it may rather be to deprecate criticisms and statements which I think undounded than to attempt to pass judgment on what still depends upon the future for its full determination.

'Respecting the feeling expressed twice or thrice that the want of troops s due to a want of action on the part of the home government, I would point out that there have been two or three voices. Two or three months ago we were told by the most authoritative voice outside the government that there was to occasion for military preparations. Since then we have blamed because there were no nilitary preparations. But neither of hose criticisms is at all relevant to the events which have been taking place. It has been often said, especially abroad, that we are a strong nation attacking a weak one; but, so long as the principal part of our force is separated by an interval of five or six weeks from the field of action, it would rather be true to say that we are a weak nation fighting a strong one. Elements of distance are vital

THE BOER ULTIMATUM. "It would have been nothing to the purpose to issue proclamations for reserves some weeks earlier. For, what was the cause of the war, and what was the cause of the ultimatum? It was not because of any demand we had made. It so happened that, at the moment the ultimatum was issued, we had withdrawh our demands, and there was no demands before the Transvaal government. It was be- vinced that there is no such idea in
