AVIS LINNELL'S BODY IN BOSTON

Remains of Murdered
Music Student to Be Thoroughly Examined.
Failure to Find Poison
Receipts Leaves Gap
in State's Evidence.
Prosecuting Officers Are Certain, However, That
Cyanide of Potassium
Was Poison Used.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 24.—Removed today from the grave in the cemetery at Hyannis, the body of Miss Avis Linnell, the 19 year old music student, for whose death by poisoning Rev. C. V. T. Richeson of Cambridge is under arrest at the Charles street jail, was brought back to Boston to night by order of District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier.

Incidental to the examination of the body the officials will make a careful search of Miss Linnell's bathrobe, which was buried in the casket with the body, for anything which might have been used as a receptacle for the fatal powder. Such a container has not yet been found and the fact has bothered the investigation in their chain of evidence.

No definite statement as to just what is to be accomplished by the examination of the body came from the District attorney's office tonight beyond the declaration that the both robe must be looked-over again on the possibility that it might contain something overlooked in the examination. The district attorney scouted rumors to the effect that a question exists as to the nature of the poison.

Notwithstanding this declaration by the district attorney the defence believed that the body was brought back to this city for some other purpose than the mere examination of a garment.

Whatever the explanation of the move, it is understood the examination of the body will be made at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning at the city hospital morgue. It is probable that the defence will not be represented, those present including only the experts called in by Pelletier's attorney.

The grand jury is expected to take up the case on Thursday, and the next meeting of the church board is fixed for Friday.

Shanghai, Oct. 24.—A Chinese official denounces the rebels on Oct. 21 at Sin Yan Chow. The despatch states that the rebels had more than six hundred killed, while the losses of the imperialists amounted to a few score.

Since then he says he has found all the men of the highest to the lowest of one united to a disunited party.

BURTON HAS A STRANGE CASE

John Sageman Disappeared on Saturday Night Has Not
Since Been Seen — May Have Been Drowned.

The disappearance of John Sageman from his home in Burton, Sunbury county, has caused a lot of speculation as to what has happened to him. He was put ashore from the steamer Hampstead Saturday night in a slightly intoxicated condition and was taken in hand by a man who found him on the wharf and who tried to get him to go home to Shirley, where he owns a small farm. It seems that this man helped him a short distance up the road where Sageman laid down and refused to go any farther, the man then left him and since then he has not been seen. It was thought that he had got up and wandered down to the river and had fallen in. On Sunday and Monday grapping parties worked all day and the river was thoroughly dragged but no trace of his body was found. Yesterday search parties have entered the woods between Burton and Sageman's home in Shirley, in the hope that he may have got lost Saturday night.

Up to a late hour last night no word had been heard of him.
