MARGUERITE'S WEEKLY CHAT.

"HOME."

Yes, I know, it's so ordinary, so commonplace, just a place sometimes to go and get a meal, dress up, and go out again. But here's the ideal, according to J. Keble:

"Sweet is the smile of home; the mutual look
When hearts are of each other sure;
Sweet all the joys that crowd the household nook,
The haunts of all affection pure."

Nowadays we are all so busy that one sometimes wonders if some people are ever at home; and what about those who can't go out, who can't join all the patriotic societies or enter into the church work? Would it be a strange thought to some that an evening spent with Mother or Father, or the family, would shine the brighter in the book of your golden deeds than maybe ten meetings attended? Tears come to our eyes when a famous singer touches our hearts with "Home, Sweet Home," but how much do we all do towards making it sweet? It may be only in two rooms or it may be in a palatial residence, but unless people are together at times it won't be much of a home. When we are there it might be a good plan to add to the joy of home also. What do you think?

Entertainment at Old Ladies' Home.

Several young ladies who belong to a club called the Jolly Kindness League, gave a concert at the Home on Broad street. These young people are members of The Standard's Children's Corner and had arranged this musical evening. An item on the programme was a violin solo given by Clarence Cauton which was much enjoyed. Among those taking part were the following: The Misses Katherine Williams, Jean Hoyt, Dorothy Cauton, Edna Scott, Freda Hoyt, Bertha Thorn, Laura Ivory, Ethel Cauton, Bessie Tyner and Florence Trentowsky. They were under the care of the Misses Myrtle and Estella Fox.

Y. W. P. A.

An executive meeting of the Young Women's Patriotic Association was held yesterday afternoon in the C.P.R. building, to make arrangements for a meeting on Thursday, September 21st. Miss Grimmer presided and plans for the winter work were discussed. The regular meeting will be at the Loyal Order of Moose rooms and a speaker will be provided. It is hoped that many new members will join this association which has for its object the assistance of soldiers and other patriotic work. There is no entrance fee for this society and no limit to the number of members. The only qualification is a desire to do patriotic work.

Dandruff Heads
Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't. It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Bring Out Your
Hidden Beauty

Beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon. Mercolised wax will gradually, gently absorb the devitalized surface skin, revealing the youthful fresh, white and beautiful skin underneath. Used by refined women who prefer complexions of true naturalness. Mercolised wax is in one ounce package, with directions for use, is sold by all druggists.

kitchen for Mary Ann the labor saver and helps that you would desire, were you doing your own work. It is likely that there will be no servant problem on your hands. It is true that it is often difficult to get the more ignorant type of domestics to use mechanical household helps. But it is also true that these mechanical helps can shorten the hours of labor—the one strong objection perennially made to housework. The improved household tool brings greater freedom—more leisure and more comfort to the houseworker, and in this fulfilling the purpose of the home justifies its purchase.

A NEW BRIDAL SHOWER.

"Everything is finished except running the ribbon in my underclothes, which I hate to do," said a tired little bride-to-be recently.

An intimate friend overheard the remark, and thus a new "shower" was added to the already long list of affairs which fall to the share of the bride of today.

A dozen girl friends were asked to bring their "ribbon runners" and assemble at the home of the bride from "2 to 5" on a day about two weeks previous to the wedding. In an upstairs room all the dainty lingerie was spread out, and amid exclamations of delight the pretty garments were herborded, neatly folded, and laid away amid bags of linen filled with orris root and violet powder. A really laborious task had been accomplished, and a most enjoyable afternoon had been spent.

Just for the sake of old times, a box of chocolate creams was in evidence, and the refreshments consisted of iced tea, wafers and delicious cookies, which were brought upstairs on a large tray.

The whole affair was informal, and the bride-elect said it was the only function which she has had given her, and from which she had not returned perfectly exhausted. She reclined on a couch and watched the other girls work.

MAKE USE OF STALE BREAD.

Of all the left-over remnants of food from the kitchen, bread is the most common, perhaps, and many pieces are daily thrown away which a little thought would turn to excellent use. If the left-over pieces are not utilized the same day, an excellent plan is to wrap them in pieces of waxed paper and store them in a jar. They will keep well for a week in this way.

Dried crumbs for stuffing and meat frying. Put the crusts and small pieces in a baking pan and dry in the oven until burning. They may then be put through the food chopper and stored in clean mason jars until wanted. They may be used as a basis for meat croquettes, poultry stuffing and other things.

French toast may be made from the whole slices of left-over bread. It is an excellent luncheon pick-up dish. Beat an egg and add a little milk. Dip the slices of bread in this and fry a nice brown in hot drippings. Serve with butter, jelly or marmalade.

Bread custard pudding: Cut the bread in dainty shapes and butter liberally. Make a plain custard of eggs, milk and sugar. Put in baking dish and float the butter bread on top. Sprinkle with grated nutmeg and bake in a quick oven until brown. This is excellent.

To make croquettes for the various soups so much relished in summer, cut the bread in cubes and fry in butter or dripping just before serving with the soup. Add five or six to each plate of soup. These are delicious with almost any soup.

Bread jelly for invalids: Scald the stale bread freed from crusts. Mash to a paste until of mushlike consistency. Add a little sugar and flavoring, mold and serve with cream. Sterilized bread crumbs are especially valuable for the young children in the household. A jar should be kept filled with these. They may be heated when wanted and sprinkled in soft eggs, soups, milk, fruit juices and, indeed, anything eaten by very young children where fresh bread is often positively dangerous.

Dried bread is also valuable for mixing with various other foods for feeding the household pets.

If you can afford wide skirt bands and enormous collars, and like them, have them, mesdames. They are to be tremendously chic.

If your income and taste do not run to such lavishness, put narrow fur edgings on your new frock. They, too, are to be tremendously chic, and if cleverly used they are extremely effective.

SOME BOOK NOTES

Eliza Calvert Hall, who in private life is Mrs. W. A. Oberchain and wife of a Kentucky college president, says that she has written her last Aunt Jane of Kentucky story, and that it will be included in her new book, Clover and Blue-Grass, which Little, Brown & Co. will bring out this fall. Her first book, Aunt Jane of Kentucky which was rejected by 12 publishers before it was accepted and published by Little, Brown & Co. in 1907, is now in its 22nd edition.

Long Letter from New Member.
45 Marsh St.

Dear Uncle Dick,
I am sending you a few lines to ask you may I join the Corner. Papa gets us The Standard every week, and we are interested in the Corner.

I graduated this year and I am now in grade seven. I am much more interested in school this year than last. I have not missed a lesson yet so far, and last year I led grade six. I missed only two lessons.

My birthday was last Tuesday, Sept. 5th. I was then fifteen years old, but I am not very big for the age.

I am going to try for some of the prizes. I was away to the country last Monday, up to Ketapeet, and had a most beautiful time. I am going to write a short story on "Curiosity." Once there was an old man and woman who were always complaining of Adam and Eve; she said: "If Adam and Eve had not committed a sin they would never have had to work so hard," and now they were old and had no money. But while they were complaining an old man appeared and said: "If you will only stop complaining of Adam and Eve I will give you everything you want."

They then got a fine house and everything they needed, but a dish was set in the middle of the table which they must not touch.

At first it seemed all right, but after a time curiosity got the better of the old woman and she wanted her husband to open the dish, but he would not. So she opened it herself and out jumped a little mouse.

Just then the old man appeared and they were sent from the house again on account of her curiosity.

The little story is not very interesting to big girls, but it is nice for smaller children.

It is about time I will have to close now, as it is bedtime.

Good-bye,
Your loving niece,
Florence Rilla Poshay.

Got New Motor Boat.

Dear Uncle Dick,
I thought I would enter this week's contests.

My brothers and I have got a new motor boat.

I will have to close as this pen is so bad.

Who's Who and What's What in the Picture World and on the Stage---Favorites and What They Say and Do.

Mr. L. Ernest Oulmet, who was one of the first men here in the motion picture business. Mr. Oulmet is general manager of the Specialty Film Import, Ltd., successors to Pathe, with head offices in Montreal.

Part of the address given by Mr. L. E. Oulmet before the Motion Picture Convention in Halifax: "Being called to say a few words on account of being one of the first in the picture game in the Maritime Provinces, I recall very well whom I sent here in 1907. I think he was a very good friend with everybody and the man who got some of you interested in starting a picture show; I have named Edward Auger. Today he occupies a very good position in one of the biggest moving picture firms in America.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am not in the habit of speaking in public and the most strenuous part of it is I have to talk in English, a language I have had to learn in the street which, I think, is the very strongest drawback for us of the Province of Quebec. Men having a small education learn only French.

"I have pleasure in congratulating you for the idea of organizing an association. It is about time that the moving picture business was run like other businesses. Why couldn't the moving picture exhibitor be represented in all our commercial organizations like any other trade in the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade? Our business has as big an investment as the majority of the others. As to different governments imposing special tax you would have more of it if you were not organized. Pretty nearly every member of parliament and city council thinks you are making a fortune because at night they see your house full, and quite often people waiting their turn to get in. They never figure the expenses you have. All they figure is the receipts you make and sometimes these are very much exaggerated. If you meet these people as a body when they are preparing by-laws they will understand. "Gentlemen, you can count on my co-operation at all times for the success of your association on the basis of a fair business deal."

Lionel Barrymore has begun work on another Metro play, a picturization of the short story, "The Woolworth Diamonds," by Hugh Weir. Mr. Barrymore has just completed his work on "The Upheaval" soon to be released on the Metro programme.

Pauline Frederick plays a dual role in her next Paramount feature, "Ashes of Embers." In the story written by Forrest Halsey, she impersonates two sisters, one a working girl who goes to jail for another's crime, the other a gay little butterfly.

Vivian Rich late of the American Studios, has been engaged to play the leading feminine role in the picturization of Peter B. Kyne's latest novel, "A Man's Man." The play will be released as a Gold Rooster feature on the Pathe programme.

Neva Gerber is featured in a coming Universal production, under the direction of Lois Weber. The picture will be a large affair to be released on the States rights system, and is said to teach a strong lesson through unusual means.

Robert Vivian, who appears with June Caprice in her next William Fox feature, "Little Miss Happiness," has had an international education, having attended school and college in England, France and Germany.

Gail Kane and Carlyle Blackwell have completed "The Little Comrade," for the World Equitable programme.

Lighthouse Built in Metro-Rolle Studio
For "The Dawn of Love."

The only lighthouse ever made and erected within doors was that set up in the Metro-Rolle studio for Mabel Taliaferro's five-act Metro wonder play, "The Dawn of Love." Portland Head Light, off Fort William, Maine, was reproduced in every detail for the purposes of the picture.

The original lighthouse was used for most of the scenes of the photoplay, but the government of the actual switching on and off of the light necessary for the action of the play, and so Metro was compelled to incur the expense of reproducing the lighthouse in its entirety, for the sake of a few scenes.

Edward J. Shultz, technical director, made the plans, and the lighthouse was built, the exact size of Portland Headlight, by Patrick J. Carey with five assistants. Working on shifts, day and night, they finished it in six days. The studio lighthouse is made in four sections, which are superimposed one upon another. It is made of wood and profile board, with iron for the uprights. The lamp, which weighs half a ton, was brought into the building in an automobile, and auto and lamp were hoisted to the studio floor in the freight elevator.

The lower part of the studio lighthouse imitates the stone of the original, the upper part being of wood. A spiral staircase inside the house leads to a raised balcony, from which a straight ladder leads to the lamp house itself. There are only two windows in the building.

A wealth of dramatic action takes place in the lighthouse. Miss Taliaferro and the "villain" of the play, Martin J. Faust, struggle all the way from the lamphouse down the spiral staircase, when Miss Taliaferro is picked up and carried out of the house bodily. The light star herself manipulates the great light.
