OUR CUTTING SCHOOL For Tailors, Organized 1884,

is having a highly successful career. Nothing is left undone to continue its usefulness as a college where men are practically educated in the best methods of garment-cutting for gentlemen.

This school is under the management of cutters of the highest reputation, not only as skilled workmen, but as teachers capable of properly imparting their knowledge to others. The course of study includes practical illustrations of measuring and drafting by various methods, and explanations of the causes of faults, as well as the proper remedies for their correction. If desired, instructions will also be given in a perfect method of graduating proportionate patterns and their use as a basis of cutting. Also, when desired, books containing drafts and directions for future reference will be furnished.

A very interesting innovation has been introduced in this school. It is presented to the pupil during the latter part of his term, at which time he is well enough advanced in the other branches of the art to appreciate its advantages. The new departure is the exhibition to pupils of the practical results to be achieved by the methods in which they have been instructed. This is done by measuring, drafting and cutting the goods, making them up and trying them on the form measured. This addition to the regular course of study has never been introduced in any other cutting school, and the value of this practical illustration is equivalent to six months' practice at the cutting-table.
