

CONTENTS OF VOLUME II

ANTECEDENTS OF THE CRIME

CHAPTER I

THE PREVENTIVE WAR

	PAGE
Preventive War or War of Conquest?—Honest and Dishonest "Preventive-Warriors"—Schiemann "The German Déroulède" and other "Preventive-Warriors"—The True Traitors—Francis Delaisi—Schiemann and Greindl—The Entente an Aggressive Alliance?—The Aggressive Conspiracy of Reval (1908) and the Method of Snippets—The Bosnian Crisis, 1908-9—The Tactics of Falsification of Schiemann and Co.—The German Military Law and the French Three Years Law—The Anglo-Russian Naval Consultations—The Entente Conspiracy invented by Schiemann—Sir Edward Grey's Constant Disappointment—The Moroccan Agreement of 1911—The Venezuela Conflict—Italy's Rôle in the War—Lies have "Short Legs"—The Negotiations for an Anglo-German Understanding in the Light of Schiemann's Historical Investigations. The Agadir Incident—Confession of a Preventive War and other "Discrepancies"—Correspondence between Grey and Cambon, November, 1912—The Historical Antecedents and the History of the Crime.	1-93

CHAPTER II

THE THEORY AND THE PRACTICE OF THE PREVENTIVE WAR

Bismarck and the Preventive War—Strategy and Diplomacy—Frederick the Great—When is War Inevitable?—The Three Presuppositions of a Preventive War—The Military Preparations of the Triple Entente and the Triple Alliance—Which Side made Greater Military Preparations before the War, the Triple Alliance or the Triple Entente?—Effective Peace Strength of Army and Navy—The Fall
--