FISH AND OYSTERS.

For the new year the fish business looks more promising than was expected, as the unsuitable weather during the end of last year made business of a hand-to-mouth character, consequently there is no stock of any size in retailers' or jobbers' hands at present, and when the demand starts again, as it is expected to do this week, a large turnover will probably take place, particularly in frozen lines. Reports are coming in which state that eastern fish will be short this season, and naturally prices should advance. It is also rumoured that fishing poor on the Manitoban lakes, and consehas been quently the trade is looking for an advance on white, yellows and pike. The demand for all kinds of pickled, salt and canned fish is small. The bulk and shell oyster trade is keeping up well, and no change in prices except the resuming of their normal market condition has or is expected to take place.
