Once More the Proof is Given

That Dodd's Kidney Pills will Cure the Deadly Bright's Disease.

Martin O'Grady Suffered From Bright's Disease for a Year, but the old Reliable Kidney Remedy Cured Him

Emmett, Renfrew Co., Ont., March 28.—(Special).—That the one sure cure for Bright's disease, the most deadly of all kidney diseases, is Dodd's Kidney Pills, is again proved in the case of Martin O'Grady, of this place. And for the benefit of other sufferers, Mr. O'Grady has given the following statement for publication:

"For over a year I suffered from Bright's disease. I was attended by a doctor, but he did me no good. My appetite was fitful, my sleep broken and unrefreshing. My memory failed me and I was always tired and nervous. I had sharp pain and pressure at the top of my head.

"Being advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, I bought a couple of boxes and found relief soon after I started taking them."

This is only one of hundreds of cases in which Dodd's Kidney Pills have conquered the worst form of kidney disease. They never fail to cure Bright's disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lumbago, or Sciatica.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Miscellaneous.

FLAXSEED AND ROLLED OATS.

A member of our family has a great desire to eat flaxseed and rolled oats. Do you think it will injure her health?

A SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—We should think it would be quite safe—providing she eats a reasonable amount, thoroughly well cooked.

LEAKY SLATE SINK.

We have a slate sink in the house, which has sprung a leak in the joints. Could you give any advice for mending so as to hold hot and cold water?

E. M. W.

Ans.—A plumber states that probably shavings of lead forced into the opening joints with a chisel or other tool, might stop the leakage. Another thinks melted alum, or melted resin, with a little talow in it, might answer the purpose. The parts should be thoroughly dry before applying any of these.

AMERICAN CORPORATIONS—A CO-PARTNERSHIP DIFFICULTY.

1. Is there any form of name or word used in corporation name of limited-liability joint-stock companies in the United States, that they may be known as such limited-liability companies, as the word "limited" is used in Canada?

2. A and B are in a partnership business (farming), which is kept in good financial standing, but B has become involved in private debt, which consists of mortgage on a house and lot, which is not on property, or included in the partnership business, some promissory notes, and outstanding accounts. His liabilities exceed all assets, including interest in partnership interest. His creditors have decided on assignment. Can the other partner, A, be called upon to pay any of B's debts under aforesaid circumstances?

YOUNG FARMER.

Ans.—1. All the different States have different laws relating to joint-stock companies, and it would be necessary to know to what particular State you refer before your query could be answered.

CEMENT FIREPLACE.

I purpose to build (of one-third cement, two-thirds sand) log fireplace, three feet wide, two feet deep, inside; base, one foot thick, tapering to six inches, at five feet high, carrying it up through the roof at the six inches. Will the cement stand fire? Could it be improved by adding more cement? What size should the vent be inside? Would it do built with an arch front, no other support but the cement and sand?

G. B.

Ans.—Concrete made of proportions 1 part cement, 2 parts sand, will make a No. 1 fireplace, if the sand to be used is properly selected. An additional amount of cement will not improve. The amount of material, as suggested in your letter, is more than is required to build this chimney. Four inches thick would be sufficient to make the concrete at any part. There now are many reinforced concrete chimneys for factory purposes from 250 to 350 feet high. Those chimneys on the upper sections are only three inches thick. Of course, they are reinforced with iron. When with concrete chimneys you can withstand the heat of iron furnaces and smelting works, it is needless to say that for dwelling-house purposes no better chimney can be erected, and that any fire which would be used in a dwelling-house would not have any effect upon the chimney. For a two-story house, the inside of chimney should be 8 x 12 inches. The fireplace should be built with an arch in front of any desired width, and would be all right without any support but the cement, but the usual method is to lay in two iron rods, 1-inch in thickness across the top of the arch, having rods bent at the ends. The rods are laid in the cement about 1 inch from the surface, and sufficient concrete thoroughly tamped in around them. A little wire reinforcing might also be used in the concrete immediately surrounding the fireplace, which will prevent the chimney from cracking, should it become overheated.
