Political Letter From Ottawa

Ottawa, April 5th, 1921—Decisively defeated in its attempt to get a snap verdict over the Government after the Easter recess, the official opposition has reverted to its old tactics of guerilla warfare on a small scale. Thus while little or no attempt is being made by Mr. King to challenge the Government on broad national issues, the House is being daily inflicted with carping, haphazard criticism the only result of which is to give rise to hectic, purposeless debate and to impede the progress of business. Meanwhile, and herein lies the real weakness of the Opposition's case, no attempt has been made to call the committee on Public Accounts. The Committee on Public Accounts comprises a select list of parliamentarians from all parties who hold what is practically an audit of the public accounts. Its duty is to pass upon the reports of the Auditor General, in which is given specific, detailed accounts of all Government expenditures for the year, to check them, to examine them, and, if deemed necessary, to challenge their accuracy. It is the one great check which Parliament has over the Government's administration. In the old days, this Committee was almost constantly in session, and too often transactions were unearthed which, serving as a deterrent upon future Governments, revealed recklessness and waste in public expenditure. Today, there is a change. While the anti-Government press and members of the two Oppositions delight to make insinuations and irresponsible statements reflecting upon the Government's integrity and efficiency they do not dare to put their charges to the test of an inquiry by the Public Accounts. During the whole of the war, when hundreds of millions of dollars were being expended, and opportunities for graft abounded, the Opposition, which dealt in innumerable innuendoes about the Government's dishonesty, never as much as once called for an audit by this Committee. And even today, when expenditure is still on a colossal scale, when the country is embarked upon all kinds of new enterprises, so confident is the Opposition that an inquiry would reveal neither dishonesty nor waste that they have not even asked that the public Accounts Committee be called. It is much easier and safer, to be critical without the facts.

The Railway Situation

The railway situation still dominates the political state. There has been no new developments, outside of a great deal of friction with the Grand Trunk, but it is believed that important events are impending. The Grand Trunk directors in London have made a lot of the fact that they were compelled to default on bonds which the Government guaranteed, the London press, under the inspiration of Sir Alfred Smithers, have teemed with the matter, but there is reason for stating that when all the facts are disclosed, as they may be before this is in print, whatever discredit there is will rest not with the Government but with the Grand Trunk. Meanwhile cabled despatches from London hinting that the Government may abandon its project of taking over the road altogether may be dismissed as idle. The Government realizes that acquisition of the Grand Trunk is an essential step in the rounding out of the National Railways system and has not the slightest intention of turning back on its well-known and clearly-defined railway course.

The Financial Situation

The financial situation, unfortunately, shows little sign of improvement. International trade is still dislocated, exports are still on the decline, customs revenue is falling off and exchange, the most vital of all economic problems with which the country is faced shows no tendency toward improvement. Under the circumstances, Sir Henry Drayton's budget speech is being eagerly awaited. What new proposals it may contain in the way of taxation, nobody but the cabinet knows, but one thing at least is certain; that with exchange at its present rate, with the Canadian dollar worth not more than 85 cents in New York, tariff reductions, which would almost certainly have the effect of further decreasing its value, need not be expected.

Cabinet reorganization is not dead, but sleeping. It is understood that nothing will be done until the Prime Minister returns from the London Conference of Premiers, which will be early in July. Meanwhile the sessional program will be carried out without a hitch the Ministry having established itself securely in the confidence and support of the House.

Canada May Have New 5 Cent Piece

If a resolution, notice of which was made in the house by Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, is passed, Canada will shortly have a new five-cent piece composed of pure nickel metal. It is proposed to have the coin weigh 70 grains and to make it the same size or very nearly the same size, as the new Canadian one-cent piece.

The American five-cent piece, which is popularly called a "nickel" and is generally thought to be composed of the nickel metal, is in reality only 25 per cent nickel and 75 per cent base metal.

As all Canadian metal money-pieces must have the same face the new piece will bear the familiar features of majesty and the words "Georgius V Dei Gra Rex Et Ind. Imp." There may be some slight variation in the under side of the coin.

If legislation is passed authorizing the minting of these new coins 7,000,000 would have to be run off in the first year. This is about the average number of five cent pieces issued yearly.

During the high price period of silver it was found that the face value of the Canadian five and 25 cent pieces was less than the intrinsic metal value. Consequently many coins were taken out of circulation by people and melted down. Such legislation as is now asked for is intended to forestall any such repetition in the future.
