Duke of York's Farewell To the People of Canada.

H. M. S. Ophir, at Halifax, N. S., October 19th, 1901.

Dear Lord Minto,--Before leaving Canada, I am anxious to make known through you with what regret the Duchess and I bid farewell to a people who, by their warm heartedness and cordiality, have made us feel at home amongst them from the first moment of our arrival on their shores.

I should like particularly to express our gratitude for the generous feeling which has prompted all classes to contribute towards that hearty and affectionate welcome which we have everywhere met with. This has been so strikingly shown, not only in the demeanour of the crowds, and the general manifestations of rejoicing with which we have greeted, but also by the trouble and ingenuity displayed in the illuminations and street decorations, carried out with such conspicuous taste and success by private persons as well as by the Government and local authorities.

We are greatly touched to find in the smallest and most remote places through which we passed what great efforts had been made by the inhabitants to manifest their kindly feelings towards us.

I recognize all this as a proof of the strong personal loyalty to the throne, as well as a declaration of the deep seated devotion on the part of the people of Canada to that unity of the Empire of which the Crown is the symbol.

We wish to record our most sincere thanks to the Dominion Government, the Provincial Authorities, the Municipal bodies and private individuals, for their generous hospitality, their kind forethought, and the extreme care and trouble they have bestowed upon all the arrangements for the reception and accommodation of ourselves and our staff. I feel that we are especially indebted to Mr. Pope, by whom so much of the detail was ably dealt with.

Wherever we have been, the police duties were admirably carried out, and we wish to express our special obligation to the Commissioner of the Dominion Police and other police officials for the excellent manner in which they have discharged the important responsibilities developing upon them.

Short as unfortunately our stay in West Canada had to be, it was sufficient for us to understand something of its boundless possibilities, and the scope which it affords to those who, with a spirit of enterprise, determination and willingness to work, desire to seek a wider, less crowded and richer field than that offered by the congested industries and professions of the Mother Country.

I trust that these possibilities may be taken advantage of in the future, and that suitable emigrants from the Mother Country may come in larger numbers.

At Calgary we witnessed a large and representative gathering of Indians. Then and on other occasions addresses were presented from different tribes. I was glad to hear of the progress they have made and the contentment in which they live under the arrangements made for their benefit by the Dominion Government.

One of the most important features of our visit was the enormous distance traversed by rail, and we feel a difficulty in adequately thanking the Dominion Government for all that was organized and most effectively carried out for our railway journeys. The train built especially for the occasion by the Canadian Pacific Railway was a marvel of convenience and comfort, and nothing seems to have been forgotten which might tend to reduce the fatigue inseparable from such a long journey. Special facilities were afforded to enable us to see the most striking points of interest in the vast regions of magnificent scenery through which we passed, while we received every possible attention and consideration from the officials and servants of the company.

To the authorities of the Grand Trunk and Intercolonial railways, also, our special thanks are due for all the trouble and consideration which they devoted to providing for the part of our journey which lay over their lines, and for the efficiency and success with which all the services were performed.

We hope that the public did not suffer on account of the special arrangements made for our travelling, which perhaps, necessitated some interference with the general traffic.

I am especially anxious to record my appreciation of that splendid force, the North West Mounted Police. I had the pleasure of inspecting a portion of the corps at Calgary, and was much struck with the smart appearance of both men and horses, and with their general steadiness on parade. They furnished escorts throughout our stay in western Canada; frequently escorted our carriages and found the transport, all of which duties were performed with ready willingness and in a highly creditable manner.

The reviews which were held at Quebec, Toronto and Halifax, enabled me to judge of the military capacity of the Dominion, and of the splendid material at its disposal. Many of the corps showed smartness and soldier-like bearing. I was glad to find that a Field Hospital organization has recently been provided, as well as a company of Engineers.

I was interested in our visit to the Royal Military College at Kingston, to see what excellent provision the Dominion Government has made available for the preliminary military education of its militia officers. Every country now recognizes the necessity of securing the greatest military efficiency in return for its outlay on defence, and that the material at hand should not be sacrificed for the lack of adequate training, and leading which can best be insured by a fully qualified staff.

I was delighted to have the opportunity of presenting a large number of medals to officers and men for services in South Africa, and it was most gratifying to see with what enthusiasm they were welcomed by their fellow citizens.

It was a great pleasure to us to be accompanied throughout our tour by the distinguished prime minister of the Dominion. As this must have been done at a great personal inconvenience we are all the more grateful to Sir Wilfrid Laurier for his valuable help and companionship.

And finally to Lady Minto and myself we wish to express our most sincere thanks for the unflinching kindness and generous hospitality which we have received as your guests, and also for the great pleasure and valuable assistance that we realized in the presence of either Lady Minto, or both of Your Excellencies, during our long journey.

I am further anxious to record my best thanks to Major Maude for the efficient manner in which he and the rest of your staff dealt with the exceptionally heavy and anxious work and overcame the numerous difficulties connected with our tour, and for all that they have done to help me and my own staff.

We wish it had been possible to remain longer in Canada, and, by availing ourselves of the many pressing invitations received from different centres, to have become acquainted more intimately with its various districts and their people. But we have soon enough to carry away imperishable memories of affectionate and loyal hearts; frank and independent natures; prosperous and progressive communities; boundless productive territories; glorious scenery, stupendous works of nature, a people and a country proud of its membership of the Empire, and in which the Empire finds one of its brightest offspring.

Our hearts are full at saying farewell. We feel that we have made many friends in all parts of the Dominion, and that we owe and gladly extend to its people our sincere friendship and good wishes. May the affectionate regard which all races and classes have so generously shown us, knit together the people of Canada, and strengthen the existing ties that unite the Empire. Believe me, Dear Lord Minto,

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) GEORGE.

Royalty at Loretto Convent, Niagara.

(Toronto Catholic Register, Oct. 17th.)

The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York spent Sunday at Niagara. They went eight o'clock until 6 o'clock. At Cedar Island the party detained and climbed the hill, which was about a quarter of a mile to Loretto Convent, situated at the top of the escarpment overlooking the mighty cataract. Major Maude let out a lively pace to enable him to reach the convent in time to inform the ladies of the near approach of the royal guests.

King's Evil

That is Scrofula. No disease is older. No disease is really responsible for a larger mortality. Consumption is commonly its outgrowth. There is no excuse for neglecting it. It makes its presence known by so many signs, such as glandular tumors, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting and general debility. Children of J. W. McGill, Woodstock, Ont., had scrofula so bad they could not attend school for three months. When different kinds of medicines had been used to no purpose whatever, these sufferers were cured, according to Mr. McGill's voluntary testimony.

Hood's Sarsaparilla which has effected the most wonderful, radical and permanent cures of scrofula in old and young.

The party arrived at the convent at 2.30 o'clock.

His Grace Archbishop O'Connor of Toronto, who was present, accompanied by Vicar-General McCann of Toronto, Rev. D. Bat, O. C. C. Prior of Carmelite Monastery, Falls View; Rev. Father Otto Wiedemann, O. C. C., and Father Benedict O'Neil of Niagara, Ont., all greeted the royal visitors at the portals of the convent. Inside His Grace presented Rev. Mother Superior and the Community of Loretto.

Immediately afterwards three young ladies stepped forward, Miss Irwin, O'Connor of Saint St. Marie, Ont., and Miss Frances Lemesurier of Niagara Falls, Ont., each presenting the Duchess with a large bouquet of white roses and maple leaves, and Miss Prudence Van-Do-Poole of Lynn, Mass., presenting the royal couple with a portfolio, containing views of the convent and surrounding scenery.

The Duke graciously thanked the young ladies, and immediately 80 pupils, dressed in white, wearing white roses and maple leaves, seated in tiers on either side of the Reception Hall, sang "God Save the King," accompanied by pianists and violinists. After a few minutes' conversation the royal party were escorted to the luncheon rooms. The tables were decorated with roses, smilax and maiden hair ferns. The party, after luncheon, visited the various parts of the Academy. Their Royal Highnesses climbed up the stairs to the cupola to enjoy the unsurpassed scenery of Niagara's cataract and river, also the beautiful surrounding country, and the woods, tinted in their royal colors.

While viewing the scenery from this elevated point the royal couple received quite an ovation from the crowd of spectators, who, notwithstanding the entirely private nature of the visit, had assembled by the hundreds, no doubt, with the hope of catching a glimpse of the heir apparent and the Duchess.

When the party returned to the reception rooms the pupils again greeted them with a glorious burst of songs. "Ave Maria Loretto," the class song of the Academy, was the selection now rendered. This number seemed specially to please Their Royal Highnesses, who asked to have it repeated a second and then a third time.

The little ones of the academy had expressed a desire to send some souvenirs, Indian dolls, birch bark canoes, etc., to the children of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall. When their wish was made known to the Duchess she was much pleased, and graciously accepted the proffered gifts, and gave the address to which they were to be sent.

The royal party expressed the entire satisfaction of their visit at the academy, and were highly pleased with the simplicity and homelike atmosphere that pervaded the institution. Lord Minto remarked that the ladies of Loretto had made a little home for the royal party on their visit to the Falls.

The academy was appropriately decorated in the royal colors, and the balconies were draped and festooned with bunting and royal and Canadian flags. In the interior decorations, roses and maple leaves predominated.

When the royal party were viewing the scenery from the cupola they asked the direction of Buffalo, and when told, they viewed with seeming interest the top pinnacles of the Pan-American buildings and tower, which were quite discernible by the aid of glasses.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

The visit of Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall to Loretto Convent on Sunday was one of the most agreeable features of their stay in the Niagara Peninsula. The royal party honored Archbishop O'Connor and Rev. D. F. Bat, prior of the Carmelite Monastery, which is situated near the convent, by inviting them to join them in the luncheon partaken of in the Convent, and both of these reverend gentlemen had long conversations with Their Royal Highnesses, who spoke in the highest terms of the very kind receptions given them everywhere in Canada. The Duke mentioned specially his appreciation of the handsome decorations and displays in his honor on the beautiful New Monastery of the Carmelite Fathers, and said that his visit there was one of the most pleasant and enjoyable events in his Canadian tour.

An amusing incident occurred as the party were leaving the grounds. A little girl broke through the crowd and the guards around the Duke and Duchess, and insisted upon being allowed to speak to the Duchess. Her Royal Highness, who is noted for her pleasant and kind disposition and manners, greeted the little one very graciously.

The day was a lovely one, and was well calculated to show Their Royal Highnesses our beautiful autumn season at its best. The view of the Falls and the surrounding country is a most charming one from the Convent windows and tower. The sun shimmering on the fascinating cataract, the fine perspective of the river stretching up towards Chippawa, the charming autumn tints of the densely wooded country all about, the enthusiastic crowds of people anxious for a glimpse of a couple, now growing familiar and dear to the people.

It is a pity that these "big" pictures could not fail to make glad and happy the hearts of the royal couple; and, judging by their happy appearance and the many expressions of thanks which they tendered to the kind and thoughtful hostesses, the good Ladies of Loretto, the Duke and Duchess were more than pleased with the visit. The Sisters had left nothing undone to make the occasion in every way worthy of the distinguished guests.

Says the Guidon: "The amount you owe for a paper or magazine is a debt as real and legitimate as that which you owe to your landlord or grocer, and is not paid by saying you do not want it any longer. To say you only subscribed for a year when you continue to take it without a word for two or three years is only a quibble. Would your landlord forgive you the rent, when occupying his house for a year, you should tell him you only hired it for a month?"

"The German Catholic Congress which recently closed its sessions at Onabrook," says Dominicans, "made a prominent feature of its discussions and resolutions the vital work of the Catholic press, as this is one of the most powerful weapons in the hands of the Church for the defence of faith and the protection of morals. The zeal of the Catholics of Germany is an admirable example to the faithful of other lands, from whatever point we view their conduct and manner of expressing their devotion and loyalty. Not the least of their achievements is the maintenance of vigorous and representative Catholic publications."

Just at this juncture the following strong paragraph from the Atheneum is more than usually impressive:

As in Cyprus the remains of Frankish splendor point mainly to French knights (it was so in Greece also), so now in Palestine the medium of culture and good education comes largely from the devotion and persistency of the French Roman Catholic missions,—excellent institutions respected all over the world by those who know them. It has come to our knowledge lately that in the far Pacific islands the French Fathers stand out superior to the rival missions for refinement, toleration, and unselfish piety. It is very interesting that the religious Orders so harshly treated by the home government should be the mainstay of the imperial position of France in the Levant, and the only maintainers of her old and just influence.

These words from the most scholarly literary journal in the English language lose no force when one remembers that perhaps not one member of the large staff of the Atheneum is a Catholic. Those who have heard and studiously heeded the reports about the friars in the Philippines might pause and ask themselves, Is it reasonable to suppose that there is such a difference between the Spanish Fathers and the French Fathers, after all?—Ave Maria.

About a year ago Daniel O'Connell, said to be a lineal descendant of the great Liberator, died at his home near San Francisco. Across the beautiful bay, near to the Golden Gate, he found inspiration for the poetry with which he clothed his thoughts of many years. His career was a varied one. He was a son of the University of Dublin and a commissioned officer in the English army; but his Bohemian instincts and impatient temperament made him impatient under discipline, and in the late Sixties he left the service and gave himself up to the uncertain fortunes of literature, writing with skill and a free discretion upon any subject which offered. His favorite spot for meditation was an eminence near his chosen home; and on that hill his friends are building his monument, a simple seat of granite, with approaching steps. His last poem, what has been called his "swan song," will be engraved upon the panels. "The Chamber of Sleep" he named it, with the prophetic foreboding of one who saw the shadows lengthening after a long and dreary day.—Ave Maria.

Richards' Headache Cure gives instant relief.
