CHAPTER XXXIX. WITHIN TWO YEARS.

The coachman pulled up, the window was let down, and the lady, who had a pleasant, mournfully sweet face, said, in a hurried, anxious way: "Do you belong to the Hall?"

Seemingly much embarrassed by the sudden movement and question, and apparently unconscious of its import, the youth answered at random: "Yes, ma'am."

"Then can you tell me," said the lady, with increased hesitation and eagerness, "if Sir Charles Anderson rides in the race?"

The youth stared for a moment; then, with a shake of the head, said: "I am sorry, madam, but I can not—"

At that moment another shout arose, followed by a shower of bravos and hurrahs.

The lady, with augmented distress, told the coachman to drive on and, sinking back, left the slim, red-haired youth gazing after her with a strange and peculiar look upon his face.

He stood, very much as he had stood before the new Hall, for quite a minute; then, as if suddenly aroused from a dream, started forward in the direc-

Youth and Age

THERE is no time in woman's life that she cannot benefit by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, in order to keep up the supply of pure, rich blood and to ensure a healthful condition of the nervous system.

Headaches, neuralgia, sleeplessness, nervous spells, irritability, tired, worn-out feelings, soon disappear when the vigor and energy of the nerves are restored by the use of this great food cure.

foremost. He was taken to the Warren yonder. "Sh, sh!" he broke off, suddenly. "Here comes the captain."

The youth had scarcely time to fall back behind a tree—while the stable-boy took to his heels—when Captain Dartmouth strode rapidly by. He had hastily thrown off the silk jacket and as he stepped forward on a light coat.

His face was as dark as night—darker than even it was in the old days when the certain young girl used to shrink from it; but the slim youth seemed to feel no fear of him as he stepped from behind the tree and looked after the retreating figure. His small hands were clinched at his side, and his lips shut tight, looking more defiant than frightened, more threatening than submissive.

CHAPTER XL.

"ALL IS SAFE—ALL MUST BE SAFE."

"Look well where no suspicion rests, for there, The chances are, will be the snare."

The morning after the race arrived. It was nearly noon, but the great palace on the hill was still silent and to all appearance wrapped in sleep.

The eventual day had finished up with a ball, at which the numerous and fashionable guests did not omit to mention "poor Sir Charles," but were seemingly none the less merry and happy for his broken leg or neck. It was a ball more brilliant and successful, if possible, than the one on the opening night, and the merry-makers, who had not retired to their luxurious nests until the small hours, were taking their revenge upon the bright, fresh hours of the summer morning.

We have said the "guests" advisedly, for the host was less idle, having risen at the early hour of ten, taken his scented bath, donned, or, rather, suffered himself to be invested in his luxurious dressing-robe of satin and gold thread, and was sitting sipping his chocolate in the morning-room of the elegant suite set aside for his own private and special use.

His letters, and there were many, were not suffered to annoy or disturb his first waking moments; they lay on the desk in the adjoining apartment.

Solicitations from new companies for the honor of his name as director; begging letters from evangelical parsons, secretaries, and collectors on behalf of the Red Flannel Jacket Society for the Eskimo Aborigines; the Grand Society for Distributing Coals and Cheap Fuel Among the Starving Africans of Bolgarioo; the Benevolent Organization of Charitable Humbug Society, and other bodies of that ilk; letters from pious clerics imploring the new Squire of the Dale to confer the living of the parish upon the great undersigned; letters from indefatigable lion-hunters, who demanded the honor of Captain Dartmouth's presence at the soiree at Holywell House on the occasion of an address to be delivered by the great Indian stamper, Lionel Yellowmane Forest, Esq., etc.

All this correspondence and a multitudinous quantity of other sorts—business and pleasure—Captain Dartmouth was expected to answer. And, unlike many other men, who, in his place, would have pitched the whole maternal pile head foremost into the

SUFFERING OF YOUNG WOMEN

This Letter Tells How It May be Overcome—All Mothers Interested.

Toronto, Ont.—"I have suffered since I was a school girl with pain in my left side and with cramps, growing worse each year until I was all run down. I am a children's nurse, and I was so bad at times that I was unfit for work. I tried several doctors and patent medicines, but was only relieved for a short time. Some of the doctors wanted to perform an operation, but my father objected. Finally I learned through my mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and how thankful I am that I tried it. I am relieved from pain and cramps, and feel as if it has saved my life. You may use my letter to help other women, as I am only too glad to recommend the medicine."—JANE KENT, 42 Blandford Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Girls who are troubled as Miss Kent was should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who need special advice may write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. These letters will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A PRETTY SUMMER FROCK.

2816—This is a charming model, especially for slender figures. It is just the thing for organdie, dimity, voile and crepe, and will require little trimming excepting a smart sash or belt of bright ribbon. Dotted swiss, with collar of organdie or net edged with Val. lace, and a sash of Chinese yellow or liberty red, would be very attractive for this style.

The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 will require 6½ yards of 27 inch material. The skirt measures about 2 yards at the foot, with plaits drawn out.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

A SIMPLE PRETTY FROCK FOR THE LITTLE GIRL.

Pattern 3261 is here portrayed. It is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 3, 4, and 5 years. A 4 year size will require 3¾ yards of 27 inch material.

As here shown dotted challie in white and blue was used. Piping of white poplin trim the dress. This model is pretty in dimity or Swiss with lace or embroidery. It is also nice for gingham, percale and pique.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

BOYS' CLOTHES Are Cheap.

This is a fact! Still we know some of our readers are going to stop and say—"Tain't so, nuthin is cheap!" But you are wrong, and there are various things cheap to-day, but the trouble is most people don't want cheap things. Times are changed since we were boys, when the sign of a good healthy boy was to go round with—well, patched on his trousers. Accidents would occur sliding down trees and roofs, and getting over fences. But our story is,—we have just opened a range of

Boys' Am. Grey Tweed Suits,

Two-Piece Suits to fit ages 9 to 14 years.
Price Range being $9.60 to $10.60.

Boys' Heavy Khaki Drill Suits,

Ages 4 years to 10 years. Only $4.90 suit, for all sizes.

These Khaki Suits will wear like a bit of iron. They are made Military Style but can be altered if required. The coat comes with four pockets, each with a Buttoned Flap, and Coat Buttons are detachable Military Metal Buttons. The Pants have two front pockets and one on the hip, and also Belt Support Straps. Consider this price of $4.90 and you will find nobody will even just make a boy's suit for that price to-day (excluding the materials), unless the boy's mother. And she will do this even if she doesn't get a vote; and who will say that a capable woman like that doesn't deserve one.

We have some other Boys' Tweed Suits in stock in odd sizes at prices of some time ago.

We have Boys' Tweed Pants in stock at low prices.

We have even some Boys' Odd Vests in stock at the moment.

TALKING ABOUT

Older Stock and Older Values,

ALL OUR BOYS' COTTON SUITS AND BLOUSES ARE SELLING AT LAST YEAR'S PRICES, SO THEY ARE CHEAP AS WELL AS GOOD STYLES.

We had more Boys' Cotton Suits and Blouses last year than we had Summer. This year we will have more Summer.

We Have a Good Range of

Cotton Rompers for Little Chaps

To tell the truth we purchased some of these this year, but you will find good values here in spite that.

If the boy is going camping this Summer he may want an Oil Coat. We have them at last Fall's prices. Goods bought at this Spring's prices were mostly high, but the prices quoted for Fall staggered us. We can therefore advise you in all faith to buy before newer prices come into effect.
