TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

SCHOONER SUNK.
PORTLAND, Maine, Nov. 10.
The tern schooner Samuel Hart, of New York, was sunk in collision with the sea going tug, Wyoming, five miles east of Small Point at the entrance to Casco Bay late yesterday. The crew were taken off safely and are with the Wyoming.

JUDGMENT ON MONDAY.
MONTREAL, Nov. 10.
Judgment in the case of Sir Montagu Allan is to be handed down by Chief Justice DeCarter on Monday next. It was announced to-day, when the decision, due yesterday, was postponed until Monday.

SLENDER MAJORITIES.
CHICAGO, Nov. 10.
There will be a continuation of Republican control in Congress, but the majority of one sixty five is cut to fifteen, and the Senate majority cut in half it was assured last night by practically complete, but unofficial reports of Tuesday's elections. While Republicans retained only seven above a House majority of two hundred and eighteen, and five above a Senate majority of forty eight, they will have in the next Congress a plurality of eighteen over Democrats in the House and eleven over Democrats in the Senate.

CHINESE MARINE CASUALTY.
SHANGHAI, Nov. 10.
Two hundred persons are reported to have perished in a fire on the river boat Ta Shing, carrying passengers and produce between Shanghai and T'ung-Ming Island, off the Yangtze River.

ISMET HAS A PIPE DREAM.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 10.
Ismet Pasha, Turkish Nationalist Foreign Minister, left here yesterday afternoon for Lausanne to attend the Peace Conference scheduled to begin there on Monday. He told the Associated Press he was sincerely for peace, and confident of achieving it, if the Allies adopted a reasonable attitude.

MYSTERIOUS SITUATION.
LONDON, Nov. 10.
No one in England seems to know whether the Near East situation is better or worse. Since the Turks cut the cable near Chanak, news has been of a vague nature, and the air is full of disquieting rumors.

HAS A WAR OF ITS OWN.
DUBLIN, Nov. 10.
There was heavy firing throughout the night in various parts of the city, when irregulars renewed their attack upon Wellington barracks, and also fired upon Portobello barracks. Early morning hours were made hideous by the rattle of machine guns. Two civilians were found dead in the suburbs, and two soldiers were wounded in the city.

THE STRICT LETTER.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 10.
The Allied High Commissioners have handed a note to the Ankara Government, representative here, demanding the repeal of all measures relating to customs, public debt and sanitary and other services, which conflict with capitulations and stipulations of the Mudros Armistice Agreement made in 1918.

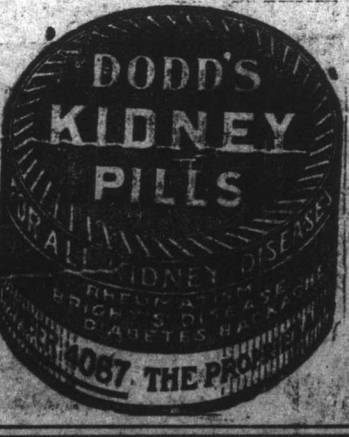

ALWAYS PROTECTING THE FALL-EN MIGHTY.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 10.
British troops continue to protect Yildiz Palace which the Sultan is now occupying, and last night the Sovereign received Sir Horace George M. Rumbold, British High Commissioner, and expressed his appreciation of the protection afforded by the British.

HEAD BYRNE PROMINENT.

By last mail detective Head Constable J. Byrne received a splendid photograph from Secretary Douglas McKay of the Foreign Police Department and members of the International Police Conference held at City Hall, New York, during October month. This photograph is very clear, and Head Byrne is easily discernible in the group which contains over 500.

United Fishermen's Meeting.

FLEET EXPECTED TO-NIGHT.

S.S. Sulu, Capt. Roberts, is due here at daylight to-morrow from Fogo. The ship left Lumsden at 2 a.m. to-day, having a large number of fishermen who are on the way to attend the United Fishermen's meetings which have been arranged to take place in the city. The Chairman of the movement, Capt. Jesse Winsor, is also on the ship. The preliminary meeting of fishermen to arrange a programme, takes place this evening in the Seamen's Institute. All the fishermen in port have signified their intention of attending. As the hall can only hold a limited number, admission is by ticket, and the best possible is being done by the Committee to distribute these without discrimination, but at the same time to fishermen only. The fleet may be expected along to-night as a large number of schooners were due to leave Catalina this morning.

Cross & Co., 180 Duckworth Street, will resume business at the old stand to-morrow morning, Saturday, with a full assortment of Hosiery and other useful goods.—nov10/22

Laborers Leave for Humber.

RATE OF PAY TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER HOUR.

A second contingent of unemployed, fifty in number, will be going out by special train from the railway depot this afternoon for Humbermouth. The laborers engaged are being sent from the city and points along the British line, a number of whom arrived by the shore train to-day at 12.30 p.m. The rate of pay, we understand, is 25c. per hour for an eight hour day, the laborers to find themselves.

Wedding Bells.

GOSSE—CAULE.
A quiet but very pretty wedding took place last evening at the R. C. Cathedral, the contracting parties being Miss Nellie Gosse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Gosse, Torbay and Mr. P. J. Caule, Rev. Monsignor MacDermott officiated. After the ceremony the happy couple motor-ed to Donovans, where a reception was held and the usual toasts were duly honored. The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Gosse, wore a travelling dress of fawn broadcloth with henna hat to match. The groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Harold Caule. Both bride and groom are very popular, being "volunteers" prominent members of the office staff of Job Stores, Ltd. The presents they received were many and costly, testifying to the high esteem in which they were held.

Pavements of Skulls and Precious Stones.

Have you ever heard of anyone constructing their roads of human skulls and precious stones?

What claimed to be the queerest pavement in the world was that at Gwanda, in Africa, this queer road being made of human skulls.

The town being small and oval in shape, a palisade of tree poles surrounded it for protection, and the top of each pole was crowned with a grinning skull.

At regular distances, along this palisade six gates were built leading to and from the city, the pavement of each gate also being made of human skulls. Of course only the tops of these bony objects could be seen, for the lower parts were buried or set in earth, to keep them rigid.

More than two thousand skulls were used in the pavement leading to each gate, and the road was kept snowy-white, and polished to the smoothness of ivory by the daily passage of hundreds of naked feet. Another queer and costly pavement was that once constructed at Kimberley, South Africa, and there are few boys who wouldn't have liked to set foot on such a road as this. Through some misunderstanding men who were constructing this road used some of the earth brought up from the diamond mines, and when the work was completed the road was found to be so thickly studded with diamonds that anyone walking along and knowing the worth of the stones, could pick up millions of dollars' worth of the precious gems. Pavements made of horses' teeth set in cement, granulated cork, shavings, compressed grass, molasses and sand, have been tried in different parts of the world, while such materials as steel, glass and India rubber for paving roads are familiar to all.
