plained his plan for dealing with the Irish Church. It is, in the first instance, to be immediately disendowed—and this disendowment is to be a complete stripping, so that even what is given back will be technically a re-endowment.—Bishops or incumbents are to be paid an annual income equal to his present rewill be technically a re-endowment.— Bishops or incumbents are to be paid an annual income equal to his present receipts, and also curates whose position has any pretension to be permanent. After the 1st of January, 1871, the Irish Bishops will cease to sit in the House of Lords, and jurisdiction of the Ecclesiastical Court in Ireland will be at end. But Mr. Gladstone also proposes that the State shall recognize, when it is formed, the "governing body" for the Irish Church, duly representing the bishops, the clergy, and the laity. This body is not to be created by the State, but is to be recognized by it only after it is formed; and when this "Church body" has been instituted, an incumbent may commute the position which he occupies to wards the State, and the pay which he wards the new, "governing body," and similar pay from it. The spirituality of the Irish Church will be untouched; it will continue to have its ordinary number of Bishops; and its connection with the English Church will be unaffected by the State. So far as we understand Mr. Gladstone's declaration, it will be a Free Church,in full communion with the Eng lish Church. While losing its State character, the Church union will be preserved. The Presbyterian Church in Ulster is to lose its Regium Donum, and the Catholic College of Maynooth its annual grant; but, in each instance, life interests are to be protected on precisely the same principles as those which Mr. Gladstone applies to the case of the Episcopal clergy.

As regards the disendowment, the Church is to retain all the private property bequeathed since 1660, the date of the Restoration—that being the period when the Irish Establishment really first took its present Protestant Episcopal shape.-It will, besides, obtain possession of all the churches which it has now in use.— Everything will be done to put an end to the local and annual payment of tithes

Last of all there is the great question of the surplus. Mr. Gladstone calculates that the capitalized value of the whole of the Irish Church property is, in round numbers, sixteen millions; over half of this amount will be absorbed in satisfying life interests, giving compensation to lay officials and owners, and in reserving private endowments and church build- GRAND EXHIBITION! The other eight millions, Mr. Gladstone proposes to apply to the main terance of county lunatic asylums and infirmaries for the deaf, dumb, and blind, and other persons afflicted with bodily in-firmities or deformities, who will hereaf-ter have no longer to depend on the dona-tions of the rich or the scanty offerings. tions of the rich or the scanty offerings of the poor. On the whole we are inclined to believe that this great bill of Mr. Hadstone's, in the thoroughness and simplicity of its principles, will be accepted by the British people as the best possible solution of a problem which for many years has been the source of "envy, hatred, malice, and all uncharitableness."

Russian Policy in Central Asia.

The London Examiner says that there is no denying the fact of Russia's gradual GOLDEN SYRUP. thority in Central Asia. A large rortical Amber Syrup, of Turkestan has fallen under dominion; and thanks to our maladroit diplomacy | Wonderfully cheap, at the Court of Teheran, Persia bas con to look dependently to her for aid and AT E. The possession of Herat, now as thirty years ago belli leter-plane cease, is contested by Persians and Afghans, upon the verge of whose contiguous territories it stands. Except to illustrate some foregone conclusions as to the hostile intentions of the Czar, it does not signify to us a camel's hair wifich of the two, whether fire worshippers or Osmanlis, garrison the unlucky place. All we have now to say is, let us neither be scared into doing what is foclish or dared into doing what is foclish or dared into doing what is foclish or dared into doing what is wrong. Our dominions in India are already wide enough in all conscience, too wide indeed to be easily and economically governed. It were sheer madness further to extend them. We have, moreover, already a frontier on the side of the Afghanistan much more easily defended than that which we should have to keep against Persia sulisidized by Russia, if we sought to garrison Candahar and to enlist the Bolocchees as light cavalry.

THE CATTLE PLAGUE.—The cattle disease has by no means disappeared across the Atlantic.
