HEY, THERE

Where, you grouchy people, do you sit around and peep, and don't you try to be cheerful and get that mopin' out?

What is it? Use in mornin' lettin' your spirits halt? Or be laughin' and praisin' day always findin' fault.

There, you gloomy knockers, whistle a bit an' sing. Why an' be good natured, and there's fun in everything.

There, you sullen people, wake up, and look above. You ought to be thankful you're livin' and know how to laugh an' love.

What's the use in mopin' and capin' your weepin' eyes? And in th' autumn sunshine and shout in the azure skies.

Here, you crabbed creatures, hurry, an' start up a song. It's light an' love an' laughter that pushes the world along.

Those people who are always "stickin' their dignity" are continually making friends and making enemies, fostering a spirit of unhappiness themselves.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

Francis B. Kaiser, late of the City of London, State of Utah, widow, deceased.

PURSUANT to Sec. 56, of Chapter R.S.O., 1914, notice is hereby given that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of Francis B. Kaiser, late of the City of London, State of Utah, who died on or about the 15th of March, A.D. 1919, are, on or before the 30th day of December, A.D. 1919, to send by post, pre-paid, to William Warnock, administrator with the will annexed, of the said deceased, their names and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of the nature of the securities, if any, held by them, and that after the last aforesaid day the said administrator will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased, among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to such claims as are above required, and not to such claims as are not so required, to any person or persons of whom no claim or claims notice shall have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated at Aylmer this 30th day of November, A.D. 1919.

higher Power which is working only for our own good, and who can see far better than we, just what that good is and in which direction it lies.

How many times, when we were children, did we yearn for the time when we would be our own boss. Yet, after we reach the age of responsibility, how we long to go back and be children again—to shift responsibility on broad shoulders and have someone to help us over the rough places.

Young people, each and every one of you hold in your own being the key of success or failure. And if you desire your life to be regarded as a success, before God and man, make it so. Do not give up the ideals of your youth. You may have to fight for them against odds—the world may laugh you to scorn—but fight and you will win and gain strength with the battle. "He that wrestles with us, strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill. Our antagonist is our helper."

How many times we see about us men and women who are failures at thirty-five—who are willing to give up the struggle and own themselves beaten—and just at the time when they are best equipped by nature and experience to win great things. Their failure, you will find, is always due to one of two things; either they have forgotten their dreams and their minds wander around in a sea of half-tried enterprises, or, remembering their dreams, they do not care enough to put their mind and heart into their work and stick. The best word in the vocabulary of any young person is that word "stick". If you stick to your ideals, you will win—give them up and lie down on the job and you will lose your chance of success and your self-respect, which is man's greatest asset, next to his love of God.

Trouble, in a way is a blessing in disguise, for it develops us morally, mentally and physically. There are a few people in the world who have never had any trouble. They are all good people, but mighty uninteresting, unsympathetic, and without real friends. And you never can tell where they are going to stand when trouble does come. It's the people who have met trouble in hand to hand combat and come off victors who are the dependable ones. Each new trial simply adds to their strength to fight the next and their determination to win. And they usually are much more happy and cheerful than others. They are learning how to live and their metal is being tested in the fiery furnace of life's storms. When the test is over, they will find a rich reward in store for them.

Do not excuse the house, furniture, or table you set before your guests. It is fair to suppose that their visits are to you, not to your surroundings.

It is a great mistake to suppose that the best work of the world is done by people of great strength and great opportunities. It is unquestionably an advantage to have both these things, but neither of them is a necessity to the man who has the pluck to achieve great results. Some of the greatest work of our time has been done by men of physical feebleness.

"The servant who works for me must be very, very economical," said the boarding-house mistress to the applicant for work.

"I'm such a one ma'am," promptly returned the applicant. "Indeed my last mistress discharged me for bein' that way."

"For being economical?"

"Yes, with me clothes; used to wear hers."

Sandy—"I disapprove o' ye wearin' ane o' those reedeeculous hobbie skirts, Janet."

His Wife—"Hoots, mon! Dinna ye see that it's made wi' about half the material?"

The train was pulling into Union Station, and as the passengers crowded to get off, the hotelman walked up and down calling "King George, King George?" Coming up to a gentleman, he said, while stooping for the man's bag, "King George, sir?" "No sir," replied the man, "you are mistaken." "I'm Mr. —" of Belleville. "She (after quarrel)—Here is your ring; take it! And please return the lock of hair I gave you."

Clerk (absently)—I don't know that I have it. But I can send you something just as good.

She was fair, fat and forty, was Flo Funniboise, and she wanted to go to a fancy-dress ball, and appear slim and tall in some dress—what she didn't know. "I think," she remarked, "Funniboise, that a role that would well suit my poise would be Helen of Troy." But he said—to annoy—"Why not Helen of Avondupois?"

RULES THE ROAD

The Forecast prints the following English-Japanese copy of the rules of the road that govern motor traffic in Japan.

At the rise of the hand of policeman, stop rapidly. Do not pass him, or otherwise disrespect him.

When a passenger of the foot hove in sight, tootle the horn trumpet to him melodiously at first. If he still obstacles your passage, tootle him with vigor and express by word of the mouth the warning, "Hi! Hi!"

Beware of the wandering horse that he shall not take fright as you pass him. Do not explode the exhaust box at him. Go soothingly by.

Give big space to the festive dog that make sport in the roadway. Avoid entanglement of dog with your wheel spokes.

Go soothingly on the grease mud, as there lurk the skid demon. Press the brake of the foot as you roll round the corners and save the collapse and tip up.

Knicker—Has Jones returned to his pre-war work? Bocker—Yes, he is looking for the same job he was looking for before the war.

A Salesman Writes
My "Four-Ninety" Chevrolet Roadster has now covered 1,000 miles at better than 23 miles per gallon. I have had no tire expense and the tires are good for at least 1,000 miles more.

FOR transportation the automobile has proven its economy and its convenience. It saves time. It saves energy. It gets you there, and back quickly and comfortably.

With a Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" Roadster you can save more than time and energy—you can save money. Here is a car that costs very little to operate. It is frugal with fuel and saving on tires. And yet it will satisfactorily fulfill every requirement that could be expected of an efficient, dependable motor car.

Come in and let us explain HOW and WHY Chevrolet transportation will give you maximum service at minimum cost.
