WRS, BRENNAN'S EXHIBITION OF TEMPER AT HUNTSVILLE,

itsa Jeffrey, Aged 19, Says She Had to Leave the Service of the Brennans Because Joe Astempted to Assault Her-Fifty Bollars of Huah Money—More Domestic Broils. Mr. Justice Falconbridge was occupied the greater part of yesterday with the now notorious case of Brennan v. Brennaa. The trial was advanced another stage but a fresh field of evidence was opened up, and the end is not yet. There was a good deal of speculation yesterday as to what the result of the remarkable piece of litigation would be, and some there were sufficiently venturesome to offer to take a small bet upon the verdict. His Lordahip at the close of the evidence for the defence suggested that an amicable settlement would be the most satisfactory termination to the matrimonal scandal. The counsel engaged in the case did not appear to think so. At any rate the judge's suggestion was coldly received—they would not reserved. Mr. Justice Falconbridge signified willingness to meet the counsel in his ared. The attempt to come to an agree ent was abortive, and the case will now b ht to the bitter end. There were some more witnesses to speak of Joe's good character, some more question ing of the severest type, some more lively domestic episodes revealed, and when the court rose at 6 o'clock there was still more testimony to follow. Mr. D'Alton McCarthy went to Montreal last night to address the found Rights masting in that city this even Equal Rights meeting in that city this even-ing. In his absence his namesake of Barrie, place. She looked pallid and careworn, occasionally somewhat listless, but as a rule watching the proceedings with intense interest. Joe was in attendance, listening to the statements of Miss Abbie Addie and Eliza Jeffrey with somewhat curious expression on his face.

Me Atways Missed Her,

Wil iam H. Hunt was the first witness called. He had known Joe for fully 18 years—was a frequent caller at his house, and he noticed that whenever Joe went out with him he aways kissed his wife good-bye. They seemed happy and contented and apparently loved each other very much. Under Mr. Neville's questioning the witness admitted that he had heard of Joe's doings with some girls, but he had never known him to be incapable from the use of liquor.

Alfred Rouse, foreman of the Central Fire Station, Hamilton, denied the stories about the drinking at the fire hall. M. A. Piggott and David Erown, two Hamilton contractors, declared Joe to be soler and well behaved.

John Alfred Brennau, brother of Joe, gave some particulars about the courtship and wedding and the subsequent married life of his brother and sister-si-law. The courtship was of the ordinary kind, but the plaintiff seemed to love each other—they spent a great deal of time in each other-seemed life he was at their louse one day and asked Libble if her

This closed the case for the defence.

What Took Place in the Kitchen.

Mr. Keer intimated that he proposed to adduce evidence in rebuttal of testimony given by Joe Breonan and on his behalf regarding improprieties during his married life. The first witness called was Eliza Jeffrey, a girl of 19 summers who had been a domestic in the employ of the Breinians, but who was now in service at West Toronto Junction. She remained a little more than a week and a little of it is the service at the service mained a little more than a week and a little less than a fortnight in the employ of the Brennaus.

Mr. Neviller Why did you leave?

Mr. D'Alton McCarthy: I object to this question, as it was not brought up during the progross of the plaintiff some.

Mr. Kerr: We did propose to bring it out but Your Lordship stopped us. It is certainly admissable by way of distinct contradiction.

Mr. D'Alton McCarthy submitted that the evidence could not be received in reply because they would be practically opening up a new case, the defence would have to give other sydence—and he was instructed that they could do so—in rebuttal. After some tencing between the counsel and a reference to the shorthand writer's note as to what had taken planes on a previous day. His Lordship decided to admit the evidence but cautioned Mr. Neville against asking leading questions.

The vituess then told the following story:

The reuson I left Mrs. Brennan's service was that Joe insuited ine. The little boy was taken ill with the croup one uight and Mrs. Brennan went out to the drugglet to get something for him. Joseph Brennan was in the house nursing the baby it, the dining room, I was is the Ricchen reading. Mr. Brennan came in and asked me what book I was reading, I told him it was none of his business. He then put the light out and attempted to assault me. I seremed, and he consequence of my screams he let me up. Next day I informed Mrs. Brennan he let me up.
